Senate Okay of Draft Tied to Pullout Date

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted to extend the draft two more years, sweeten soldiers' pay $2.7 billion and chart a Indochina withdrawal plan disowned in advance by the White House.

But after seven weeks of debate the Senate's 71 to 16 approval Thursday of the draft extension bill may well be too late for Congress to finish final action before the present Selective Service Act expires next Wednesday midnight.

Some senators threaten a filibuster if a House-Senate conference kills or weakens an end-the-war amendment added by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield.

One knowledgable senator predicts final action may not come before mid-July.

The immediate effect on the Selective Service System would be a dilemma over what to do about July and August draft calls which have not been issued.

But the law allows loopholes which could keep the draft functioning after a fashion for a while at least. For one thing the draft still could call up men who had been deferred and lost their deferments.

The Mansfield amendment calls for a phased withdrawal of U.S. troops over nine months if all U.S. prisoners of war are released. It is likely to receive a cool reception both in conference and on the House floor.

House antiwar forces never have mustered more than 158 congressmen to vote for any Vietnam withdrawal amendment.

The White House has said the Mansfield measure won't affect war policy.

Many Differences

The conference has more than a dozen differences to reconcile between the House and Senate versions of the bill. One of the most important is an amendment by Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., which raised the military pay boost to the same level approved by the House, but spread most of it among lower ranks.

Some senators had hoped to kill the draft outright as a means of forcing the military to adopt the all-volunteer armed force concept now.

The Nixon administration hopes the increased pay can prepare for an all-volunteer force after June 30, 1973. It says the draft will be needed until it is proven better pay and conditions really can attract suitable volunteers.

Quality of Men

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee and floor manager of the draft bill, attacked that hope as unrealistic, saying no possible set of benefits could attract the quality of men needed.

The Senate bill does limit the number of men who can be drafted to 130,000 the first year and 140,000 the second. The Defense Department has indicated considerably less than those nunbers will be required, unless there is a national emergency.

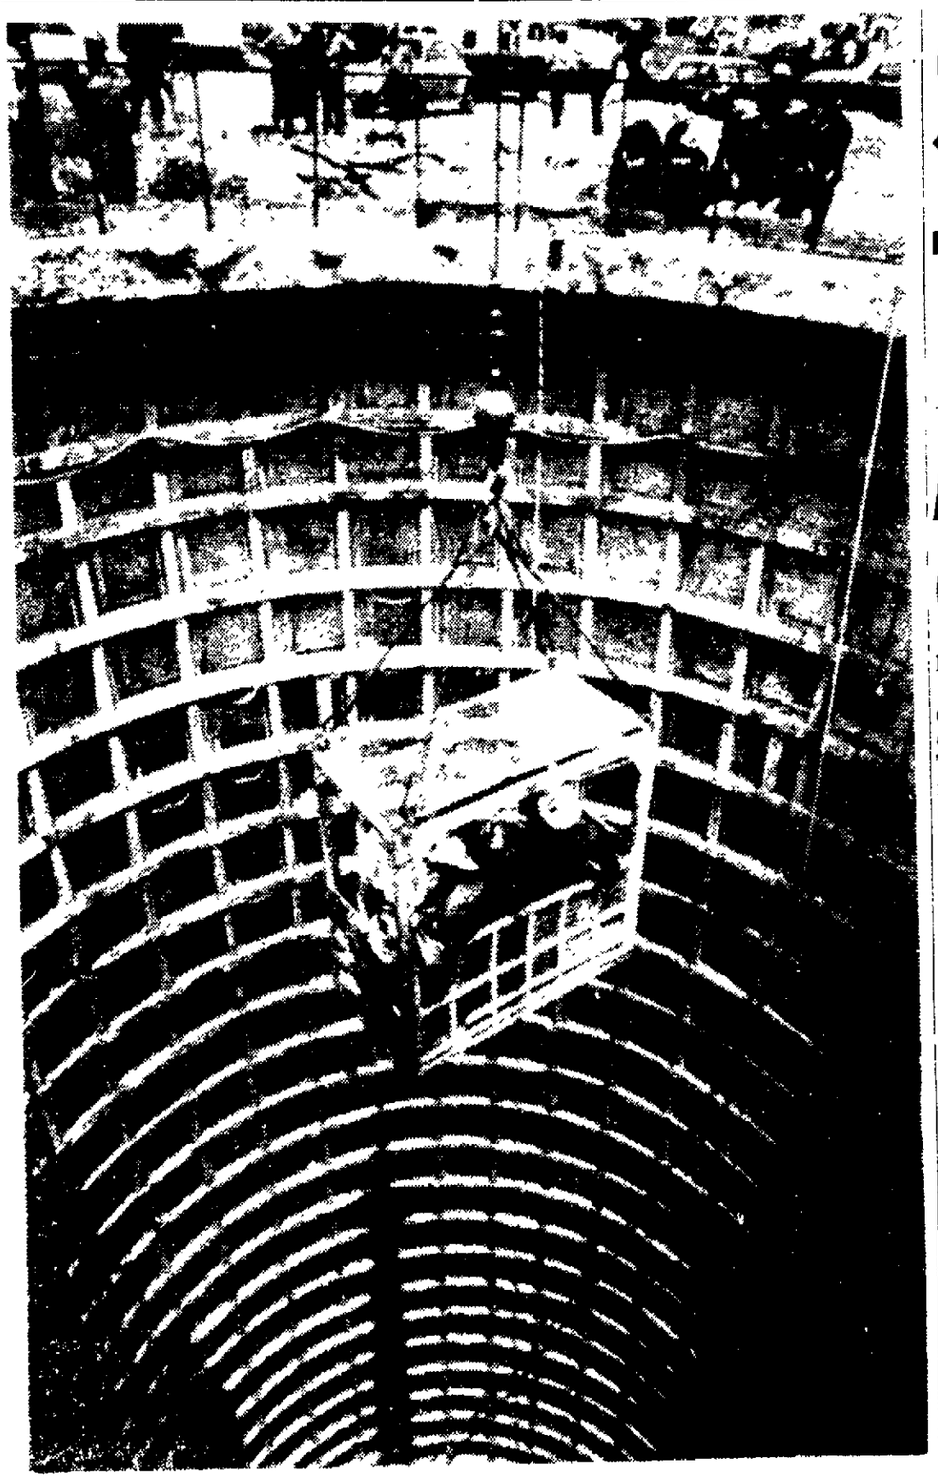

Among other major Senate-added provisions:

—Cut 100,000 men off the overall 2.5 million force level approved by the House.

—Retain the two-year period of alternative civilian service that must be served by conscientious objectors. The House voted for three years service.

—Require the military to

Deadline Looms On Secrets Story

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Supreme Court considered today appeals by the government and The New York Times that it step into the conflict over a series of articles on the secret Pentagon history of the Vietnam war.

Immediately ahead loomed a 6 p.m. deadline. Unless the justices act before then The Washington Post will be able to publish what it wants. But The Times will be free to resume publication in Saturday editions only of material the Justice Department considers safe for public consumption.

Unlike The Post. The Times will be barred from using any of the items in the 47-volume war study the Justice Department feels should be kept secret in the interest of national security.

The Times told the court in a petition Thursday that the restraint, imposed by the U.S. circuit court in New York City, "imposes an insupportable burden on a free press."

Series of Reports

The Justice Department, meanwhile, labored to block The Post from resuming its series of reports on the study. Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold argued in an application for a stay that publication would damage nationl security and the conduct of foreign relations beyond repair.

The Post would be free to publish what it wishes by virtue of a ruling by the U.S. circuit court for the District of Columbia.

Griswold said The Post should be prevented at least temporarily from using the items listed in a "special appendix" filed by government attorneys last Monday in the New York court, as well as additional items the Justice Department might add today.

Contents Secrets

Contents of the list are being kept secret. Griswold said "a small amount of material" was involved.

Until the two newspaper cases reached their chambers, the justices were planning to recess on Monday until October. They were putting the finishing touches on a half-dozen pending decisions and considering scores of piled-up appeals.

Whether these plans will be interrupted is uncertain. But since the two circuit courts have reached conflicting conclusions and questions about national security and press freedom have been raised, the high court almost is compelled to act. A hearing next Monday or Tuesday is possible.

Lawyers for The Times asked for one "at the earliest practical date." They said "the case on its face presents urgent issues of over-riding public importance which should be promptly decided by this court."

"For the first time in American history," The Times said, "a newspaper has been enjoined from publishing news."

Then he picked up my own pipe and started puffing away. I don't think it does him any harm. It's better than eating sweets, anyway." (AP Wirephoto)

Tunnel Explosion, Quake Link Sought

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A state mining official says there could be some connection between the devastating Feb. 9 earthquake and a fiery natural methane gas explosion that ripped through an underground tunnel apparently killing 17 workers.

Dr. Gordon B. Oakeshott, deputy chief of the California Division of Mines and Geology, said the quake possibly could have disturbed underground formations and caused seepage of the deadly gas that exploded Thursday.

"During an earthquake like that, underground formations are disturbed. Springs sometimes start and stop, ground water is sometimes disturbed, any fluid, oil and gas would be disturbed," he said.

Seven bodies have been recovered and rescue teams continued to search for 10 missing workers. City fire rescue crews said dense smoke and debris hampered efforts to find the missing men. Conditions inside the tunnel were described as "untenable to support life."

One Alive

Only one worker in the tunnel has been found alive. The other 17 are presumed dead.

The tunnel, being excavated as part of a state water project, traverses foothills near the quake epicenter outside suburban Sylmar, about 30 miles northwest of Los Angeles. It is close to Olive View Hospital, which wsa severely damaged by the temblor which killed 64 persons and caused damage estimated at $1 billion.

The area is studded with oil wells, and Oakeshott said there were numerous pockets of methane gas, a common companion to oil deposits, trapped in folds of rock formations.

He said earth movement caused by the Feb. 9 earthquake and the more than 300 aftershocks that have followed could have fractured the rock formations to provide "escape pathways" for the gas.

Fire officials said seepage from the oil fields doubtless helped fuel a 14-hour fire that followed the blast which blocked rescue attempts for more than 12 hours.

The sole survivor of the blast —wan, red-eyed and weakened by injuries—told reporters from his hospital bed that he thought he felt two explosions in the tunnel, which is five miles long and about 200 feet beneath the earth.

'I thought I was going to pass out and I guess I did." said Ralph Brisette, 33. "I found myself laying in water, washing my face and drinking." He was found after stumbling more than four miles to the tunnel's portal.

Fire officials say the gas probably was touched off by a spark from drilling equipment.

The explosion in the tunnel was the second in two days. On Wednesday a smaller blast, also attributed to methane gas, injured four workmen. One had to be hospitalized.

Tested For Gas

After the earlier blast engineers tested the tunnel atmosphere and said they found no undue gas accumulations.

The tunnel a link in the $3 billion, 444-mile state water project to transport surplus Northern California water to heavily populated Southern California, is being built by Lockheed Shipbuilding and Construction Co. a division of the troubled aerospace giant. It is within 2,100 feet of completion.

Judge Refuses to Dismiss Charges Against Medina

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — A military judge refused today to dismiss murder and assault charges against Capt. Ernest Medina, whose infantry company staged the My Lai assault in 1968.

Col Kenneth Howard, the military judge, then said the case would go to trial, probably late this summer.

The judge set July 19 as the tentative date for the start of jury selection.

"I do not find this case to be pervaded by command influence," said the judge as he denied the defense dismissal motions.

"I do not find it was the overall policy of the Army to deny the accused a fair consideration of the charges against him," ruled Howard.

The judge added, "I do not find that he was to be tried regardless of the evidence."

Howard denied a series of 16 separate defense motions by defense attorney F. Lee Bailey, and granted only two minor ones.

He grante permission for the defense to obtain a copy of a classified report on a military inquiry into the My Lai massacre. He also ordered the prosecution to provide the defense with the names of its witnesses.

Johnson's Book Reaffirms Stories on Pentagon Study

GARDEN CITY, N. Y. (AP)—Lyndon B. Johnson's still unpublished White House memoirs acknowledge that his administration was privately preparing in early 1964 for large scale American military involvement in Vietnam, long before the depth of the U.S. commitment was known to the public, according to a story published today by Newsday, the Long Island newspaper.

The memoirs, to be published on November, support many of the findings of the classified Pentagon study of the war's origins which the government has been fighting to keep secret, Newsday said.

The former president' book, now largely in galley form at the New York publishing firm of Holt, Rinehart and Winston, is entitled, "The Vantage Point: perspective of the Presidency."

Publishing Source

Newsday said it obtained information about the contents of the book from a publishing industry source.

Aaron Asher, vice president of the publishing company, said that Newsday was not among news organizations given access to galley proofs of the book for possible serialization.

"This is unpublished material fully protected by copyright," Asher said of Johnson's book. He said the publishing house was considering legal action but had made no decision.

Newsday gave this account of the book's contents:

Johnson depicts himself in the book as having been hesitant for several months over approving military advisers' recommendations for bombing raids against North Vietnam. But in February of 1965, he writes, he told aides that he was approving the bombing.

"'We have kept our gun over the mantle and our shells in the cupboard for a long time now,' I said. 'And what was the result? They are killing our men while they sleep in the night. I can't ask American soldiers out there to continue to fight with one hand tied behind their backs.'"

In the book, Johnson says that he first decided to pursue President Kennedy's policy of defending South Vietnam soverignty while flying back to Washington only a few hours after Kennedy's assassination in November 1963.

Vietnam Highlights

In the highlights of his chapters on Vietnam, portraying more than five years of growing U.S. involvement, Johnson says:

On March 17, 1964 he approved a recommendation by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara that U.S. forces should be prepared for a "program of graduated military pressure against the North."

During the 1964 presidential campaign, Robert F. Kennedy volunteered to go to South Vietnam as the U.S. ambassador.

During the same campaign, all that he meant by his often quoted statement that he would not send U.S. troops "to do the fighting that Asian boys should do for themselves" was that America should not "take charge" of the war or provoke a conflict with China. "I did not mean that we were not going to do any fighting, for we had already lost many good men in Vietnam."

In September 1964, Johnson approved a contingency plan for bombing recommended by the military to be implemented if Communist forces made a "spectacular" attack in the South. But he then waited until Feb 7, 1965, to start bombing, twice rejecting military advice from advisers to begin earlier.

On Feb. 17, 1965, Johnson met with former President Eisenhower and was urged to mount a "campaign of pressure" against the North.

About three weeks after the first major battle involving American ground troops in a campaign in June 1965, Johnson authorized a 25,000-man troop increase to 75,000. He writes: "I was convinced that our retreat from this challenge would open the path to World War III."

London Art Auction Nets $8.7 Million

LONDON (AP) — Titian's "Death of Actaeon" and 26 other Old Masters were sold at Christie's auction house today for a record $8,735,580.

Although the total was the highest in art history for a one-day auction, it fell considerably short of the $20 million which one expert had predicted.

The Titian went to a London dealer, Julius Weitzner, for $4,032,000. He refused to say who he bought it for, telling an interviewer, "I do not know where the picture is going."

Weitzner said he had been prepared to go higher.

Weitzner is an American dealer who is based in London.

The British art world expressed concern that another masterpiece in British hands was going to the wealthier U.S. market for lack of public or private money here.

The price was the second highest ever paid at auction for a painting. The record was set last November at Christie's when Alec Wildenstein of New York paid $5½ million for Velasquez's painting of his mulatto apprentice "Juan de Parreja." He later sold it to the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

Earlier Record

That auction produced the previous record for a day's sale of paintings: $6,609,153.

The sale of the Titian was preceded by the usual public outcry that something be done to keep the painting in Britain. But the National Gallery hasn't the money to buy it, and the government made clear that it wasn't going to help out.

There had been predictions the painting might go as high as $4.8 million.

Vast Differences Between Commons, Senate

Under British System, Nixon Would be Out of a Job

BY ARTHUR L. GAVSHON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — If British lawmakers voted against government policy, as American senators rebuffed President Nixon Tuesday over Vietnam, then Prime Minister Edward Heath would have resigned.

Arthur L. Gavshon has covered the British government for the Associated Press for 25 years. Now, on temporary assignment in Washington, he has had his first look at the Senate in action. Here are his impressions.

The fact that Nixon did not dramatized the difference between life on Capitol Hill and in the Palace of Westminster.

Aides shrugged aside Nixon's defeat as a single holdup in his fixed four-year power trail. In Britain's House of Commons, it would have denoted a loss of confidence in the Prime Minister, requiring either a new government or new national elections.

There were plenty of other contrasts on view inside and outside the semi-circular senatorial chamber, in the styles as well as in the working systems of American and British legislators.

Some of the senators, for instance, chewed gum even while they spoke. Others read their speeches with aides beside them holding stacks of reference material. Throughout the day the floor of the chamber resembled a hotel lobby with members of the two main parties criss-crossing, huddling in group consultations, addressing the president pro tempore regardless of the fact that one or another of their colleagues nominally was in full oratorical flight.

For the House of Commons' studied informality, little of this would be tolerated in Westminister. There Mr. Speaker insists upon strict observance of the rules of order.

Leaders of the government and opposition lean back in their leather seats, it is true, with their feet up on the table before them. And backbenchers lounge nonchalantly along their benches, conversing softly, writing notes. But they cannot read newspapers. They must not step over one of the two red bands on the carpet keeping the rival sides two swords-length from each other.

They dare not, unless they are ministers making formal pronouncements, read their speeches. And they are barred from addressing their colleagues either by name or as "you." It must be "the honorable member for Blank."

A British member of parliament visiting the Senate Tuesday would have gasped at the intensity of the activity on the floor. There were the senators themselves coming and going as they pleased; aides lolling on sofas lining the walls; page boys and girls on their endless missions.

In the House of Commons only elected members, and officers of the House, are allowed on the floor during working sessions. A lawmaker cannot pass between a speaker on his feet and the chair. No two members can address the chair at the same time.

Winnebago Board Expected To Pull Out of Northeastern

OSHKOSH — "In my opinion, Winnebago County will withdraw from Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission," said Byron Murken today. The third vote comes next Tuesday.

Murken, president of the Oshkosh common council, is a captain in the effort to dissolve the present planners and form a new agency that can be certified by the federal grant givers. Oshkosh withdrew from the Council of Governments last week.

The county board decided to stay in Northeastern twice, once in May and again in June. But the last decision won by only two votes and Murken's nose count sees a two-thirds "get-out" vote if three of the five supervisors absent last time are present.

He said he'd not given any thought to what would happen if the board, like the Outagamie board, decided to stay in. He thought it kind of strange that Outagamie decided to stay with Northeastern even though it wasn't certified by HUD, the grant giver.

Winnebago County Board chairman Orrin King is not pleased that the board can't make its own determination. He has no objection to Northeastern, if representation on its controlling council would recognize the fact that Winnebago County pays much more than Florence County or any other, yet has the same vote.

He did not know what the reaction of the board would be to Outagamie County's decision to stay with Northeastern for another year. Outagamie, Winnebago and Calumet counties, at a minimum, must have the same planner if they are to qualify for federal aids. They are a designated standard metropolitan area (SMSA).

Calumet has said it will join Northeastern, if it must, but it doesn't like it according to some county officials. Fond du Lac County, part of the Lake Winnebago-Lower Fox Basin for which planning funds are being asked, has said it will have no part of Northeastern. Funds won't come, the federals say, unless there is political planning unit in the watershed.

Supv. Roland Kampo, Town of Menasha, has been the strongest force for staying in Northeastern. However, he hates COG more than he loves Northeastern, Murken said Kampo told him he'd support getting out of Northeastern if Oshkosh, Neenah-Menasha and the Town of Neenah dropped COG. That's been done.

Kampo would like to see Northeastern's controlling council made up entirely of elected local officials; now two of the three representatives from each county are appointed and may or may not also be elected officials. He supports Assembly Bill 162's provisions to do just that. It is in the Assembly's municipalities committee.

Kampo said he thought the board should not discuss dropping Northeastern again. There is a special meeting of the board Tuesday to decide something on planning. Kampo argues from Robert's Rules of Order which say that a twice-considered issue is dead until after the next annual reorganization meeting.

He will probably be unable to get much mileage out of the argument though. New factors permit an issue to be raised more than twice. The county municipalities dropping COG will likely be considered new factors.

"I think we should stay in Northeastern and ask the Federal Bureau of the Budget to certify it as the regional planner for Winnebago County until the study they are doing is completed," said Kampo.

King, too, felt the study and various bills in the state's legislative hopper ought to keep the board from making up its mind.

One of the bills, Assembly Bill 531, would demand membership in a regional planning commission and defines the regions. This one would include Calumet, Florence, Fond du Lac, Forest, Green Lake, Langlade, Menominee, Outagamie, Shawano, Waupaca, Waushara and Winnebago county that's the present turf of Northeastern.

It, too, is in the municipalities committee. Rep. Edward Nager, (D-Dane), its chairman, said it was hard to tell what would happen to the bill. It will be considered in the committee's next executive hearing which is not yet scheduled.

He said bill 162 had been subject of considerable controversy at a public hearing. A compromise is being worked out by various interested parties and state agencies. That compromise is not back yet. Nager said he would report it out of committee, compromise available or not, in another month. "I consider it an important bill."

Another bill, authorized by Rep. Gordon Bradley, Oshkosh, passed the Assembly Thursday. It uses statutory language similar to that COG is organized under and permits the governing bodies of municipalities to enter into agreements with each other to form a regional planning council.

Steinhilber Urges Ceiling on Tax Level

MADISON — State Sen. Jack D. Steinhilber, R-Oshkosh, is one of seven GOP state senators who have, as they say, "taken our stand for fiscal sanity and economic growth" by sponsoring a no-tax-increase budget for 1971-73.

The budget proposal, in the form of a substitute amendment to Gov. Patrick Lucey's budget proposal that has come through the Democratic-controlled assembly to face more serious challenge in the GOP dominated Senate, was introduced in Madison today.

It removes all policy decisions included in the Lucey budget, like the proposed university merger plan and new tax redistribution formula, and provides for no tax increases in the next biennium.

The sponsors note, however, that it does provide for a $16.6 million increase in homestead tax relief for the elderly, a $7.7 million jump in personal property tax relief and restores support for several programs cut down or out of the governor's budget.

The substitute budget restores the county teachers' colleges that are deleted from Lucey's budget and replaces deleted funds for the workshop for the blind and the regional library for the blind, the sponsors note. It provides more funds than Lucey's budget does for the veterans trust fund, and restores staff cuts to the King Veterans' Home.

Steinhilber and his six cohorts call on residents of the state to contact their legislators in support of the alternate budget proposal.

"We realize that the passage of a no-tax-increase budget is considered an impossibility by some," the statement reads. "We realize that it will not be easy. But we realize there is one way that we can prevent unjustified tax increases this year. That way is the one we have chosen to follow — to take our case to the people of Wisconsin."

Tax-Eaters' Voices

"The voices of the tax-eaters have been loud," the statement continues. "But the Wisconsin taxpayer — the men and women who work for a living and pay the taxes to support government and all its many programs, bureaus and agencies — have not been heard from."

Steinhilber, a conservative on fiscal matters in the past, served on the joint finance committee which approved Lucey's budget before it went to the assembly earlier this year. He, of course, voted against it.

The budget bill, which calls for a $190 million tax increase in the next two years, is expected to face a tough challenge from Republicans in the Senate.

County Hospital Aide Guilty of Abuse of Patient

A former Outagamie County Hospital aide Thursday was ordered held in the county jail without bond until his sentencing July 13 for abusing a mental patient at the institution.

A 12-member jury deliberated about an hour before returning a guilty verdict against Robert Lockin, 30, 416 S. Washington St., Kimberly. Judge Nick F. Schaefer ordered a pre-trial sentence investigation for Lockin, the father of three.

Lockin was charged after another employee said he found him in a locked basement storage room with a 36-year-old female mental patient on June 13.

Dennis Harris, a custodian at the hospital, testified that when he opened the door, he found the patient standing in the middle of the room, with her dress disheveled and Lockin standing behind the door.

Harris testified that he reported the incident to superiors in the hospital, and that when the room was searched, an undergarment belonging to the patient was found stuffed in a roll of paper.

$250,000 Facility at Oshkosh

Aircraft Museum Proposed

OSHKOSH — Tentative plans are being made to create a year-round, educationally-oriented facility as part of a proposed $225,000 museum of the Experimental Aircraft Association at Wittman Field.

Chairman of what is now known as the EAA Red Carpet citizen's committee, Henry Kimberly, Oshkosh, said this morning the group will file ...ly to become a non-profit ...ration entitled the International Air Education Center. The designation will aid in fund raising for the group, Kimberly said.

The EAA annually sponsors a week long fly in at Wittman Field that last year drew more than 500,000 people. Hundreds of aircraft, an estimated 2 per cent of all the private aircraft in the country, touched down at Wittman Field during the convention.

Franklin Headquarters

EAA's present museum, located in Franklin, is a $500,000 facility with an array of 70 planes significant in aircraft history. This year's fly-in here, to be held Aug 1-7, will again include large airshows in the evening and displays of antique and other unusual aircraft.

Kenneth Seefeld, a Winnebago County board supervisor, and member of the board's aviation committee, said that the aviation unit has tentatively approved the purchase of a 10-12 acre plot of airport property on which the 30,000 square foot museum would stand.

The full board has yet to approve the EAA purchase of the land, which lies in the flight pattern of the east-west runway. Seefeld had previously said the land was unsuitable for industry or housing.

Seefeld said this morning that the Red Carpet committee is "making progress." The museum would have "some fantastic things available," he said. Richard Koehn, who has been the head of the finance unit of the committee, said today that the application for becoming a non-profit corporation, would begin a "new phase" of the museum proposal.

Koehn explained that the committee recently met with supporters of the proposed museum from the Neenah-Menasha, Appleton and Fond du Lac areas. An acrobatic flying show is held at the Fond du Lac airport yearly in connection with events here. "It is conceivable," Koehn said today, "that some events could be held at the Outagamie County airport."

Koehn said that the group's new name was suggested since the proposed facility could be used to explain basic aerodynamics and aircraft construction to student groups on a year round basis.

Ambulance Considered In Neenah

NEENAH — After a demonstration scheduled for late this afternoon, the city may be ready to decide if it wants to continue with a conventional ambulance or switch to a truck-type van.

The city has operated its own ambulance for more than 40 years and has had a conventional type vehicle, but now, faced with rising costs, the public protection committee is giving serious consideration to the switch.

A demonstration of both the van-type and conventional vehicle is set up for this afternoon for members of the committee to compare the operation and handling of each one.

Leading the argument for a truck-type van has been Ald. Thomas Willarson, Fifth Ward. Willarson has asked that the city at least test a van to see if it will suit the city's needs.

Although Willarson readily admits that a van might not fill the bill for the city because of the highway calls it has to answer, he said, "We should at least take one out for a test drive to see if it's practical for the city purposes."

Menasha Wins Tangle With HUD

MENASHA — For most of us, it's a case of not being able to "beat city hall." But City Atty. Richard Steffens has taken on "those bureaucratic attorneys" working for the federal government, and he has won.

The victory will save the city some needed time in getting its bid in for a low-rent housing project for the elderly.

What happened was that Steffens had used his sharp municipal-law eye to spot deficiencies in a proposed model cooperation agreement from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

The agreement, when signed, is the city's way of saying that it supports the efforts of its semi - independent Menasha Housing Authority (MHA) to get a low-rent project for the city.

Steffens' Changes

Steffens made the changes, okayed them with HUD attorneys in Chicago and brought the agreement to the common council, which approved it. It was then sent to HUD along with a request for 150 units of low-rent elderly housing and 20 units of low-income family units. That was in March.

Last week, MHA Chairman Gerald Wagner received the document in the mail along with a HUD request to throw it out and have the original, HUD-suggested agreement approved by the council.

"HUD had taken the position that they don't want anyone tampering with their agreement," Steffens said.

The changes were minor:

—One would commit the council to "vacate all streets" that are required for the project. Steffens said you can't do that in Wisconsin, because people living along the street have the right to petition against it.

—Another section committed the council to zoning the site for the structure (probably a high-rise) accordingly. Steffens said, "We can't promise what the next council will do," and noted that popular petition from opposing area residents could require a three-quarters vote of approval from the common council for any zoning change.

To include both sections as proposed by HUD would have been to "abrogate state law," Steffens said. He didn't want to do that.

So Steffens contacted the legal bureaucrats in Chicago this week, told them he wasn't going to advise the common council to pass an ordinance that would "abrogate state law" and finally convinced them to accept the agreement passed back in March.

Steffens, incidentally, is the only known city attorney in the state to have caught the HUD errors and make the required change. Most other communities approve the HUD model and let it go at that.

Steffens said that "federal bureaucratic attorneys" have a habit of being able to "see one thing and they can't see anything else." He said the minor changes in the Menasha-passed cooperation agreement, involving about 15 words, did not take away from the agreement's general intent.

Steffens said the already-passed cooperation agreement can now be returned to Chicago. The council will not have to vote on a revised one.

Young Bicyclist Dies In Racine Accident

Accidents involving a motorcycle and a bicycle raised Wisconsin's 1971 highway fatality toll to 409 today compared with 476 on the same date a year ago.

Randy Tryber, 13, of Racine died Thursday when his bicycle was struck by a car on a highway south of Racine.

James T. Harke, 19, of rural Fall Creek died Thursday in a fiery crash involving his motorcycle and a dump truck on an Eau Claire County road.

Courts

A 14 year old Appleton youth was transferred to Lincoln School for Boys after being found delinquent in Juvenile Court, recently, and placed in the care of the Department of Social Services until he reaches 21.

The youth was found guilty of delinquency for threatening to bring a gun to school, threatening a teacher with a chain, and using abusive language. He was also found guilty of truancy from his home and school.

The Department of Social Services was granted one years custody of a 13 year old Kimberly youth, after the youth was found guilty of vandalism and theft.

The youth threw a rock through a caboose window, on October, 1970; shot into a home in October, broke a window in Jacob School, in November; and stole $4 from a purse, all incidents took place in Kimberly.

An 11 year old Appleton youth with placed in the custody of Social Services for a year after he was found guilty in juvenile court of stealing $1.50 worth of merchandise from an Appleton store.

Three forged checks totaling $75, brought a 17 year old Appleton youth a sentence to Lincoln School for Boys.

The youth forged the checks on his mother's account. He was placed in custody of the Department of Social Services for four years.

Elanora M. Zehren, 1523 S. Kernan, Appleton, pleaded no contest to shoplifting charges, before Outagamie County Judge Raymond P. Dohr, Friday.

Mrs. Zehren was charged with stealing $15 merchandise from the Kmart store, W. College Avenue, on June 10. She was found guilty and fined $25 and costs.

Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer, disqualified himself from hearing the case of three Appleton and Kimberly persons charged with disorderly conduct.

Guy G. Western, 23, 139 S. Birch St., Kimberly; Bonnie Totten, 25, 2625 Southwood Drive, and David H. Smits, 22, 721 S. Rankin St., both of Appleton, were charged after they were caught swimming in Riverview Country Club's pool, early Saturday morning.

Their case will be referred to another judge and a new date set for their hearing.

DNR's 'Orders' Reviewed

WEYAUWEGA — The city's antipollution orders from the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources were reviewed this week at the regular meeting of the city council.

Plans for the improvements that will be required to meet the orders are being processed by Foth & Van Dyke and Associates, engineers at Green Bay.

The city's requirement timetable sets Jan. 1, 1972 for controling industrial discharges into the sewerage system, April 1, 1972 for the start of construction of sewage treatment facilities, and Jan. 1, 1973 for removal of 85 per cent phosphorus.

Gordon Bratz and Ted Raschke, representing the Waupaca County Fair Board, discussed regulations for selling beer during the annual county fair. The fair will be Aug. 19-22 at the fairgrounds here.

The discussion centered on a beer license which would limit the sale of beer to the grandstand and the beer stand area and only in paper cups to eliminate possible injury from bottles. The fair board will meet with the police department to determine license restrictions. And a decision will be presented at the council's July 6 meeting.

The city clerk will check the ordinances to determine whether it would be legal for the Fair Board to haul away its own garbage during the fair instead of having to hire outside help.

In light of recent break-ins Police Chief Larry Schmies suggested that the council purchase a portable radio that could be used by patrolmen when they are out of their car checking doors and alleys. The request was tabled until the next meeting.

Ald. Howard Quimby, chairman of the police committee, presented a proposal, which was approved for the installation of exclusive police phones in each of the patrolmen's homes. At present time a switch at the police department office transfers police calls to the patrolmen's homes.

A five per cent salary increase, $11 a month, was granted to the deputy clerk whose year ended June 1. All other employes received a five per cent increase at the beginning of the year.

The swimming program, under the direction of the recreation committee, began Monday at Lake Weyauwega. Judy Kneisler and Dick Raisler are in charge of the program.

Mayor Walter Dean received approval for his appointment of Mrs. Ronald Wiesman for a three year term on the library board.

The possibility of rezoning part of the property south and west of Real Estate Builders from industrial to residential will be studied by the zoning committee. Several property owners have expressed a desire to build homes there but some of the lots do not have the required area to comply with the zoning ordinance.

The council agreed to purchase spare parts for the pump at pumphouse No. 1 for use in an emergency. Necessary parts would cost approximately $97.

Class B retailers' licenses to sell fermented malt beverages at specially designated ball games were awarded the Weyauwega-Fremont American Legion Club, the Weyauwega Braves, and the Weyauwega Softball League.

Parachute Jump From World's Fair for Sale

NEW YORK (AP) — Coney Island's 250-foot-high parachute jump, a relic of the 1939 World's Fair, will be sold to make way for a new city park.

If no buyer comes forward, the City Real Estate Department said the amusement park attraction would be demolished. Bids are to be opened on July 1.

Assembly Passes Planning Council Bill

MADISON — A bill providing for the establishment of regional planning councils and allowing the Department of Local Affairs and Development to assist them passed the Wisconsin Assembly Thursday on a 93-5 vote.

The bill is designed to allow communities in the Fox River Valley to continue to qualify for federal funds which may otherwise be cut off.

More simply, according to Larry Michaels, executive director of the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG), the bill allows for setting up a regional planning agency without taxing powers and points up the participation of elected, rather than appointed, officials.

"If there's going to be some reorganization here," Jerome Starling, COG regional planning director, said, "this bill would provide for it."

Outagamie County Supv. G. Allan Bubolz, whose father is chairman of the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission, called the bill "another piece of permissive legislation regarding planning to provide for another opportunity to set up a regional planning council."

Charles Hervey Northeastern's executive director, said today that he was unfamiliar with this particular bill although he knew of other similar bills that the legislature was dealing with.

State Rep. Norman Anderson, the Democratic floor leader from Madison, told the Assembly that a conflict between the two planning agencies in the Fox River Valley casts doubt on the eligibility of some projects for federal funds.

The resolution has a half dozen sponsors from the Fox River Valley, and its progress was speeded through the Assembly under an agreement between Anderson and Minority Leader Harold Froehlich of Appleton.

Recently, members have been withdrawing from Northwestern and COG. They have been looking for an alternative, which the bill is expected to provide.

Questions Drivers Ask

No Sales Tax on Car Transferred in Family

(This feature is one of a weekly series bringing together questions on highway rules and regulations — how you can drive more safely, for yourself and others — as asked by Wisconsin motorists, together with authoritative answers as given by State officials of the agencies involved. It is presented as a public service to our readers.)

Q: Last year my son bought a new automobile, and because he was a minor at that time, I signed for its purchase and assumed the responsibility for the bank loan. The title to the auto is in my name and I would like to have it transferred to his name now that he has reached the legal age. Now the question is this: will he have to pay a sales tax when this is done? He already paid the sales tax when the car was bought.

A: Your son will have to complete the sales tax form ST-10 showing the sale as from you to him. He will not have to pay any sales tax, the transfer being exempt between members of your family. He will have to complete, on the back of the title, sections one and three to effect the transfer.

Q: After drinking, is there anything which can be taken or used to reduce the blood alcohol level?

A: Once you have drunk the alcohol, nothing but the passage of time can reduce the blood alcohol level. You may use mouthwash, but that merely affects the breath, diminishing or masking the odor.

Alcohol is removed from the body in several ways: It is discharged in the breath or urine, unchanged in its original form, or it is oxidized in the liver, which can process about one gram per hour.

Q: I am a truck driver and have two licenses. The regular is renewable every two years and the chauffeur's every year. Why do I have to go to the Division of Motor Vehicles twice for an eye test; one year for the regular license and then the following year for the chauffeur's license? The law states an eye test every four years. This is discrimination against truck drivers.

A: This may have been the case before, but now the requirement is for an eye test on only one license. When the computer comes to the particular driver's record and it shows an eye test completed on the other license, it exempts the driver from the eye examination on that occasion.

Q: I intend to buy a car from a friend of mine, but he lost his title. Can I legally purchase this auto without receiving a valid title?

A: Yes. Your friend may complete motor vehicle form 2012A certifying that he has lost his original title. Your friend is required to fill out this form completely. When properly completed this form will allow him to apply for a duplicate title and transfer the ownership of the vehicle to you. Upon receipt of this form, with the required fee, the Bureau of Registration will issue you a title.

Q: We are about to convert a car to driver education use and will install brake pedals in the front righthand position. Is it permitted to use copper tubing in this installation?

A: The law does not specifically state that copper tubing is not to be used for such purposes. However, the specifications for school bus equipment state steel pipe is required for brake lines. And in view of the lesser durability of copper tubing, this gives us the indication that steel pipe should also be used for this purpose.

25 Americans Listed Killed in War Action

SAIGON (AP) — The allied commands announced today that 25 Americans, 353 South Vietnamese troops and 1,681 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed in action last week.

The American death toll was the same as the total for the week before, The South Vietnamese total was 31 more and the enemy toll was 194 less.

The allied commands also announced that 215 Americans and 822 South Vietnamese troops were wounded last week; the week before the totals were 199 Americans and 934 South Vietnamese. Another 14 Americans died from such nonhostile causes as accidents or illness.

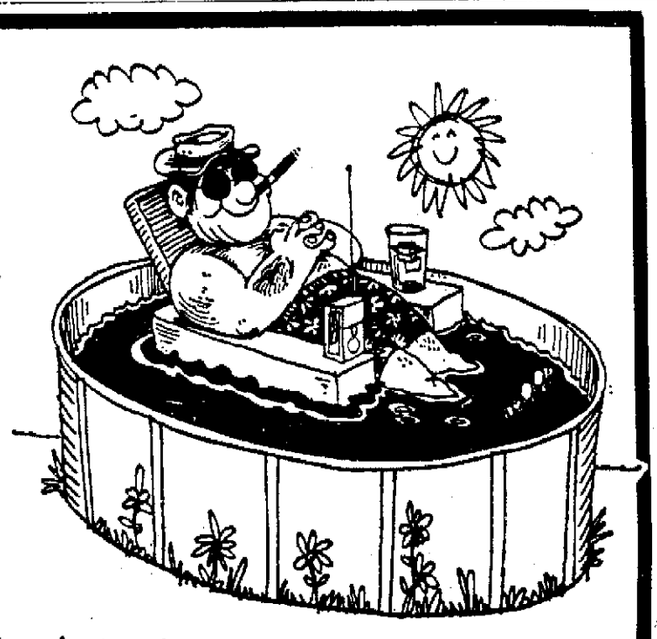

The weekly summary brought total reported casualties in the Vietnam war to 45,300 Americans killed in combat, 300,338 wounded and 9,610 dead from nonhostile causes; 129,113 South Vietnamese troops Killed, 280,451 wounded, and 753,558 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed.

Allied Holiday Pool Sale!

Why you should buy your family a pool this year.

1. It's a great place to cool off and relax with the family after a hard day at work and a hot time on the expressway.
2. They'll develop a healthy tan. People won't think you just got out of prison.
3. You'll have a lot less mowing to do. How much less depends on how big a pool you get. Get a big one.
4. If they don't like swimming, they can practice fishing.
5. You might let the children's friends use the pool while you're at work.
6. Allied pools are low, low sale priced and won't strain the family budget.

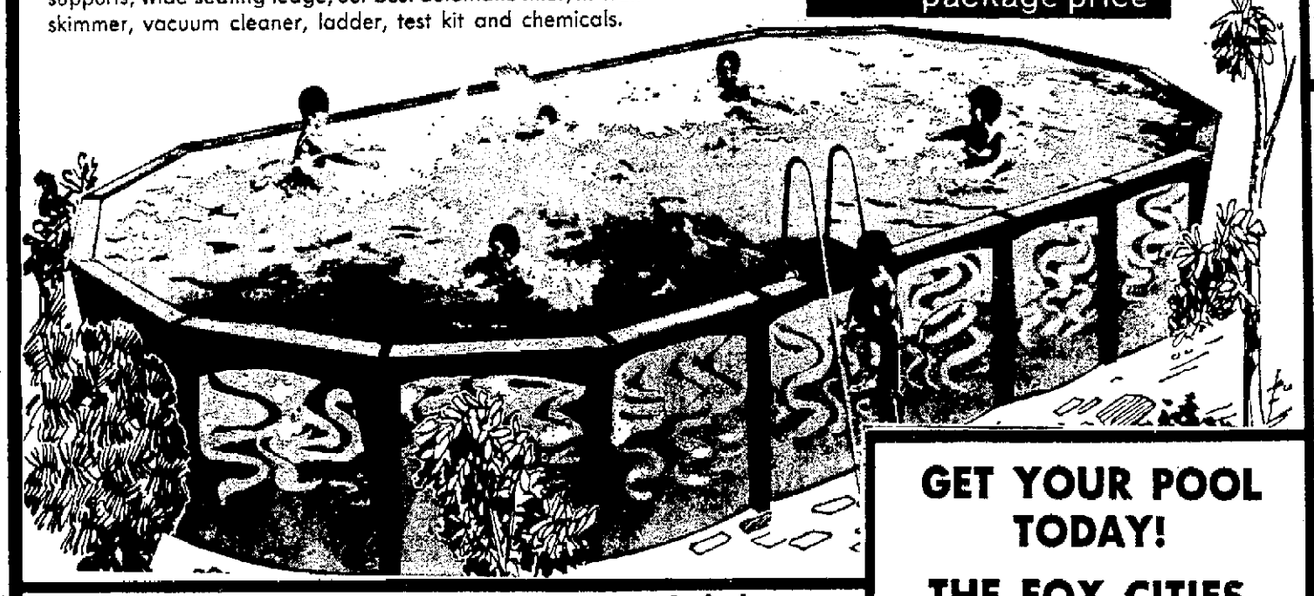

ATTENTION: Every father ought to have a floater lounge. Its big foam arms hold beverage glasses, smokes, transistor radio, snacks, etc. Lists at $36.95, but buy one for dad at ..... Only $26.99

Colorful Stamp Exhibit Becomes Wall Display

BY CAPPY DICK

Colorful cancelled postage stamps — domestic as well as foreign — can be turned into unusual wall box displays by following today's fun-project directions for boys and girls.

Colorful Exhibit

Select any box of a size that pleases you and for which you have enough stamps to form an interesting presentation like those shown in the illustration for this article.

The box may be the bottom of a candy box, the bottom of a shoe box, the top of either such box, and so on.

Cover the box with a piece of plain paper, preferably white, to provide background against which the stamps will show up to advantage. Paste the paper to the box.

Decide whether the box should be equipped with one or two hangers. Ring-type hangers are the best to use because they will permit the box to rest flat against the wall. If you have no such hangers you can make them out of thin wire, taping them to the boxes.

Experiment to see exactly how you wish to arrange the stamps, then glue them in those positions. After the glue has dried apply a coat of clear shellac to make them shiny.

Foxes Extend Win String To Eight With 2-1 Victory

Sikes Records 7-Under-Par At Cleveland

Eight Pros Bunched In Runnerup Spot Two Strokes Behind

CLEVELAND (AP) — First round leader Dan Sikes admitted he had "a little added incentive going this week" in the $150,000 Cleveland Open golf tournament.

"A lot of us are in the same position," the golfing attorney from Jacksonville, Fla. said Thursday after firing a sparkling, seven-under-par 64

"We're trying to make the Ryder Cup team and this is the last week for it."

A 12-many team will be selected from point standings compiled at the end of this tournament. The team will play Britain's best in St Louis this fall.

Sikes, 40, a consistent moneymaker but a non-winner on the tour since 1968, currently is 23rd on the point list and must pass 11 players to make it

Won 6 Titles

Sikes winner of six titles in his 11 years on the pro tour, broke a massive log jam when he finished late in the afternoon at the 6,643 yard, par 71 Beechmont Country Club course

Eight players were listed in a tie for the top spot at 66 when he took the lead. There were seven others at 67, comprising the most bunched-up field on the tour this year.

The group at 66 was made up of scrambling Dave Stockton, who hit only five fairways but needed only 25 putts, Gene Littler, Mason Rudolph, Bobby Mitchell, club pro George Bellino and three former Masters champions—Bob Goalby, Gay Brewer and George Archer.

Charles Coody, the current Masters king, and Billy Casper topped the bunch at 67

Lee Trevino, fresh off his victory in the United States Open and the pro-tourney favorite here, could manage only a 70, putting him well back.

He missed seven putts of 10 feet or less.

Brewers Win, 6-0

Slaton Gets Even With Angels by Hurling 4-Hitter

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Pitcher Jim Slaton said the California Angels insulted him three years ago. He got satisfaction Thursday, and it wasn't even a close duel.

With unaccustomed vigor, the Milwaukee Brewers provided Slaton with a five-run fourth inning, helping him coast to a 6-0 shutout of the Californians. Working his fastball to its fullest, he held them to one hit in the first seven innings.

Slaton said he has been miffed with the Angels since 1968, when he was "right out of high school."

Not Enough Pay

"They said they wanted to draft me," he related. "But they wouldn't pay me enough money They said I wasn't worth more because I couldn't throw hard enough."

"From then on, I had a grudge against them," he continued, "and told myself I'd get even some day."

Slaton, 21, figured he used his fastball 80 per cent of the time as he went the distance Thursday, allowing four hits.

The Brewers tapped Angel southpaw Clyde Wright in the fourth-inning, five-run outburst. Milwaukee has had much sadness from left-handed hurlers all season, and Wright's loss was the Brewers' first triumph over a lefty since April 14.

Milwaukee also beat Wright April 10.

3-Run Double

Tommy Harper's single, Roberto Pena's walk and Andy Kosco's single scored a Milwaukee run in the fourth. Bob Ellis walked to load the bags, and Davey May emptied them with a double.

Slaton's infield hit scored May.

Harper singled in the seventh, and two more hits got him home with Milwaukee's sixth tally.

Slaton said he "tried to be too fine and started aiming the ball" in the eighth when the Angels led off with two singles. At the advice of manager Dave Bristol he said, he resumed being vengeful and decided to "rear back and throw," ending the threat.

The financial business that annoyed Slaton three years ago, he said, involves the Angels' offer of "a $3,000 bonus, including schooling."

The Seattle Pilots, later to become the Milwaukee franchise, gave him "a $5,000 bonus, along with $2,000 for education and an additional progressive bonus of $7,500," he said.

Cut Danville Lead to Two With 3 Left

BY GENE LILLGE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Appleton scored two runs in the first inning, then held off several Cedar Rapids threats, to tip the Cardinals Thursday night, 2-1.

The win was the eighth straight for the Foxes, and their 14th in 15 tries. Coupled with Danville's 6-1 loss to Burlington, the Foxes are only two games behind Danville in the race to see who will host the Midwest League All-star game. There are three games left in the first half.

The Foxes go on to Wisconsin Rapids for a doubleheader tonight and a single game Saturday, before returning to the friendly confines of Goodland Field Sunday night when Waterloo returns to inaugurate the second half race.

To give a few examples to illustrate just how hot the Foxes have been in the last 15 games, they have outscored their opponents, 77-31, out-hit them 115-96 (.247-.202), rapped 21 doubles, three triples and two home runs.

24 Earned Runs

The pitching hasn't been too bad either. Appleton's hurlers have given up only 24 earned runs in the last 129 innings for a 1.60 earned run average. They have issued a total of 54 walks, while striking out 117, and collecting 11 complete games.

Thursday's game was won with more finesse than with power, however.

A one-out double by Bucky Dent, a wild pitch, a walk to Jerry Hairston, and Sam Ewing's grounder gave Appleton its first run in the first inning.

Ewing was safe on a fielder's choice, with Hairston cut down at second. Big Sam stole second and game home on Joe Talley's double to right center.

Ross Sapp singled to start the game, but was out on a perfect throw from left fielder Russ Bennett when he tried to stretch the hit to a double. Ewing's single in the fifth and Sapp's bunt single in the seventh were the only other Appleton hits.

Cut Off Chances

Appleton cut off three Cardinal chances in the first, eighth and ninth with double plays.

The only Cedar Rapids score came in the seventh on double by John Heenan and a triple by Gary Breshears.

Mike Atkinson picked up his sixth win in 10 decisions, giving up six hits, walking three and striking out seven.

Cardinal starter Steve Waterbury went four innings and was charged with the loss.

Picks Laver, Newcombe

Arthur Ashe Upset In Wimbledon Meet

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Arthur Ashe, eliminated from the Wimbledon Tennis Tournament, predicted today that Rod Laver or John Newcombe will win the title.

"But Stan Smith is right there behind them." Ashe said. "Stan has a good chance because he's playing better than he has ever done before."

Smith, of Pasadena, Calif., who is seeded fourth, moved easily into the last 16 Thursday by defeating Andrew Apattison of Rhodesia 6-3, 6-4, 7-5. The tall fair-haired Californian is on extended leave from the U.S. Army.

Slim Chance

Ashe said: "Laver and Newcombe, both previous champions, must be favorites to win. I think Ken Rosewall's chance gets a little slimmer each year."

Laver, now 32, won the Wimbledon crown in 1961, 1962, 1968 and 1969. Newcombe won it last year for the second time.

Rosewall is 36. He reached the final last year—as he had done as a youngster in 1954 and 1956.

Ashe, of Gum Spring, Va., was seeded fifth but was upset Thursday by Marty Riessen, of Evanston, Ill., 6-1, 9-8, 8-9, 6-4.

Ashe didn't include Riessen, his close friend, among his tips for the title. But he commented: "Marty is certainly playing well. I hadn't lost to him for about five years until this match."

One of the talking points of the tournament is Laver's service, which doesn't appear as devastating as it used to be. But the little Australian lefthander was still good enough to crush another of the United States hopes, Clark Graebner of New York City, 9-8, 6-2, 7-5.

Smith, Riessen, Tom Gorman of Seattle, Wash., and Jeff Borowiak of Berkeley, Calif., are all in the last 16.

A fifth American, Cliff Richey of Sarasota, Fla., can join them by defeating Adriano Panatta of Italy today.

Richey Thursday finished off Roger Taylor of Britain in less than 30 minutes. The match had been called at 7-7 in the final set because of darkness the previous night.

Donna Caponi and Joanne Carner

Pair Tied in Women's Open

By KAROL STONGER
Associated Press Sports Writer

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — Donna Caponi, bidding for an unprecedented third straight U.S. Women's Open golf title, doesn't want to win it the way she did last year.

The 26-year-old brunette, tied with Joanne Carner for a one-stroke lead going into today's second round at the Kahkwa Club course, still cringes when reminded of her windup at Muskogee, Okla., in 1970.

She took a double bogey on the final hole—before a national television audience and has taken a lot of lip since.

"I was criticized by a lot of people who said it was bad for the image of women's golf," she said after shooting a two-under-par 70 over the 6,306-yard course Thursday. "But they forget that I played 71 of the greatest holes of my life before that."

Rookie of Year

Mrs. Carner, who turned professional at the age of 30 and was named rookie of the year after winning the Wendell West Open last year, tied Miss Caponi for the lead even though she only hit six fairways and said her putting was bad.

Her first birdie, on the par five No. 5, came after hitting out of the rough first on the right, then the left. She bogeyed the par four No. 1 but birdied the par four 13th and the par five 17th to become co-leader.

Miss Caponi, who hasn't won a title since the 1970 open bogeyed the par four first hole but finished the front line even with a birdie three on the eighth.

She carded three birdies, including a 10-foot-putt uphill on the 18th, and one bogey on the back side.

Mrs. Carner, five-time U.S. amateur titlist from Lake Worth, Fla., and Miss Caponi, of North Hollywood, Calif., hold a one-stroke lead over 26-year-old Lesley Holbert of Hialeah, Fla., who has yet to win a tournament in her six years on the pro tour.

Grid Tilt Saturday

West One TD Pick In Annual Coaches All-America Game

BY DENNE FREEMAN
Associated Press Writer

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Scott Hunter would like nothing better than to stand Jim Plunkett and his highly publicized West teammates on their helmets Saturday night in the 11th annual Coaches All America game.

Hunter, of Alabama, and Buddy Lee of Louisiana State, the quarterbacks for the East squad, have all but been ignored as Plunkett, the Heisman Trophy winner, from Stanford, draws the oos and ahs.

"We've got a bunch of thoroughbreds and we've going to try our best to beat their heads in Saturday," says the 6-foot-2, 205-pound Hunter, who will likely draw the starting nod from East Coach Charley McClendon of LSU.

"Publicity isn't going to win this game," says Hunter. "You get in a game like this and anything can happen. Breaks will play a big factor."

Keep Control

"The best thing to do against a quarterback like Plunkett is to control the ball and keep him sitting on the sidelines. If he throws a touchdown pass from there, it doesn't count."

"Hunter, a sixth-round choice by Green Bay of the National Football League, says he is impressed with receivers on the East team. "That Wes Chesson of Duke catches every pass you throw his way . . . he has the finest hands I've ever seen," Hunter says.

Hunter adds: "Boy, would I like to beat Plunkett. It's something to work for."

The player from the smallest college in the game, is 6-foot-3, 235-pound Ronny Hornsby, a linebacker from Southeastern Louisiana.

Great Players

"I've never seen so many great players on one field before," says Hornsby, a third round draft pick of the New York Giants. "However, I've played against some good ones like Terry Bradshaw of Pittsburgh and I'm not overawed."

The West is a touchdown choice in the 7:30 p.m. CDT nationally televised (ABC) contest at Jones stadium.

Plunkett, who went No. 1 in the NFL draft to the New England Patriots, is the reason.

John Ralston, his coach at Stanford, says "Every day he (Plunkett) gets a little better. Jim has been away from football quite a while now. He has been working out for several weeks but that mainly pertained to conditioning.

"It takes a little bit of practice when you are working with new receivers. A passer and receiver have to develop an ability to anticipate each other. We can see that starting to come now."

Willie Mays Top Vote-Getter for All-Star Game

Mets' Harrelson, Kessinger of Cubs Staging Close Run

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays replaced Johnny Bench as the leading vote getter in the balloting for the National League All-Star team, the Commissioner's office announced today.

With over one million ballots counted, and less than one week to go before the voting deadline of June 30, the Giants venerable 40-year-old center fielder has received 540,390 votes, while Hank Aaron of Atlanta is third with 526,386.

The closest race is for the starting shortstop berth. Bud Harrelson of the Mets leads with 276,809, but he is followed closely by Don Kessinger of the Cubs, 211,885, and Maury Wills of the Dodgers, 197,735.

Willie Stargell of the Pirates, who leads the majors in homers and RBI, is third in the outfield behind Mays and Aaron. Joining Bench and Harrelson as the infield leaders are Willie McCovey, Giants, first base; Glenn Beckert, Cubs, second base; and Joe Torre, Cardinals, third base.

The All-Star game is scheduled to be played Tuesday night, July 13, in Detroit.

Kitchener Kickers Complete Deal—Player for Soccer Ball

KITCHENER, Ont. (AP) — Istvan Gaal, 21-year-old Hungarian soccer player whose signing by the Kitchener Concordia Kickers of the National Soccer League was considered a coup two months ago, has been traded to Toronto Hungaria—for a soccer ball.

Kicker president John Fischer, in announcing the deal, said: "Well, we weren't going to release him for nothing."

Gaal arrived in Toronto from Italy two months ago. He was reported to have turned down $2,500 a month to play for Bologna.

"He wanted to make a new life for himself in Canada," Fischer said. But Gaal didn't exactly set the turf afire in training for exhibition play.

"He had a few moves," Fischer said. "But he looked bad. At first, we thought he was holding back. He had only arrived in a new country and couldn't speak the language. We thought he'd be okay once he adjusted. But he never improved."

His transfer to Hungaria is ironic because it is the team he was heading for when he stepped off the plane from Italy. However, some friends from Kitchener bumped into him on a Toronto corner and swept him off to Kitchener before Hungaria had a chance to sign him

Compounding Confusion among observers at the Toronto Argonauts training camp are look-alike quarterbacks Greg Barton (left) and Joe Theismann. A lack of sweater numbers and shifting positions has everyone baffled. Both Theismann and Barton were drafted by the National Football League, but decided to play in the Canadian Football League. Signs With Cowboys

Bob Hayes Satisfied With 5-Year Contract

DALLAS (AP) — Swift Bob Hayes, the Dallas Cowboy wide receiver who has been holding out for a year in a salary dispute, says he's definitely satisfied" with his new contract.

The six-year veteran signed a five-year pact Thursday. It includes a rare clause whereby the Cowboys must get Hayes' authorization before they can trade him.

No salary was disclosed but sources close to the Cowboys said it was about $60,000. He was asking about $75,000.

Hayes acknowledged he was "one or two of the highest paid receivers in professional football."

The flanker played out his option with the National Football League Cowboys last season and had to take a 10 per cent salary cut.

Has Been Shopping

He has been shopping with the other NFL teams and the Canadian clubs.

"A lot of teams were interested," Hayes said "A lot of teams could have used me but they were afraid to approach us," Hayes said, referring to the possible required compensation to the Cowboys by any team that had signed him.

"I felt I would go with any team that could come up with the money," he said. "Believe it or not, it was Dallas."

He said he had a right to be bitter about his dealings this past year with Dallas, because of the compensation rule.

He discounted playing pro ball in Canada because of the cold weather.

"I'm happy here," the speedster said. "I started here and I want to end up here." The major factor in coming to terms was "basically the money," he said.

Top Combinations

Dallas could have one of the best receiver combinations in pro football with Hayes and Lance Alworth, who it acquired after the 1970 season.

Alworth and running back Duane Thomas have yet to sign, however.

When asked about the competition for his job, especially in a few years, Hayes replied: "I always anticipate playing better than the year before, but circumstances are circumstances."

What do Dave McNally and Jim Slaton have in common?

Well, not much really. After all, McNally has been pitching for the Baltimore Orioles for 10 seasons while Slaton wasn't even in the major league when this one began.

But they both had the opposition in the palms of their hands Thursday as they tossed four-hitters, McNally stopping Washington 6-1 at night and Slaton carrying the Milwaukee Brewers to a 6-0 blanking of California in a day game.

In the only other American League night game on the abbreviated schedule, Detroit silenced Cleveland 3-0. Oakland's game at Minnesota was rained out.

12th Victory

McNally's 12th triumph of the year against just four setbacks put him second only to Oakland's 15-game winner Vida Blue in major league victories. Slaton, 2-1, was rewarded with his first complete game and first shutout in the majors.

The Baltimore left-hander got all the runs he needed in the first inning as Don Buford crashed a leadoff homer and Brooks Robinson followed walks to Boog Powell and Frank Robinson with a single for the first of his three runs batted in.

Brooks also lofted a bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the third and singled a run home in the fifth, then took second on a walk and scored himself when Andy Etchbarren, grounded into a forceout, but kept the Senators busy in a rundown before being tagged out.

6½ Game Lead

The victory was the Orioles' 20th in 25 games and kept them 6½ games ahead of Detroit in the American League East.

The Brewers staked Slaton to a five-run lead in the fourth inning and the yoyung hurled protected with a two-hitter until the Angels opened the eighth with a pair of singles. Bu a forceout and Tony Gonzalez' double play grounder go him out of danger.

Tommy Harper ignited the Brewers' outburst with their first hit off Clyde Wright, 7-7. A walk and Andy Kosco's single broke the scoreless duel ajd, after anotheyr walk, Dave Ma smacked a three-run double, then scored on Slaton's infield single when catcher Jeff Torborg dropped the throw to the plate.

Mickey Lolich scattered eight hits and fanned 11 Cleveland batters as the Tigers slipped past idle Boston into second place in the East Division.

Singles by Dick McAuliffe and Mickey Stanley and Norm Cash's sacrifice fly produced a first-inning run and Detroit capped the scoring in the seventh on Aurelio Rodriguez' double, Gene Lamont's single, Lolich's sacrifice and McAuliffe's single.

MACTON, N. B. (AP) — Clyde Gray, the Canadian welterweight boxing champion from Toronto, scored his 17th straight knockout against Gene Herrick of Boston Thursday night.

Plunkett, Manning Unsigned

Pastorini Inks 4-Year Contract With Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Santa Clara's Dan Pastorini became the first of the "big three" quarterback draftees to sign his pro contract Thursday, but he's not kicking about possibly giving the other two something to aim for in negotiations.

"I'm satisfied with my contract," said the 6-foot-3 217-pound Pastorini, the Oilers' No. 1 choice in the National Football League draft Jan. 28. "If they can get more, that's fine with me."

Stanford's Jim Plunkett, drafted by New England, Mississippi's Archie Manning, picked by New Orleans, and Pastorini were the first three players selected in the NFL draft. Plunkett and Manning still are negotiating.

Terms of Pastorini's four-year contract were not disclosed.

Namath-Type

Oilers owner K.S. Adams Jr. introduced the bronzed Pastorini to newsmen and called him a "Joe Namath type" quarterback. Adams said he wasn't happy with the club's dismal 3-10-1 record last season but it did provide one advantage—it gave the Oilers a chance to get Pastorini.

With Pastorini in camp, new Oilers coach Ed Hughes has two veteran signal callers—Charlie Johnson and Jerry Rhome—and two rookies—Pastorini and Lynn Dickey of Kansas State—from which to choose.

Pastorini agreed last year's club record wasn't good and expressed hope it would improve "so they won't have to look for more quarterbacks."

He wasn't sure about being compared with Namath, remarking "I may drop back like Namath does, but I don't have the social life of Namath."

During his career at Santa Clara, Pastorini completed 293 of 540 passes for a 53.8 percentage. His tosses went for 3,820 yards and 35 touchdowns.

Pastorini, who played in both the Senior Bowl and East-West Shrine game, will report in Chicago July 8 for the college all-star game against the world champion Baltimore Colts. He'll arrive at the Oilers' training camp July 31.

Rookies report July 10 and veterans a week later.

IL All-Stars Outlast Yanks In Exhibition

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The International League All-Stars pounded three Yankee pitchers for 17 hits, then held on to defeat New York 15-13 Thursday night in the 15th annual IL All-Star game

A crowd of 11,001 saw the Stars slam three home runs, then take a 15-7 lead. But the Yankees struck back and had the tying runs on base when the game ended.

Left-hander Bill Rohr of Tidewater was the winning pitcher. He pitched a scoreless fifth inning. In the bottom of that inning, Dave McDonald of Winnipeg hit a home-run to break a 7-7 tie. The blow came off right-hander Jim Hardin, who was also clipped for a three-run home run by George Pena of Syracuse.

Pena drove in five runs, with a home run, single and double, and was voted the most valuable player in the game.

Phil Esposito First Winner of Pearson Trophy

TORONTO (AP) — Phil Esposito, record-breaking scoring center with The Boston Bruins, was named Thursday the first winner of the Lester B. Pearson Trophy, awarded to the most valuable player in the National Hockey League selected by the players.

Pearson, former Canadian prime minister, made the presentation himself at a dinner attended by 60 NHL players here to take part in their annual golf tournament which starts today.

"It must be a great honor to be chosen by your peers," Pearson told Esposito as he presented the trophy. The rangy Bruins' star scored a record 76 goals and 152 points in regular season play in 1970-71.

Tavern Loop Softball Champions Crowned

KAUKAUNA — First half play in the recreation department sponsored Tavern Softball League has ended with Al and Dot's taking the crown with a 5-1 record.

Tied for second with 4-2 records were Jerry and Dee's and Powers' Pub. Second half play will begin next week with a play-off scheduled, if needed, to determine overall city championship

Phils Trip Cincinnati, 3-1

Dodgers Trounce Cardinals; Seaver's HR Tips Montreal

By DICK COUCH

What is so rare as a day in June?

Any weekday when the Dodgers play baseball in Los Angeles.

Or a Tom Seaver home run

The Dodgers made the most of an infrequent matinee home date Thursday, trouncing St. Louis 11-4 with a sunburst of 14 hits.

Then, in a night game, the New York Mets made the most of Seaver's second major league homer—a tie-breaking shot in the eighth inning—to nip the Montreal Expos 2-1 behind their ace right-hander's five-hitter

In the only other game on the National League schedule, Philadelphia shaded Cincinnati 3-1 on a two-run single by rookie Roger Freed in the 10th inning

Bounce Back

The Dodgers, beaten twice by the Cardinals under the lights, bounced back to take the finale of the three-game set before an afternoon crowd of 19,282.

"Not bad for a mid-week game," said a club official.

It was the only midweek day game scheduled this season for Los Angeles, where the Dodgers played exclusively at night last year except on weekends.

"I like it," said Jim Lefebvre, who broke out of a two-week slump to pace the Dodgers' attack with a homer and two singles, good for four runs batted in. "Now I can have dinner at home and relax."

Lefebvre, who went into the game with just four hits in his previous 38 at-bats, poked an RBI single as the Dodgers exploded for eight runs in the second inning, then poled his seventh homer of the season with two on in the fourth.

Not Taking

"A good hitter gets his pitch and then hits it," said Lefebvre, whose three hits brought his season average back up to .284. "I've been getting the good pitch, all right, but I've been taking it instead of hitting it. Today I hit."

Seaver jumped on a 1-1 pitch from Bill Stoneman with two out in the eighth and drove it over the left field fence to break a 1-1 deadlock at Montreal. The first homer of his five-year NL career also came at the expense of the Expos—last season with Rich Nye the victim.

He struck out nine Expos on the way to his ninth victory against three setbacks.

Stoneman, 9-6, also gave up five hits before giving way to a pinch-hitter in the eighth and struck out eight, bringing his league-leading total to 134.

The Reds, victims of Rick Wise's no-hitter Wednesday night, finally broke their scoring famine when two-out doubles by Tony Perez and Bernie Carbo in the ninth lifted them into a 1-1 tie.

But the Phils pushed over the deciding runs in the 10th on Larry Bowa's single, a sacrifice, two walks and Freed's bases-loaded single up the middle.

NCAA Not Pleased

NBA Governors Ease 4-Year Rule

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — A sports war between the National Basketball Association and the NCAA appeared imminent today with the NBA's relaxing of a so-called "four year rule" to permit hardship case collegians to join the pro ranks.

"It looks as if the NBA is declaring all-out war against colleges," said University of Massachusetts coach Jack Leaman, who recently lost junior Julius Erving to the American Basketball Association.

"The colleges have been a free minor league system for pro basketball, but maybe now things will change," Leaman said.

The NBA long has held it would not sign a player until after his sclass has graduated. However, in the face of a recent court ruling and actions by the rival ABA, the board of governors revised the league rule Thursday at the windup of annual league meetings.

Under the rule change, a college player who has not completed his education may request permission for NBA draft eligibility. The player must prove he is a hardship case based on what NBA President J. Walter Kennedy called "financial condition, his family, his academic record or lack of it, and his ability to obtain employment in another field."

Petraglia Has Lead of 5 Pins At Portland

Has 217 Average After Two Rounds; Booth Rolls 300 Line

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Johnny Petraglia, leading money winner this year on the pro bowling tour, averaged over 217 Thursday to take the lead of five pins after two rounds in the $35,000 Portland Open Bowling tournament.

The 24-year-old left-hander from Brooklyn, N.Y., who has a record $70,928 to his credit this year and is the winner of four events in 1971, started the day with a six-game set of 1,287 then followed with a 1,324 effort for a total of 2,611 after 12 games.

Don Helling, St. Louis, and a southpaw as are the first four men on the scoreboard, began the day with a 1,230 effort, then came back with 1,376 to move into the runnerup spot with 2,606 pins. Helling, who owns one professional Bowlers Association championship, was trailed by Mike McGrath, El Cerrito, Calif., who totalled 2,602 for the day.

Bob Hood, Daly City, Calif., made it 4-for-4 for the portsiders when he finished his day's work with 2,578.

Breaking the spell by southpaws was Jim Godman, Lorain, Ohio, winner of five PBA titles in addition to the Masters Tournament in Detroit last month.

Godman got things rolling with a 1,291, then came through with a 1,246 set to show 2,537 for the first two blocks.

Highlight of the evening's action was a 300 game by Terry Booth of Mt. View, Calif. Booth's second 300 of his career moved him into eighth place with 2,525 sticks.

All 128 men in the field shoot six more qualifying games today, after which their number will be cut to 24. Those 24 finalists enter match game play later in the day with a champion to be decided Saturday night.

Ann Grant Cops Singles Crown

Ann Grant of Appleton won the ladies singles tournament at the Fox Cities Racquet Club by defeating Doris Luedtke, 6-2, 6-4.

In the Tuesday Ladies Singles League, Emily West, Appleton, defeated Oshkosh's Miss Luedtke in a playoff for the title, 4-6, 7-6, 6-2.

Miss Grant reached the finals by downing Karen Buckstaff of Oshkosh, 6-1, 6-0. Miss Luedtke advanced with a 6-4, 6-1 win over Ruth Russler of Appleton.

Perzanowski Wins Benefit

White Sox Explode in Eighth to Hand Cross-Town Cubs Loss, 7-3

WHITE SOX EXPODE 330

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox, who proved to the cross-town rival Chicago Cubs Thursday their current rampage is for real, try for a season high of five consecutive victories tonight.

The Pale Hose, launching a weekend series with the California Angels under the Comiskey Park lights, actually won their fifth in a row with a 7-3 come-from-behind triumph over the Cubs at Wrigley Field in a boys benefit contest.

The Sox, making a habit of big innings, exploded for all seven runs in the eighth inning as Rich McKinney blasted a three-run homer and Jay Johnstone hammered a two-run blast

The revived Sox, roaring like gangbusters since an 18-8 clobbering of the Minnesota Twins last Sunday, sent comeback-trying Joel Horlen (2-4) against the Angels' Tom Murphy.

Meanwhile, the Cubs return to the road, after two successive losses at San Francisco, to face the Cardinals at St Louis tonight with Bill Hands (8-8) trying to snap a three-game Cub losing streak against the Cards' Al Santorini (0-3).

A split partisan crowd of 32,485 watched the White Sox erupt in the eighth to erase a 3-0 deficit with their seven-run spree on six hits against rookie Burt Hooton, Ray Newman and Phil Regan.

Perzanowski Wins

Newman was the loser and Sox rookie Stan Perzanowski, former Appleton Foxes star, the winner.

Until the big eighth, the Sox were held to four harmless singles.

The Cubs scored their three runs in the fifth on successive singles by Billy Williams, Ron Santo and Joe Pepitone, spiced by two Sox errors.

The Sox will be trying for their first home victory over the Angels, who have a 2-0 record here and 1-2 against Chicago at home.

The Cubs have a 4-5 record against the Cards, standing 0-3 at St. Louis.

Menasha Defeated, 6-5

Waupaca, Wausau Advance With Wins In Amateur Tourney

Waupaca and Wausau each advanced with wins Thursday night in the Marion-Clintonville District Amateur Baseball Tournament.

Playing at Marion, Waupaca scored six runs in the first inning enroute to a 6-4 win over Star Neva. In a game continued from Wednesday night, Wausau scored in the top of the eighth to tip Menasha, 6-5.

The Menominee County and Nichols game was cancelled at Marion due to rain.

A three-run homer by Rick Riddle, a two RBI single by Bob Solberg and a bases loaded walk produced Waupaca's six first inning runs.

Both Hit Homers

Run-scoring singles by Rollie Wissbrocker and Bill Grams gave Star Neva runs in the second and third frames. Back-to-back homers by Max Johnson and losing pitcher Terry Young accounted for the final two runs in the eighth.

Ken Tappa scattered seven hits, walked two and fanned nine to pick up the win.

Menasha led Wausau, 2-1, when rain forced postponement of Wednesday night's game. Wausau gained a 5-2 lead after six innings, but Menasha tied the game in the seventh.

In the decisive eighth, however, Dan Pregont doubled in Gary Bird with the winning run after Bird reached on a fielder's choice.

Ed Sattler was credited with the win for Wausau, while Dan Ferry was charged with the loss. Jim Cepress led Wausau's offense with four hits in five tries, including two home runs.

In tonight's action at Marion, Menominee County meets Nichols at 6:30 p.m., and Marion faces Polar at 8:30. The Marion-Polar contest is a continuation from Wednesday when the game was postponed in the bottom of the second because of rain.

Faces Bonduel

On Saturday, Symco faces Bonduel at 6:30 p.m., and Bowler meets the winner of the Marion and Polar game.

Over in Clintonville, Freedom duels Oneida in a 6:30 contest, while Green Bay plays Stevens Point in the nightcap at 8:30.

Clintonville meets the winner of the Freedom-Oneida tilt at 6:30 p.m., Saturday, while Wausau takes on the winner of the Green Bay and Stevens Point game at 8:30 p.m.

Consolation and championship games are slated for July 5 at Clintonville, with three teams advancing to the state meet in Madison later in July.

Milwaukee Polo Team Loses to Oak Brook

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Oak Brook, Ill., came back after trailing 5-3 at the half Wednesday to beat Milwaukee 8-6 in a National Polo League match. The game had been rescheduled after being rained out Sunday.

Kiley Pitches Appleton to Legion Victory

Scatters 4 Hits To Lead Win Over Weyauwega, 6-2

WEYAUWEGA — Terry Kiley scattered four hits to pitch Appleton to a 6-2 American Legion victory over Weyauwega Thursday night

Kiley walked only one and struck out three as Appleton won its fourth straight in the Southern Division (Upper Section) of the Valley Legion League.

Appleton's over-all record is 9-1.

Bob Pearson and Mike Heinritz each had two hits as Appleton scored once in the third and seventh and twice in the sixth and eighth.

Lee Bauman scored twice for Appleton when he twice reached first on errors, and twice tried to steal second, and twice wound up scoring when the throws to second sailed into center field.

Weyauwega got single runs in the third and eighth frames.

Kerry Everts pitched seven innings for Wega and was charged with the loss.

Appleton hosts Sheboygan in a 2:00 p.m., game Saturday at Goodland Field, then moves to Waupaca for a non-lague contest Sunday.

Military Golf Posts Win Over Jack's in Tournament

KAUKAUNA — Military Golfland of Green Bay defeated Jack's Rose Hill Bar and Klinger Paint of Oshkosh topped Pizza Hut of Appleton in Thursday night action in the annual Kaukauna Athletic Club Softball Tournament.

A third game between Howie's Bar of Readfield and 616 Club of Green Bay was postponed due to rain and will be played on the No. 2 diamond at 6 p.m. this eveining.

Military edged Jack's Rose Hill, 3-2 behind the pitching of Tom Lemorande while Klinger's rolled past Pizza Hut, 10-3.

In other action tonight, Military Golf will face the Kaukauna Athletic Club on the No. 1 diamond at 6 p.m.; at 7:15 it will be National Aluminum of Racine against Pike's Bar of Wausau and at 8:30 p.m., Loch's Bar of Green Bay faces the winner of the 616 Club-Howie's Bar game.

Lemorande was touched for six hits by Jack's Rose Hill, but kept them well scattered. Bob Ellison, the losing hurler, allowed seven safeties. Jerry Hudson and Ron LeGross each had two hits for Military.

Don Lehman struck out seven and hit a 2-run homer in the first inning for Klinger Paints and Tom Dillie had three hits. For the losing Pizza Hut team, Butch Springer slammed a home run. Bob Hietpas was the losing hurler.

Kaukauna in Running as Site For World Softball Tournament

BY CLIFF CRISTL

With its spacious layout and well manicured diamonds at the Doty Bayorgean Recreation Area, Kaukauna has earned the reputation of having one of the finest softball facilities in the state.

And now the word has apparently spread to the national level. Because the International Softball Congress is considering holding its 1973 World Fast-Pitch Tournament there.

"I talked to the national commissioner, Carrol Forbes, last summer at Kerman, Calif. (site of the 1970 tournament)," State Commissioner Les Dietzen reported. "And he told me our chances of getting the tournament in 1973 were good if we met the specifications."

Likes Field

And Forbes visited Kaukauna early this month, substantiating his interest and enhancing the city's chances.

"He told me at that time, we had one of the best diamonds he had seen in the last 10 years and that they would be willing to take a chance on us." Dietzen said.

The specifications, neither of which Dietzen figures will be difficult to meet, are the guarantee of 5,000 seats and adequate restroom facilities.

The East Diamond (which has become the primary playing site this year) at present can accomodate approximately 2,500 people. However the city owns enough bleachers to meet the 5,000 requirement.

Plans for building additional restrooms closer to the diamond are being formulated. And the city is expected to give its approval in the near future.

Once construction is completed Dietzen can complete his bid, which will be voted on late this summer.

Oshkosh Makes Bid

Incidentally one of the chief rivals in the bidding will be Oshkosh. However the two diamonds on the one the are an additional selling point for Kaukauna.

The ISC, which is celebrating its 25th anniversary this year, is holding its 1971 tourney at Tulsa, Okla. and 1972 meet at Rock Island, Ill. The tournament is scheduled during the 10 days before Labor Day.

Prior to last year, the World Tournament had been held at Rock Island for nine consecutive years. Two years ago Dietzen attended the tournament there and said, "I wouldn't take 100 diamonds in Rock Island for the one right here."

Rotation Possible

Dietzen also revealed that if Kaukauna is selected as the 1973 site it could be more than a one-shot deal.

"The national commissioner is talking about three sites — Tulsa, Rock Island and one in Wisconsin — to be rotated on a permanent basis," Dietzen said.

The ISC would prefer a Midwest city for financial reasons. The national organization helps defray transportation expenses for each participating team, and thus a central location is more desirable.

LaFave Won't Push for Banning Party Permit

MADISON, Wis (AP) — State Sen Reuben La Fave, R-Oconto, says he has decided not to push for passage of his bill to ban party permits for deer hunting.

La Fave said he reached the decision after the Natural Resources Board voted to eliminate party permits in northern Wisconsin this fall.

"Now that they've concluded I was right, I'm not going to tell other legislators what should be done in their districts," La Fave said.

The Oconto Republican said he originally offered the bill because of a heavy deer kill during last year's severe winter. An estimated 50,000 deer died during the winter food shortage.

Party permits enable a group of four hunters to take an extra deer of either sex after four bucks already have been bagged.

Such hunting will be banned in this fall's deer season, Nov. 20-28, north of a line from St. Croix Falls east on U.S. 8 to Tomahawk, on U.S. 51 to Wausau, and on Wisconsin 29 and 22 to Oconto.

Whitlinger in Quarter-Finals Of Net Tourney

Neenah's John Whitlinger advanced to the quarter-finals of the Pacific Coast Tennis Tournament by defeating Neal Edwab of Roslyn Heights, N.Y. by scores of 7-5, 6-3 Thursday.

John is now paired against Pat DuPrez of Birmingham, Ala. in today's action.

In the doubles, Whitlinger and his partner, Billy Brock, of Norfolk, Va., advanced to the quarter-finals by defeating Tim Monroe and Bill Ray, of Sacramento, Calif., 6-2, 6-2 Thursday.

Wood Receives Nomination for White Award

CHICAGO (AP) — Green Bay safetyman Willie Wood and four other National Football League players have been nominated for the Byron R. White humanitarian award.

The award, highest given by the NFL Players Association, goes to the member "who best serves his team, community and country in the spirit of Byron "Whizzer" White," a U.S. Supreme Court justice who was a college and pro football star more than 30 years ago.

Also nominated are Kermit Alexander of Los Angeles, Bill Curry of Baltimore, Fran Tarkenton of the New York Giants and Andy Russell of Pittsburgh.

WSUC Honor Roll Lists 361 Student-Athletes

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A total of 361 student-athletes were listed today on the Wisconsin State University Conference scholastic honor roll for 1970-71.

All earned at least a B average for the last two semesters or three quarters.

Stevens Point's Bob Henning of West Allis, an all-conference basketball guard and baseball outfielder, was among those excelling in the classroom.

Other athletic standouts on the list were Eau Claire's Kent Parkovich from Portage, conference baseball batting champion, and Jed Marohl of Oshkosh, record-setting pole vaulter. Marohl lives in Cecil.

Brewers Place Dick Ellsworth On Waiver List

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Brewers placed veteran pitcher Dick Ellsworth on waivers today for the purpose of granting him his unconditional release.

Ellsworth, 31, was acquired last August from Cleveland. He appeared in 11 games with the Brewers this season, all in relief and had a 0-1 record and a 4.91 earned run average.

He gave up three hits and two runs in one-third inning in relief Wednesday night during the second game of a doubleheader with the California Angels.

Legendary Ken Washington Grid Star, Succumbs at 52

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Kenny Washington, a lengendary football player for UCLA and the Los Angeles Rams, died Thursday night, the UCLA Medical Center said.

Washington, 52, had been suffering from polyarteriis, a heart and respiratory condition.

Washington's long slender legs churned out a UCLA school record of 1,915 yards as a varsity tailback in 1937-39.

"I can take a little exercise, walking around, but I get tired pretty easily," he said in an interview last year from a hospital bed at UCLA. He was later released.

A spokesman for UCLA said Washington was readmitted June 11 and placed in a private room. He died at 6:15 p.m.

It was primarily Washington who ran and passed UCLA nearly 1,300 yards in the air, out of obscurity into national acclaim.

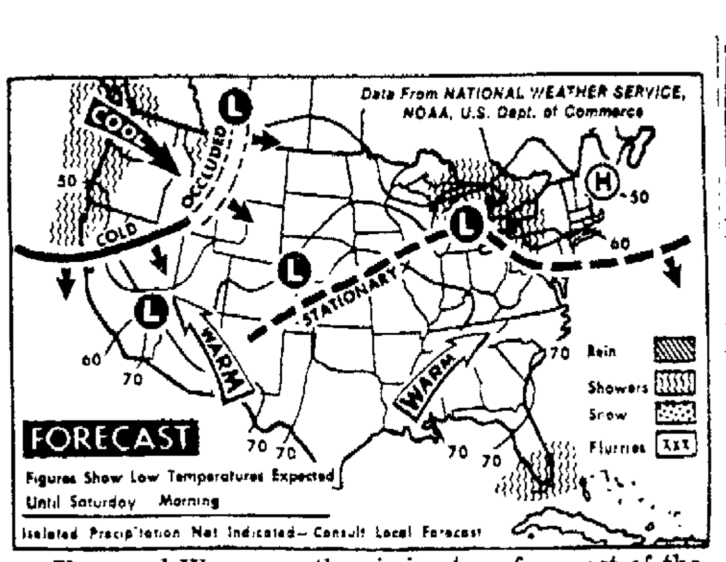

And it was Washington who in 1946 became the first black man to play in the National Football League in 13 years—with the Rams.

As for his illness, Washington told friends, "I'll think I'll whip it."

But last year Washington was reported near death with polyarteriis, a disease in which fluid congested around his heart and lungs.

In October 1970, about 1,000 friends and admirers from sports, entertainment business and government gathered at the Hollywood Paladium to honor him.

From all appearances at the affair Washington had the illness whipped. He stood straight on the long slender legs and knobby knees that were a chronic bother in his football days, but once off galloping, he was hard to bring down.

Clear and Warm weather is in store for most of the nation tonight. Showers will fall in southern Florida, the Great Lakes and in the Pacific Northwest. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Lawrence to Hold Session On Ecology

Man's relation to his cultural and natural environment will be the subject of Lawrence University's Summer University Program July 11-17.

Alumni affairs director Lynn Eilefson said the program is open to alumni and others, interested in intellectual development within a relaxed atmosphere.

The aim of the program, according to Eilefson, is to study man's ecology from the standpoint of art and the social sciences as well as that of the natural sciences.

Three members of the Lawrence faculty have designed a "mini-course" for the program in which they will pool their expertise. Corri Azzi, instructor in economics; E. Dane Purdo, associate professor of art, and David West, assistant professor of biology.

The program will include eight classroom sessions and several social and recreational activities. Persons interested in attending the summer university may register by contacting the Office of Alumni Affairs in Sampson House on the university campus.

The registration fee is $15. Those who wish accommodations, can arrange dormitory housing and meals in the Jason Downer Food Center for $70.

Kaukauna to Receive AAA Pedestrian Award

KAUKAUNA — Word has been received by Mayor Gilbert Anderson that Kaukauna is one of 10 state communities to be honored for its pedestrian safety record at a July 9 luncheon at Park Motor Inn, Madison.

The recognition program is sponsored by the American Automobile Association and is based on the safety record of 1970.

Wisconsin Eggs

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin Egg Market Thursday: Prices ½ cent higher on large, unchanged on mediums; demand fair; supplies plentiful. Prices: Grade A large 39-40½: mediums 29-30.

Risser New Chairman of Joint Legislative Council

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The Joint Legislative Council shouldered aside a challenge to tradition Thursday and chose Democratic Sen. Fred Risser as its chairman.

Risser, the Senate minority leader, was elected 8-7 with the help of votes from Assembly members although an Assembly Democrat, Rep. Joseph Sweda, also was pitching for the assignment.

Sweda was chosen vice chairman. He indicated annoyance that he hadn't gotten better support from Assembly members, who control the council 9-6.

Risser, a Democrat from Madison, was solidly backed by Republicans who noted an assemblyman held the job in the last legislative session.

"Fred Risser and I have had our battes," Republican Sen. Ernest Keppler said, "but as a matter of principle, the chairmanship should alternate between the Senate and the Assembly."

Risser said his first objective is to arrange a study of the effectiveness of the council, which oversees legislative operations when lawmakers aren't formally in session.

The council also takes charge of many legislative studies.

Councilmen approved plans for them to attend a national legislative leaders convention in Minneapois Aug. 17-20.

Attendance of legislators on an expense-account junket to a similar conference in Puerto Rico last year touched off loud protests.

STATE OF WISCONSIN
SS.
COUNTY OF OUTAGAMIE)

I, Arthur J. Hoolihan, County Clerk of Outagamie County DO HEREBY CERTIFY that the attached Ordinance was adopted by the Outagamie County Board of Supervisors in regular session on the 22nd day of June, 1971

CERTIFIED this 23rd day of June, 1971.
ARTHUR J HOOLIHAN
County Clerk

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE OUTAGAMIE COUNTY ZONING ORDINANCE BY PLACING CERTAIN LANDS IN SECTION 32, T23N, R15E TOWN OF MAPLE CREEK, IN TWO-FAMILY DISTRICT.

Subject matter of the Ordinance having been duly referred to and considered by the Outagamie County Zoning Committee and Public Hearing having been held after the giving of requisite notice of said hearing, and a recommendation as required by Section 59.79 of the Wisconsin Statutes, said Board does ordain as follows

Section 1 The Zoning Map entitled "District Map, Outagamie County, Wisconsin, Town of Maple Creek," is hereby amended to change from Agricultural District to Two-Family Residence District, the area shown on the map attached hereto and made a part of this ordinance.

THE PROPERTY AFFECTED IS DESCRIBED AS FOLLOWS

A parcel of land in the NW¼ of the SW¼ of Section 32, T23N, R15E, Town of Maple Creek, Outagamie County, Wisconsin, bounded and described as follows: Commencing at the Northwest Corner of said NW¼ of the SW¼; Thence Southerly along the West line of said NW¼ of the SW¼, 501.00 feet to the point of beginning; thence Northerly along said West line, 265.00 feet; thence Easterly at right angles to said West line, 233.00 feet; thence Southerly parallel with the West line of said NW¼ of the SW¼, 265.00 feet; thence Westerly 233.00 feet to the point of beginning. Containing 1.4 acres of land more or less. Reserving that part now being used for public road purposes.

Section 2. This Ordinance shall be in full force and effect in the Town of Maple Creek upon filing with the County Clerk of Outagamie County of a certified copy of a resolution of the Town Board of Supervisors of said Town approving said Ordinance, or 40 days after adoption of the Ordinance by the County Board unless a certified copy of a resolution disapproving the amendment is filed with the County Clerk within that time.

Section 3. All Ordinances or part of Ordinances inconsistent with or in contravention of provisions of this ordinance are hereby repealed.

We Want Out of Vietnam

The effort by the United States Senate to set a definite date for the end of American military participation in Indochina should not come as a surprise. The uproar over the "Pentagon Papers" and the vehement reaction to them by the Nixon Administration have given many Americans, including members of Congress, second thoughts about the war. If the theories by which we became embroiled were erroneous or even merely deceitful, is there any sense to prolonging the conflict or compounding the mistakes?

The element of politics and the election campaign coming up next year must not be discounted in viewing the Senate moves. Many senators who come up for re-election in 1972 enthusiastically endorsed the Tonkin Golf Resolution which virtually gave President Johnson a free hand to conduct the war in Asia. The support is bound to be embarrassing for many senators even though the resolution was rejected last year. One way they may feel they can get off the hook is to back immediate withdrawal or at least set a date for withdrawal.

There is further the issue of the American prisoners of war in North Vietnam. Whether President Nixon intended it or not, the POWs have become a political issue. Unfortunate statements by the President and other members of his administration as to the number of prisoners and rigid opposition to pulling out all American troops until all POWs are released — an impossible requirement to corroborate without an American military take-over of North Vietnam — have put Mr. Nixon in the position of appearing to hold up the release of the POWs. How long he can hold out against growing criticism of this stand, particularly by the relatives of POWs. is questionable. Doubts about the Saigon regime and its ability, not only to repel Communist aggression but to find a way of developing enthusiastic national support must only contribute to the disillusion with the Vietnamization plan to get us out of Indochina.

Throughout both the dispute over the publication of the report of the Pentagon study and the debate in Congress, doubts about the lack of contact between the American public and the White House arise. If there is a silent majority, it apparently intends to remain silent. Or perhaps its very silence is the reason Mr. Nixon seems not to understand the overwhelming desire of Americans to get out of this war, perhaps with honor, perhaps quietly and with red faces, but completely.

The bipartisan status of the senators in favor of the latest amendment should not be lost upon Mr. Nixon or the Democratic aspirants to the presidential nomination next year. The continued agitation in Congress for finding a more exact way of ending the war or our active role in it pretty well demonstrates resentment over having been deceived and what may be an unfortunate combining of that deception with an intelligent ending of the conflict.

We were wrong in getting into the war, wrong in the way in which we were persuaded to get into it, we have deep doubts about the Nixon moves in the courts to ban publication of the facts, we want us out. But all these factors do not necessarily add up to reasons for immediate withdrawal with no strings.

Nevertheless that is the way the country is heading. While we concede that all diplomacy cannot be conducted completely in the glare of publicity, it has been the secrecy, often without good reason, on the part of several administrations including the present one, that is the major culprit for the current situation.

Jury Trials for Juveniles

In the 6 to 3 decision by the United States Supreme Court that trial by jury is not required for juvenile proceedings, both views were on the side of the juvenile defendants. The dispute is over how their rights and interests can best be served.

All states have different proceedings for handling court cases of juveniles accused of crimes, misdemeanors or simple delinquency. In almost all cases the aim is to protect the young offenders from the stigma of the criminal. Many proceedings are closed to the public, newspapers do not publish the names of offenders and imprisonment is usually at juvenile homes where rehabilitation is the aim if not always the result. At certain ages and for certain serious crimes, juvenile jurisdiction may be waived in most states.

But since there is the effort to keep the matter quiet, how can the rights of the juvenile be best protected when a public trial by jury is listed in the United States Constitution as a privilege to guarantee the rights of the accused?

In the majority decision, Justice Harry Blackmun argued that the delay and clamor that often accompanies the criminal adversary system in our courts would not be in the juvenile's favor. Justice Douglas. with the minority, argued that since states use juvenile court proceedings to prosecute young people and order their commitment, the defendants were entitled to the same rights as adults. Justice Brennan agreed that jury trials should not be compulsory as long as the proceedings are open to the public. This is not true in all states.

The majority decision once again was an indication of the current court's swing to assuring that authority, whenever possible, belongs to the states. "If, in its wisdom, any state feels the jury trial is desirable in all cases, or in certain kinds, there appears to be no impediment to its installing a system embracing that feature. That, however, is the state's privilege and not its obligation," ruled Justice Blackmun.

Clearly this is a narrow interpretation of the Sixth Amendment. However, nowhere in the Constitution is there any sort of differentiation between the rights of juveniles and those of adults. Since minors in most states cannot be held responsible for everything that adults can be — and this is obviously right — presumably proceedings for juveniles that are different for those required for adults are logical. The high court had earlier ruled that juveniles did have the right to a lawyer and against self-incrimination and to acquittal unless guilt "beyond a reasonable doubt" was proved. But such rulings were aimed at preventing arbitrary commitments. A trial by jury might not be to the juvenile's benefit.

In only one major case has the "new" court given what could be considered an absolute interpretation to constitutional protections no matter what state or local statutes might say. This was its unanimous decision opposing laws prohibiting bussing of school children to achieve the aims of desegregation. In other cases the leeway given to the states has been expanded or at least has reverted to court philosophy of a few decades ago.

What Others Are Saying

Fox River Cleanup Plan

From The Milwaukee Journal

An exciting new proposal has been offered to accomplish what some people consider the impossible — cleaning up the Fox River, the state's dirtiest waterway. A heavy concentration of mills and municipalities is pumping huge quantities of filth into the stream, but separate autonomy poses vexing complications for cleanup.

Now there is a proposal to create a Fox River basin authority, armed with broad powers to spearhead the river's rescue. There is nothing new about development of river basin management plans, but nowhere in the state has there been creation of an agency with authority to implement a plan.

A $200,000 federal grant being sought would help support a $352,000 initial project. A technical board would explore a variety of new techniques that, together, could improve the quality of the Fox dramatically. A policy board would plan a regional organization to be in charge, and would work out enabling legislation.

Need for a broad attack on the Fox's pollution is obvious. Present state abatement orders are generating what eventually will be $100 million worth of cleanup construction. But this will bring the Fox up only to the minimum acceptable for an industrial and cooling water stream. Much more will be necessary if the Fox is ever again to be a decent fishing. recreation and public water supply river.

The legislature will be able to make its contribution to this important development when it comes time to adopt enabling legislation. Local municipalities play the crucial role, however. They would do well to recognize the potential benefit to all by sacrificing those bits of power that, held separately, cannot do the overall job but without which a river basin authority would be meaningless.

"Well, there goes the neighborhood!"

No Forced Integration?

Charge Political Fakery In Nixon Housing Policy

BY KEVIN P. PHILLIPS

WASHINGTON — The major ingredient of President Nixon's new suburban housing policy appears to be political fakery.

Mr. Nixon is following the same pattern he has followed in his "defense" of the neighborhood school — a heavy opening barrage of conservative rhetoric followed by a subsequent activity in the other direction. His repetitive statements opposing "forced integration of the suburbs" are designed to create a strong enough initial impression to stick in people's minds. Thereafter, Nixon strategists hope, events to the contrary will not be identified with the President.

Actually, Nixon officials know they will be moving in liberal directions — with a zigzag or two — from the moment they complete their calculated conservative public relations buildup. Thus, they tell civil rights groups to "watch what we do, not what we say." The administration does not worry too much about the average person in the South or about suburbia catching on. The procedures and regulations are complex and Nixon men count on the knee-jerk criticism of liberal journalists and Urban Coalition-type zealots to reinforce Middle America's belief that the White House is resisting liberal sociology.

The Developments

The pattern of administration action can be shown in a chronological account of suburban housing policy developments:

Throughout the first year and a half of the Nixon Administration, HUD Secretary George Romney and his aides were hard at work on a nationwide plan for dispersal of black city populations into the suburbs. In October, 1970, a detailed analysis in the National Journal said: "Department-wide planning, aimed at knitting virtually every HUD program to the dispersal objective, has been in progress for more than 18 monts."

Romney was working hand-in-glove with the White House. His chief backer there was

Phillips

Counselor Daniel P. Moynihan, who freely admitted, "I'm a dispersal man."

HUD General Counsel Sherman Unger, an old Nixon political aide, repeatedly warned the White House about Romney's plans, but was ignored. Several Romney proposals had been cleared in late June, 1970 by White House Domestic Policy Chief John Ehrlichman, and in early July, the White House had allowed Romney to use the presidential retreat at Camp David for a two-day planning session on suburban integration.

As for Unger, at Romney's request the White House demanded and eventually received his resignation.

In November, 1970, Romney's plans to use federal grants-in-aid to force suburbs to take low-income blacks were prematurely thrown into the national spotlight, and the HUD secretary was immediately muzzled by the politically apprehensive White House. A month later, President Nixon told a White House press conference that he was against "forced integration of the suburbs." He repeated the statement in a television interview. Then he repeated it again. Liberals howled each time. Meanwhile, a statement of administration suburban housing policy was promised.

Seven Months Delay

On June 11, the President issued a 14-page policy statement superficial enough to have been written in two weeks. One conceivable reason for the seven-month delay was public relations: the President's widely publicized comments opposing "forced integration" were creating a popular image not very vulnerable to later policy shifts.

The statement issued on June 11 is deliberately general in its main sections. Angry suburbanites will never be able to focus on any specific words of Mr. Nixon. That is the idea, of course.

Since then, Attorney General Mitchell has brought a number of housing suits, including one controversial action against Blackjack, Mo., to strike down local zoning. HUD Secretary George Romney, acting with the President's approval, has said that federal grants-in-aid — water and sewer funds, etc. — will be used as "leverage" to require suburbs to build low-income housing. Moreover, Romney has committed himself to require metropolitan housing plans, with the proviso that unwilling suburbs will lose all their federal aid money. Coercion? Forced integration? Not at all, says the White House; just a little friendly bureaucratic pressure.

President Nixon's assurances notwithstanding, the administration's suburban housing program seems to be moving once again in the direction of HUD's 1969-1970 planning.

Neenah Editor, Citizens Disagree

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for June 10, 1871.

Rumor has it that the Winnebago County Press is to be removed to Menasha, owing to the dissatisfaction at Neenah because the Editor won't open his columns to a war of words upon the Land Grant Railroad Company for violating its pledges about the location of that road via Neenah to Doty Island.

By the location made, as dictated by George Reed and his confederates, Neenah is "left out in the cold."

Her citizens propose to resist the issuance of the village bonds voted in aid of the road (railroad).

The Four Keynotes, barbershop quartet, were among the entertainers picked for the John Goodland testimonial dinner, at which 250 persons were expected to attend. The Keynotes included Delmont Bradford, Leonard Krueger, Gordon Heule and William Jahnke.

Other entertainers at the public function were to be the Ferron Trio and Miss Elizabeth Appling in a violin solo, accompanied by pianist Ellen Mielke.

Change in Times Reflected by Vote On Contraceptives

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The strikingly decisive vote in the assembly to relax significantly the state's conspicuously restrictive law on the distribution of contraceptives was a surprising event. Until a few years ago those who believed that the law was unwise or unworkable were accustomed to being turned down coldly when they suggested liberalization to representative legislators.

An answer may be that the assemblymen saw in the proposition an idea whose time had come. That was a part of the explanation, but there were others more pragmatic.

There were a number of factors at work. One of them might have been the quality of the debate on the floor, surprisingly enough. Normally talk doesn't change votes on matters as clearcut as this one. But the sponsors of the legislation came into the argument extraordinarily well-prepared by usual standards at the Capitol. They may have persuaded some wavering colleagues with the realistic quality of their arguments.

Can't Enforce Law

Principal among them was the theme that the statutory prohibition of sale of contraceptive devices to the unmarried is unenforceable in fact. The ugly story of the relentless rise of illegitimacy, the case histories of young unmarried mothers with numerous children and the maddeningly high social and tax costs accruing, left a deep impression. Every literate person knows that contraceptives are being used widely and with impunity. To pretend that the law has any effect on availability can only generate contempt among the informed.

One of the most meaningful disclosures in the voting and debate lineup was the aggressive support of a relaxed law by some of the Milwaukee County representatives. Their attitude can probably be attributed to two causes: the rising resentment among working class constituents about the social welfare problems of the metropolis related to the birth of so many hundreds of unwanted and illegitimate children and a diminution of the religious pressures against family planning legislation that had been involved in earlier times.

Perhaps the most significant section of the proposed new law was little noticed in the dispatches. It will authorize social service workers to counsel public assistance clients in family planning with a careful guarantee that any refusal by a recipient to use birth control devices won't prejudice eligibility for aid.

Some Subtle Influences

Other influences that contributed to the turn-about in legislative attitude as measured by the decisive 56-39 preliminary vote in the assembly are perhaps more subtle.

The great focus of public and political attention on matters of sexual morality as related to law lately has been on the issue of abortion. In the cloudy uncertainty that surrounds the status of the state abortion prohibition, it may be that some of the usually conservative or hostile forces on family planning tended to dismiss it as of relatively less consequence.

There was yet another element involved in the decision of this assembly this year to take a roll call position on the legalization of contraceptive devices and materials for unmarried persons, although it is not easily susceptible to measurement.

The next electorate that will make decisions will be significantly younger.

Younger Voters Numerous

The 1972 elections will be decided by an electorate including about 250,000 persons about to be enfranchised under the 18-year-old voting amendment.

As some of the nervous members of the assembly were reminded, those younger voters will have a considerably different attitude on some questions than do many of their elders. Whatever the punitive response to the roll call on the family planning issue, it will be modified in the direction of tolerance and understanding by younger people to whom "the pill" and other manifestations of the new morality convey no shock or shame, after being elements of their vocabulary for years.

Strictly Personal

Politics Shows Need For New Vocabulary

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Suppose doctors still discussed medicine in terms of the "four humors"? Suppose theologians still argued whether "witches" should be burned or ducked? Suppose physicists still referred to the "ether" in the atmosphere?

Every body of knowledge, every discipline, has changed its vocabulary in the last few hundred years, so that the terms they use would correspond with the new facts they gathered. The old words simply didn't apply any more, and were just getting in the way of communication.

Not so in political science. We are still bandying words from the French Revolution, like "right" and "left." We continue to designate persons or positions as "radical" or "conservative," when these appelations are no longer meaningful in terms of their original context. Our political dialog will get absolutely nowhere so long as we do this.

I was reading a lecture the other day, made by a famous economist before a law society. Here are some of the statements the speaker made:

— The majority of the people of the U. S. are (racially) prejudiced.

— Our tax reform bill ended up as a measure for the relief of lawyers and accountants, rather than of taxpayers.

— Once a law is passed, supposedly in the general interest, to set up a governmental agency, that agency is soon taken over by the special interest it is supposed to control.

— The Interstate Commerce Commission promoted the monopoly of the railroads; the Federal Communications Commission has been subject to the control of the networks; the Securities & Exchange Commission works for the brokerage industry; the Civil Aeronautics Board has kept airline fares double what they might be.

— Banking is a monopoly.

— One of the two greatest enemies of "free enterprise" is the businessman.

Are these remarks "radical" or "conservative," as each word is commonly understood? I think most people would designate them as "radical" (or at least as "liberal") sentiments. Yet they were expressed by Prof. Milton Friedman, the University of Chicago economist, who is commonly regarded as belonging to the "far right" in the political and economic spectrum, and perhaps the nation's most respectable spokesman for genuine conservatism.

The words we continue to use in politics only obscure the ideas. We desperately need a new lexicon, just to agree on what we disagree about.

So What.

When you see this sticker on the windshield, it means the car has passed our tough 16-point safety and performance test. It means the car is fully reconditioned. It means we guarantee 100% the repair or replacement of all major mechanical parts* for 30 days or 1000 miles. And it means you won't get stuck when you buy one.

Check That Business Phone Bill for Errors

BY SYLVIA PORTER

An astounding 90 percent of the telephone bills New York businessmen receive are incorrect, according to one informed estimate — because of overcharges or undercharges of rental of equipment. Your business may be overpaying its monthly telephone bills by 40 per cent or more, because of clerical errors alone Or you may be paying for equipment you do not even have, just because of the telephone company's complicated order and billing procedures

Porter

In one case, a medium-size public relations firms was charged for an entirely different telephone system than had been installed; correction of the clerical error shaved 42 per cent off the company's monthly bill. In another instance, a medium-size law firm was able to cut its bills 77 per cent by installing a new system. In still another case, a brokerage firm's savings came to 58 per cent.

What about your business? Ronald Chernow, a former Bell System employe who now heads a New York City communications consulting firm bearing his name, has put together for me 10 basic guides to help you slash your business telephone bills You can use them whether your business is large or small

Plain Phone

(1) Don't order equipment you don't need. For instance, if your office staff includes only five people, you do not need fancy, multi-button equipment for each desk A simple black telephone unit with three incoming and outgoing lines can cut your monthly rental in half

(2) Check how many long distance telephone calls you make, and if you make a lot, considering installing a WATS line to save money. The telephone company will make a WATS study for you to determine its feasibility if you ask for it

(3) Never take a telephone bill for granted If you honestly feel you have a reasonable complaint against the phone company for its service, you may be entitled to a refund. The phone company is not as obstinate as it may seem about "reasonable" complaints on bills

(4) If you find a proven overcharge on your June bill, demand that the telephone company correct the error in time for next month's July bill Too often, the phone company would rather not disturb its records system by correcting your bill immediately, says Chernow, "especially if the next billing period is at hand, and then the mistake can escalate at your expense."

Personal Calls

(5) Install only enough phones to accommodate your key people — thus eliminating the growing trend toward long personal phone calls by employes. The telephone company leases its equipment and assigns a monthly rate charge to each piece. In a small office, a $40 monthly charge may represent 80-100 pieces; in a large office, thousands of pieces of equipment will be involved. "It's easy to see," Chernow remarks, "how an honest mistake in billing procedures can result in erroneous telephone bills "

(6) If you suspect your monthly charge is exorbitant, ask for a new listing of equipment you are renting. You have a right to this information. Sudden jumps in your bills can often be traced to a clerical error in the phone company's billing department.

Outside Equipment

(7) Don't buy equipment outside the system serving you unless you are absolutely sure the equipment is superior and you'll receive good service at no cost from the supplying company. The outside service calls, which are free from the Bell System can cost you more in the long run.

(8) Let the telephone company's salesman analyze your problems, determine your needs and shape your place up. He's the expert in communications, not you. He knows what's best for your office

(9) Get a basic checklist at the start on your equipment from the salesman so you will know what is installed at what cost.

(10) Then make sure the equipment you've ordered is actually installed. If there's any discrepancy, complain at once.

Skydiver's Chute Opens At 20 Feet

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A skydiver plunged more than a mile Wednesday before a balky parachute opened, halting his fall some 20 feet from the ground and death.

"I thought it was all over," said Jack Witt, 25, of Milwaukee.

"Everyone came running over," Witt said. "But I was already up and walking around."

Witt said when his main parachute didn't open properly he released it to open his reserve chute. But the pilot chute tangled in his harness and prevented the reserve chute from opening.

"I kept pulling on the pilot and I finally managed to tear a large chunk out of it," Witt said, and the reserve chute opened

"When it blossomed out, I looked down and I was about 20 feet from the ground," Witt said, adding that the chute stopped his fall almost instantly and his landing was normal

"That pilot is made of nylon and it's hard to tear," Witt said. "In fact, when I was safe on the ground, I decided to try it again and I couldn't rip it. That should tell you something."

Census Data Needed for Reapportionment Delayed

It will be late October before 1970 census data is available in form useable for redrawing local political boundaries to equalize population and representation, the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) has informed member communities.

In a memo issued this week, Ken Thien, COG housing planner, also said that due to an error by the Census Bureau, the Fox Valley metropolitan area may not receive some information it had hoped would be available now that the area is a federally-recognized Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area (SMSA).

Thien also reported that COG has begun to receive other portions of the local census from the state agency handling it for federal officials.

By gaining SMSA status, an area is supposed to receive more detailed breakdowns of census figures, and some kinds of statistics that are unavailable to areas that don't qualify as SMSA's.

Neighborhood Groups

Thien's memo states that the first census breakdown available to the three counties, Outagamie, Winnebago and Calumet, that make up the local SMSA should have been for groups of local blocks, containing information about neighborhoods of about 800 people each.

The information is unavailable, however, "because of certain errors that the Census Bureau still is not able to explain," said Thien.

Lawrence Michaels, COG director, added that it is unlikely that the Census Bureau will produce the information later.

"It does appear that we won't have the block group data until the next census, said Michaels He was asked to elaborate on the memo Thursday for Thien, who is on vacation.

Michaels said the block group information apparently never came out of the computer as it should have when the local raw census figures were fed in.

The block group data would include information such as family income, housing conditions, and other information which census officials are pledged to keep confidential, as far as it relates to individuals and families.

Confidential Information

Other breakdowns are available for individual residential blocks, but without including the confidential information that was to have shown up in the block group data. It might be possible to take information about a city block and deduce which household supplied what information, violating the confidentiality of the census, Michaels explained.

The block-by-block breakdowns are expected by late October, and it is those which will provide the population figures that will be useful in redrawing local voting district boundaries as required by one-man, one-vote principals.

In addition, data is expected within two months by census tracts, areas containing approximately 4,500 persons.

Michaels said that between the census and block-by-block data, "We have a workable thing, but we don't have all of the information that we would have liked to have had."

He said the Fox Valley metropolitan area is one of 34 similar areas across the nation that failed to receive the block group data.

DNR's 'Orders' Reviewed

WEYAUWEGA — The city's antipollution orders from the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources were reviewed this week at the regular meeting of the city council

Plans for the improvements that will be required to meet the orders are being processed by Foth & Van Dyke and Associates, engineers at Green Bay.

The city's requirement timetable sets Jan. 1, 1972 for controling industrial discharges into the sewerage system, April 1, 1972 for the start of construction of sewage treatment facilities, and Jan. 1, 1973 for removal of 85 per cent phosphorus.

Gordon Bratz and Ted Raschke, representing the Waupaca County Fair Board, discussed regulations for selling beer during the annual county fair. The fair will be Aug. 19-22 at the fairgrounds here.

The discussion centered on a beer license which would limit the sale of beer to the grandstand and the beer stand area and only in paper cups to eliminate possible injury from bottles. The fair board will meet with the police department to determine license restrictions. And a decision will be presented at the council's July 6 meeting

The city clerk will check the ordinances to determine whether it would be legal for the Fair Board to haul away its own garbage during the fair instead of having to hire outside help.

Radio Sought

In light of recent break-ins Police Chief Larry Schmies suggested that the council purchase a portable radio that could be used by patrolmen when they are out of their car checking doors and alleys. The request was tabled until the next meeting.

Ald. Howard Quimby, chairman of the police committee, presented a proposal, which was approved for the installation of exclusive police phones in each of the patrolmen's homes. At present time a switch at the police department office transfers police calls to the patrolmen's homes

A five per cent salary increase, $11 a month, was granted to the deputy clerk whose year ended June 1. All other employes received a five per cent increase at the beginning of the year.

The swimming program, under the direction of the recreation committee, began Monday at Lake Weyauwega. Judy Kneisler and Dick Raisler are in charge of the program.

Mayor Walter Dean received approval for his appointment of Mrs. Ronald Wiesman for a three year term on the library board.

The possibility of rezoning part of the property south and west of Real Estate Builders from industrial to residential will be studied by the zoning committee. Several property owners have expressed a desire to build homes there but some of the lots do not have the required area to comply with the zoning ordinance.

The council agreed to purchase spare parts for the pump at pumphouse No. 1 for use in an emergency. Necessary parts would cost approximately $97.

Class B retailers' licenses to sell fermented malt beverages at specially designated ball games were awarded the Weyauwega-Fremont American Legion Club, the Weyauwega Braves, and the Weyauwega Softball League.

The Weed Is Not Marijuana

WAUPACA — The rumor that there was a big crop of marijuana growing on the site of last year's People's Fair, five miles northwest of Iola, was squelched Thursday by Sheriff Loran Frazier and Sheriff Nick Check, Portage County.

On Tuesday a Green Bay television station raised the question, "Is there a big crop of marijuana growing at the rock fest site north of Iola?" Pictures were shown of a three-foot tall plant with serrated leaves and bearing white blossoms.

There were no botanists available to identify the weed until Thursday, but some avid amateurs said they knew it was marijuana, while others speculated that it was wild parsnip.

Frazier, who with Check has kept the site under close surveillance for the past 12 months, agreed to have it checked out.

He called in forester Hugh Hayes since Joe Walker, county agent, was away on vacation. Hayes, who readily admitted he knew very little about herbaceous plants, was willing to try, so he and Kenneth Halverson, soil conservationist, joined Frazier in the "grass" hunt.

Good for Nothing

The questionable crop was identified as upright cinquefoil, known to the botanist as potentilla-recta. Hayes said that it is related to the rose family and that the leaves have the same rock fest site, pointed out that marijuana does grow wild in several places in the county, but would not guess what grade of "pot" it would provide.

This marijuana rumor has been the latest in a long list of public concerns about the site since the People's Fair was held there last June. Steps were taken by officials to stop another such fest advertised for this coming weekend at Iola.

Frazier said, "I still get the feeling that there's something going on — but we can't pinpoint it." Meanwhile, the Portage and Waupaca counties sheriffs' department are on constant alert.

number of divisions as marijuana, but it is good for nothing.

Frazier, who said he was sure residents would be relieved to know that "grass" was not going to be harvested at the

Fire Victims At Seymour Need Goods

SEYMOUR — Donations of clothing, furniture and housewares are being collected for the Harvey Schroeder family, route 1, whose home was destroyed by an explosion and fire Wednesday noon.

Items may be deposited at the Seymour State Bank or at the Red Cross office in Appleton. Donations also are being accepted at the First National Bank of Seymour and St. John Catholic Church and Emanuel Lutheran Church here.

A fund has been started for the family at the Seymour State Bank.

Mrs. Schroeder and a son, Paul, are in fair condition at Theda Clark Memorial Hospital, Neenah. Mrs. Schroeder has first and second degree burns to the upper portions of her body and Paul has third degree burns to his arms and face.

Four other Schroeder children were treated for minor cuts and bruises at the Neenah hospital and released.

The explosion followed the leakage of liquefied propane gas from a basement storage tank.

Fire Truck Bids For Bear Creek Due by July 12

BEAR CREEK — Sealed bids for a 1,500 gallon water tanker unit, truck chassis and cab unit will be accepted until 8 p.m. July 12 by the village for the volunteer fire department.

Bids are to be sent to the office of the clerk, Mrs. Anna Mae Scheel, along with specifications and delivery dates.

Specifications requested by the village are available from James Rebman village president. The village reserves the right to reject any and all bids or to accept the bid which is believed to be the most beneficial.

AFS Student Will Arrive In August

Clintonville Family Will be Host To German Girl

CLINTONVILLE — The American Field Service student for the coming school year, Annette Fischer, 17, from West Germany, is expected to arrive here Aug. 24.

Her host is the Lee Wait family, route 3. Mrs. Wait said they have corresponded, having received two letters to date.

Miss Fischer is a pianist and has given several concerts in Germany. She also practices judo and has earned a brown belt in jujitsu. Horseback riding is another interest.

This coming school year's AFS student is an only child. Her father is a mechanic and her mother works part-time in an office. The family lives in Schulzenstrabe Baden - Wurttenberg, with a population of about 2,300.

Miss Fischer has studied Russian, French and seven years of English. She will arrive in New York on Aug. 21. After a three day orientation in New York, she will leave for Clintonville, where she will begin studies as a high school senior.

Chances Slight, Official Says

Northeastern to Seek Federal Economic Development Aid

Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission has decided to go ahead with plans to apply for federal designation as an economic development district (EDD) for its nine member counties.

The announcement, made at a Wednesday meeting, came despite the opinion of Hanford Olson, state representative for the federal Economic Development Administration, that there is only a "remote" possibility that federal funds would be forthcoming.

The plant of Northeastern has been to get increased federal aid for its public works projects in its four northern counties which are facing high unemployment rates. The counties are Forest, Florence, Langlade, and Menominee.

Olson, in outlining the possible benefits of an EDD designation, said all counties served by Northeastern could be incorporated into the district because high unemployment rates in the north could compensate for the lower rates in the five southern counties.

He said standards for designation include family income and migration of workers from the area as well as the unemployment in rate.

Olson also said that upon designation, all nine counties would become eligibles for a 10 per cent increase in federal funds, in addition to the new monies and technical assistance that would be granted.

Thomas Pattison, Northeastern planning consultant, supported the plan saying, "These areas have returning veterans, unemployment is constantly rising, and I don't think we should hesitate at all."

Hilary Waukau, planning representative from Menominee County, said many public works projects could be initiated, pointing out recent state Department of Natural Resources sewer and water management orders for many northern communities.

The precedent of such a district being administered by a planning agency already has been set by the Northwest Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission. Its region plus several Indian reservations were given EDD designation last year.

Wisconsin State Employment Director Jerry Fieber, who discussed a job development program proposed by Northeastern, said that whether or not the job program would be approved would depend upon "training needs in the area and the actual opportunity for employment." Northeastern seeks approval of the plan, not directly related to EDD, from the Manpower Administration of the U. S. Department of Labor.

Earlier this week, Northeastern unveiled its bid to use 1,000 unemployed men in the counties to do land surveying required under the state's county surveyor law.

Fieber said that one problem with a program to train surveyors is that there is no assurance there would be employment after the three-years. Northeastern's intent has been that trainees would acquire skills that could be used throughout the unemployed areas. It is not meant to be a short term answer to joblessness, Northeastern officials said.

Fieber, in the meantime suggested that planners go to construction companies and see where the prospects are for continued employment.

He also said he expected the funds to be available, while noting that state technical schools have just been granted $100,000 for training in water and sewer facilities management.

Mental Health Group Plans to Help Youths

Waupaca Groups to Discuss Problems Young People Face

WAUPACA — Help for local youths who have problems with drugs, alcohol or social and emotional distrubances will be considered at the Monday meeting of the Waupaca County Association for Mental Health.

A panel made up of social workers, the clergy and youth leaders will share ideas on the need for and creation of a center with the involvement of the community in providing youth-help programs.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. at Olson Hall, King. Interested persons are invited to attend and take part in the open discussion.

"It is hoped that our association can play a full cooperative role in establishing youth-help programs," Mrs. La Vern Hanke, president of the association, said. "One of our principal goals this year is to help youth."

Holly Masaros, Fremont, and Margaret Nolan, Clintonville, each will receive $200 Waupaca County Association for Mental Health scholarships. Miss Masaros is a student at Whitewater State University where she is majoring in sociology. Miss Nolan is a student at Stevens Point State University and is studying in a mental health-sociology related field. Mrs. Pat Dansby, scholarship chairman, will make the presentation.

Restraints Asked On Surplus Food

Outagamie County Executive Alvin E. Woehler walked into a Board of Social Services meeting this week and set a paper sack on the table.

He took out six cans of evaporated milk, a large can of orange juice and a can of peanut butter.

They were surplus commodity foods, Woehler explained, that they had illegally been given away by a welfare recipient to a nonrecipient.

The violation, under Wisconsin statutes, carries a penalty of $10 to $100 or 10 to 60 days in jail.

Woehler, who did not reveal how the commodities got into his hands or who gave them away, told committeemen he was bringing the articles to them to show that there are abuses in the commodities system. He said he hoped his actions would "stimulate discussion in the committee."

Improved Policing

Woehler said there apparently is a need for improved "policing" of the food assistance distribution system.

He advised working out an adequate policing policy if the county decides to switch from surplus commodities to food stamps, a proposal that now is under study by the welfare board. "Take into consideration that it's cash you'll be talking about (instead of just food items as under the commodities plan) if you go to food stamps," Woehler cautioned.

He told the board that a few years ago a supervisor found a large amount of surplus foods at a local dump.

First Time

Ray Kaskey, deputy director of the county welfare agency, said it was the first time he has heard of surplus commodity abuses of the type Woehler outlined since he came to the local agency last December.

"In fact, it's only the second one in 10 years," said Kaskey, who previously was welfare director in Green County.

He told the committee that the amount of surplus goods distributed to needy families is based on family size and income.

"People don't have to take all the items if they don't want to," he said. "It appears here that someone wanted to make friends or had too much."

Religious Order Membership Trend Reversed

DE PERE — Roman Catholic religious orders are getting more theological graduates again after several years marked by declines in recruits and defections by priests and brothers, the president of the Conference of Major Superiors of Men (CMSM) said Thursday.

The Rev. Paul Boyle of Chicago was interviewed at St. Norbert College where the conference is holding its annual meeting. The conference consists of heads of Catholic religious orders throughout the United States.

"It begins to look as though we have bottomed out," said Boyle, who is western provincial for the Passionist Order. He said the worst period was from about 1963 to 1969 and things had improved since then.

Boyle said he attended a meeting of superiors general in Rome recently and the most encouraging news there was that there had been a decline in the rate of defections in the last year.

Consider Resolutions

Delegates to the conference met Wednesday to consider resolutions from sectional meetings being conducted throughout the week.

The sections, dealing with the topics of education, housing and community organizations, presented tentative resolutions to the entire body of representatives of the clergy.

The section on education presented a tentative resolution asking that religious communities pursue means for effective cooperation among religious institutes and dioceses.

"Schools conducted by religious communities should serve the whole local community, including the economically poor, and make the educational community more acutely aware of social and economic oppression, injustices and discrimination against the poor," the resolution said in part.

Service to Poor

The resolution recommends that each religious community devote a generous proportion of its resources to service to the poor.

A second section dealing with housing presented a resolution which recommends that religious communities be sponsors in nonprofit government subsidized housing for low-income and moderate-income persons.

The resolution encourages the CMSM to initiate procedures which would help and encourage religious communities to become involved in such activities.

"Decent housing is a basic right," the resolution states, "and this should be communicated to the entire religious community."

Social Issues

The third section presented a resolution recommending that the religious community sensitize itself and the lay community to social issues.

It recommends that members of the religious community be trained in community organization skills.

It also calls for total pastoral planning with the idea of cooperation among various religious communities in dealing with various social problems.

None of the resolutions were voted on today. Members of the CMSM are expected to cast their votes Friday morning.

Presentation of the tentative resolutions today allowed members to discuss their own ideas and opinions.

Some members expressed concern that they might not be able to convey such feelings of excitement and energy to their home religious communities via resolutions only.

Three general underlying themes seemed to be included in all three of the tentative resolutions.

CMSM members noted that the idea of training, planning and sensitizing the religious and the lay communities social problems was brought out in some form in all three resolutions.

Accepted Budget

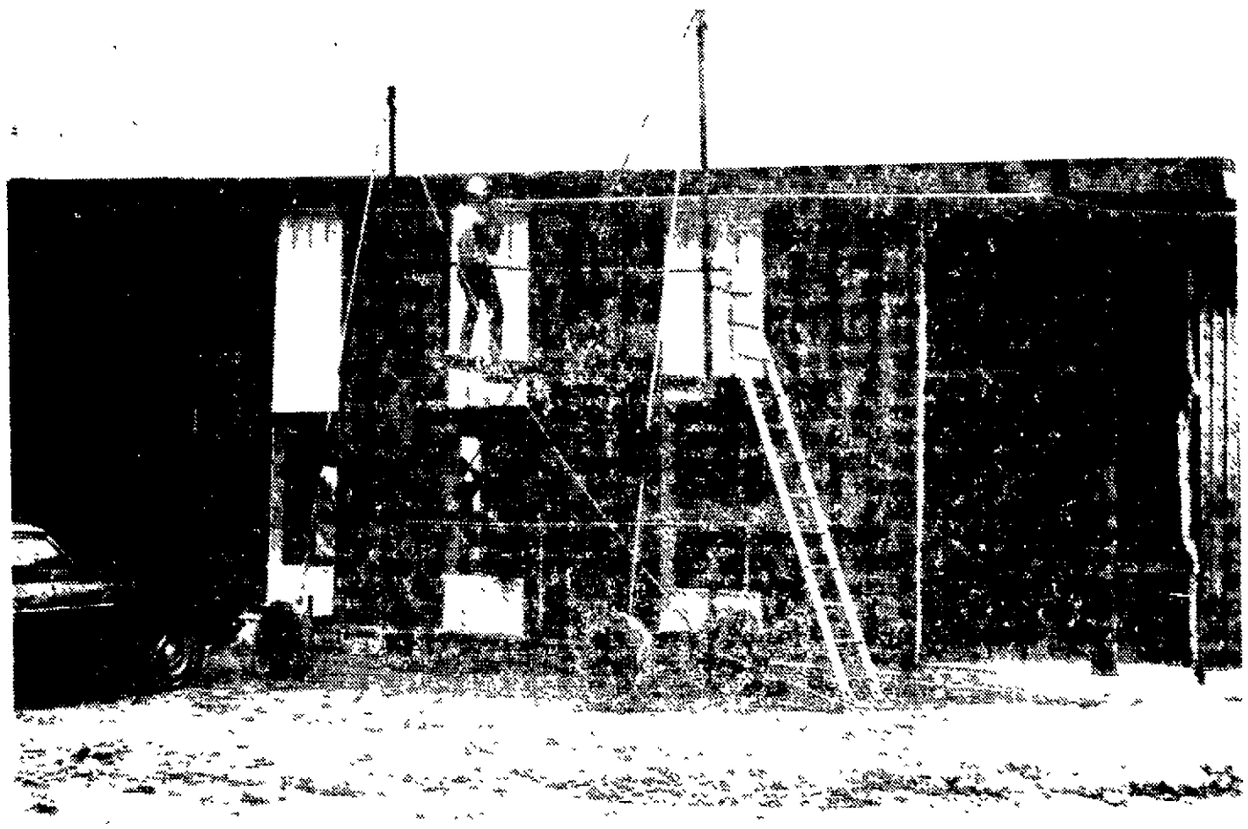

In other business Wednesday afternoon the conference accepted the 1971-72 budget proposal and passed six amendments to the constitution as suggested by the ad hoc committee on committees.

Also passed were resolutions supporting the use of sensitivity groups by the religious and the pursuing of membership by major superiors in the career development council.

Resolutions decrying the repression of the church in Brazil and the supression of religious liberties in Czechoslovakia were passed. Boyle, president of CMSM, was directed to have letters sent to political heads and ambassadors of the countries and the U.S. Foreign Relations Committee, among others, stating the view of the religious superiors.

The Brazil measure also asked that the International Red Cross or United Nations investigate imprisonment and restrictions imposed on members of religious orders in Brazil.

Applications Are Studied

Housing Authority Says 61 Apartments Being Sought by 180

CLINTONVILLE — The city's housing authority met Wednesday night at city hall to continue studying the applications from persons desiring to live in Sun Valley Manor, the new low-income housing project for the elderly.

Arthur Kaphingst, authority chairman, said that about 40 applications have been approved so far. There are over 180 requests for the 60 apartments. Residents must meet certain income standards before being considered for an apartment. Those selected will be notified within three weeks.

The project is scheduled to be completed July 5. The first occupants will start moving in on Aug. 1, and then sometime in August, an open house will be conducted for the public to view the apartments.

The building is about 95 per cent completed, Kaphingst said, with the stoves and refrigerators installed and almost all the landscaping completed. Work is being done on the driveway and furniture must still be purchased for the recreation room.

Future meetings of the housing authority will be at the apartment building, where facilities include an office and a conference room.

New London AFS

African Student to Go Home

BY BOB LOUX
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEW LONDON — Anthony Katabarwa starts his trip home to Uganda Sunday after a year as the high school's foreign exchange student.

Tony has mixed feelings about going home. He enjoyed many parties, dances and dates with his school friends, and a standard of living and freedom of movement unknown in his own country.

He said it took a surprisingly short time to adjust to life in New London. But letters from friends at home promise a big reunion and he is lonesome for his parents.

Well Liked

Everybody he met in New London was "very communicative" and liked him. Tony said — nobody in the all-white community had any trouble getting along with a Black Affrican.

He was a member of the Clarence Kloehn family, dairy farmers with 220 acres south of New London. Tony pitched in his full share of farm chores, and Mr. Kloehn said he learned to work and how to operate farm machinery "real quick." He re-shingled the roof of the Kloehn farmhouse.

Tony is still amazed at how wealthy Americans are in general. Or he was amazed until a trip to an inner core school in Milwaukee gave him a first hand look at poverty, Mrs. Kloehn said, and he was visibly shaken.

One Advantage

Tony was able to travel to other areas of the state for AFS meetings, and said one of the advantages of the program was meeting students of different nationalities. He kept in touch with the two students from Uganda at Oshkosh State University. He also visited for a weekend with the family of Menasha High School student John Feit, who will attend school in Uganda this year.

After leaving New London, he will take the AFS Mississippi tour through the South before heading to New York and the flight home.

Tony attended the Koka S.S boarding school in Masaka, 81 miles south of Kampala, the capital, near Lake Victoria. His father, a cook at the school, was able to put his only child through the private Ugandan education system set up by British colonialists. But the AFS opportunity was financed by an English teacher at the school hired by the Ugandan government.

Tony said the big difference between Koka S.S and New London was discipline. In Masaka, he said, students could only get out for a good time for about two hours on weekends. One of the four students selected for AFS was refused after he and some friends had a "wild party," Tony said.

A senior this year at New London, he must stay in the Ugandan school for another year to finish requirements for the British comprehensive examination of college applicants.

Tony plans to become a teacher, a job which can start off at as much as $5 a day. He said "everybody who graduates from high school over here gets a job right away," while young people in Uganda face a great deal of uncertainty.

Teaching Better

Indian immigrants and Europeans control the retail stores, farms, and small shops, he said, constituting the country's "upper class," but the African majority of the population, including his own family, are mostly poor laborers. Teaching, he said, is far better than working on a plantation nine hours a day for 50 cents, or selling fish, or working in the shops — the other opportunities.

Uganda has 20 different tribes speaking dialects that cannot be understood among themselves. Schools teach English for eight or nine years, Tony says, and "if you are from a different tribe and I want to understand you, I speak English."

Tony also improved his English here, and learned the local "dialect." Mr. Kloehn said when he arrived last summer, Tony "was speaking the King's English," but after a month at school, he started to pick up slang, "and some of the words were off-color. So Kloehn set up a "cuss box," and every time a member of the family was caught using a swear word, he had to contribute a nickel. After that, he said, Tony got back to using the King's English.

County Hospital Aide Guilty of Abuse of Patient

A former Outagamie County Hospital aide Thursday was ordered held in the county jail without bond until his sentencing July 13 for abusing a mental patient at the institution.

A 12-member jury deliberated about an hour before returning a guilty verdict against Robert Lockin, 30, 416 S. Washington St., Kimberly. Judge Nick F. Schaefer ordered a pre-trial sentence investigation for Lockin, the father of three.

Lockin was charged after another employee said he found him in a locked basement storage room with a 36-year-old female mental patient on June 13.

Dennis Harris, a custodian at the hospital, testified that when he opened the door, he found the patient standing in the middle of the room, with her dress disheveled and Lockin standing behind the door.

Harris testified that he reported the incident to superiors in the hospital, and that when the room was searched, an undergarment belonging to the patient was found stuffed in a roll of paper.

1971 Goal Topped By Cancer Chapter

WAUPACA — The Waupaca Chapter of the American Cancer Society announced today that it has gone over its 1971 fund drive with the collection of $6,263. Another $1,826 also will be turned over to the ACS by the Waupaca Tavern League Monday from its buckboard solicitation.

The Rev. Edmund Webster, Waupaca Chapter president and Mrs. John Bonnell this year's campaign chairman both said the public response was excellent.

Mrs. Bonnell said the society may set its goal at $10,000 next year.

Webster was re-elected president at the annual meeting. Mrs. Donald Dusterbeck, Weyauwega, is first vice president, and Mrs. Fern Smith, Waupaca, second vice president.

Mrs. John Penney, Waupaca, is secretary and Mrs. Lester Koepp, Fremont, treasurer.

The Rev. and Mrs. Edmund Webster, Waupaca, were re-elected and Mrs. Lucille, Clintonville, elected to three-year terms on the board of directors.

The chapter selected Mrs. John Bonnell and Mrs. John Morgan to be delegates to the Wisconsin Cancer Society's annual meeting Oct. 8 and 9 in Milwaukee.

Reading Program Starts in Amherst

AMHERST — The summer program for reading and language development in the Tomorrow River Schools began Monday with 75 pupils enrolled.

The program, sponsored by Title I, Elementary Secondary Education Act, employs 14 people. It plans activities in nature studies, speech therapy, perceptual motor training, art, and guidance.

Every week the pupils take field trips. Planned so far are trips to the Milwaukee County Zoo, the Railroad Museum in Green Bay, a Wisconsin Dells boat trip and the Central Wisconsin Airport.

21 Begin Head Start in Amherst

AMHERST — Twenty-one preschoolers began Head Start classes Monday in the Tomorrow River schools.

Bonnie David directs the program, which is sponsored by the Community Action Program Agency, Stevens Point.

Dodgers Defeat Pirates, 10-2

NEW LONDON — Jay Mielke homered to no avail in the Pirates' 2-10 loss to the Dodgers Wednesday in the city boys' baseball league. In the other major division game, the Brewers beat the Cards, 9-4.

A total of 48 runs was scored in the Foxes-Cobras game in the American division, with twice as many Foxes crossing the plate as Cobras. Jim Krenke was the winning pitcher. The Panthers beat the Beavers, 19-9, and it was the Tigers over the Eagles, 18-10.

In the national division, the Twins shut out the Indians, 20-0, and the Astros beat the Athletics, 7-2. Mark Lawton was credited with the Astro's win.

Baseball Scores Listed at Marion

MARION — Results for the first week of intramural baseball have been announced by John Bartelt, director.

In the opening round, the Athletics downed the Padres, 10-8; Torros blanked the Cubs, 1-0, and the Mustangs edged the Globe Trotters, 5-4.

In the second half of the first week's action, the Cubs defeated the Torros, 7-6 and the Glove Trotters beat the Mustangs, 8-5.

CESA Declines Pella Detachment

MARION — The combined school committees agencies No. 7 and No. 3 of the Cooperative Educational Services Agencies, have voted against a petition for the detachment of a certain area in the Town of Pella from the Marion School District and attachment to the Shawano School District.

The vote came Tuesday after a public hearing at the high school here, at which both advocates and opponents of the detachment petition spoke. Some 82 persons had signed the petition, but less than one-fourth of them attended the meeting.

Favors Move

Mrs. Ervin Westphal, Marion, speaking in favor of the detachment, listed the larger size of the Shawano school, bus service, better roads, proximity to the school and other services in Shawano and a greater offering of adult evening classes as reasons for approving the petition

She was the only person to speak in its favor.

Marvin Hintz, a member of the Marion school board, said the district needs all its territory to keep up the quality of education.

Other persons who opposed the petition listed the number of courses offered in the Marion High School — 75 — and the emphasis placed on vocation education

William Tober of Pella said the Shawano school district was crowded now and that if it were to get any bigger or the parochial schools were to close, more schools would have to be built and taxes would be increased.

The Shawano school has 1,106 students, Marion has 330.

Two Leaders Of 'DRUMS' Sent to Jail

SHAWANO, Wis. (AP) — Two leaders of an Indian protest group, accused of encouraging an attempted invasion of a real estate office to protest former reservation land sales, were sentenced to jail Thursday.

Judge James A Martineau ordered Laurel Otradavec of Appleton and Lloyd Powless of Milwaukee to spend 12 days behind bars for violating his restraining order against disruptive protest demonstrations Memorial Day.

Otradavec is president of the Menominee chapter of Determination of Rights and Unity of Menominee Stockholders (DRUMS) The group is fighting a Menominee-owned housing project at Legend Lake, whose homesites are being sold to non-Indians.

Otradavec and Powless, Chairman of DRUMS' Milwaukee chapter, invoked the Fifth Amendment 19 times during Thursday's contempt hearing in Circuit Court

Martineau ad ordered DRUMS not to let picketing get out of hand

Otradavec and Powless were accused of violating the order by encouraging pickets to block traffic and to try to force their way into a Legend Lake real estate office

Judge Turns Down Chance To See Dance

An entertainer, charged with disorderly conduct, offered to present a performance of the act in question for the benefit of the court Wednesday morning.

Outagamie County Judge Raymond P. Dohr rejected the proposal of an attorney for Jean Nordstrom, 24, a performer at The Club.

Miss Nordstrom was charged with two counts of disorderly conduct after officials of the Outagamie County Sheriff's Department observed her dance routine on April 30 and May 1.

Miss Nordstrom's attorney told Dohr his client would present her act for the court, "in the right setting and with the proper music."

He moved for a dismissal of the case, on the grounds that the charges of disorderly conduct did not pertain to the performance. He stated that there were laws for lewd and lascivious conduct, and that this was not the charge in the case.

The attorney's proposal came after the testimony of the sheriff's officials and a witness who testified that Miss Nordstrom danced nude, and allowed a spectator to touch her on stage.

At the end of the testimony Dohr found her guilty, but then retracted the decision when he was reminded of the filing of briefs. The briefs must be filed within 10 days on the matter of whether the charges of disorderly conduct are relevant to the case.

Police & Fire Beat

CLINTONVILLE — Elmer Mathison, 22, route 1, Shawano, paid a fine of $75 and costs after being arrested Sunday by the City police and charged with disorderly conduct.

Mathison who pleaded guilty, appeared before Judge Nathan Wiese in County Court Branch No. 2 Monday at Clintonville.

Survey Says Cost Need Not Rise in University Merger

MADISON — Wide variances in costs among the units of each of Wisconsin's two tax-supported university systems (University of Wisconsin and Wisconsin State Universities) indicate that merging control of the systems would not automatically mean higher over-all costs, the Public Expenditure Survey of Wisconsin said recently on the basis of reports of the Coordinating Council for Higher Education.

Each of the two systems is governed by its own board of regents. Together they maintain 13 facilities which offer four-year programs, with 11 offering basic graduate courses while two are in advanced graduate work. Also there are 17 two-year campuses of which three are being phased into the two new UW four-year campuses

CCHE figures show costs vary widely with course, location and school, the Survey said. The UW freshman and sophomore in engineering and technology costs more than three times as much on the average as the WSU student of the same level in social and behavioral science ($1,439 vs. $421) the Survey said. The WSU junior-senior in health science costs more than twice as much as the UW business junior-senior ($2,033 vs. $991).

The Survey is a private, nonprofit, nonpolitical, government research and service agency for state-wide and community taxpayer organizations.

Costs per student within a system vary from location to location. The junior-senior level WSU budgeted cost figure average of $1,388 for the 1970-71 school year had within it $1,158 at Stevens Point and $1,977 at Superior. The over-all $2,822 WSU basic graduate course cost average ranges from $1,764 at Whitewater to $4,241 at Stevens Point.

CCHE figures also show pay scales for nine-month staff of the two systems on the average are $231 apart, with UW ahead, while for 12-month staff members the average WSU instructional salary is $2,755 higher the UW, the Survey said.

Senate Okay of Draft Tied to Pullout Date

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted to extend the draft two more years, sweeten soldiers' pay $2.7 billion and chart a Indochina withdrawal plan disowned in advance by the White House.

But after seven weeks of debate the Senate's 71 to 16 approval Thursday of the draft extension bill may well be too late for Congress to finish final action before the present Selective Service Act expires next Wednesday midnight.

Some senators threaten a filibuster if a House-Senate conference kills or weakens an end-the-war amendment added by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield.

One knowledgable senator predicts final action may not come before mid-July.

June, July

The immediate effect on the Selective Service System would be a dilemma over what to do about July and August draft calls which have not been issued.

But the law allows loopholes which could keep the draft functioning after a fashion for a while at least. For one thing the draft still could call up men who had been deferred and lost their deferments.

The Mansfield amendment calls for a phased withdrawal of U.S. troops over nine months if all U.S. prisoners of war are released. It is likely to receive a cool reception both in conference and on the House floor.

House antiwar forces never have mustered more than 158 congressmen to vote for any Vietnam withdrawal amendment.

The White House has said the Mansfield measure won't affect war policy.

Many Differences

The conference has more than a dozen differences to reconcile between the House and Senate versions of the bill. One of the most important is an amendment by Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., which raised the military pay boost to the same level approved by the House, but spread most of it among lower ranks.

Some senators had hoped to kill the draft outright as a means of forcing the military to adopt the all-volunteer armed force concept now.

The Nixon administration hopes the increased pay can prepare for an all-volunteer force after June 30, 1973. It says the draft will be needed until it is proven better pay and conditions really can attract suitable volunteers.

Quality of Men

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee and floor manager of the draft bill, attacked that hope as unrealistic, saying no possible set of benefits could attract the quality of men needed.

The Senate bill does limit the number of men who can be drafted to 130,000 the first year and 140,000 the second. The Defense Department has indicated considerably less than those nunbers will be required, unless there is a national emergency.

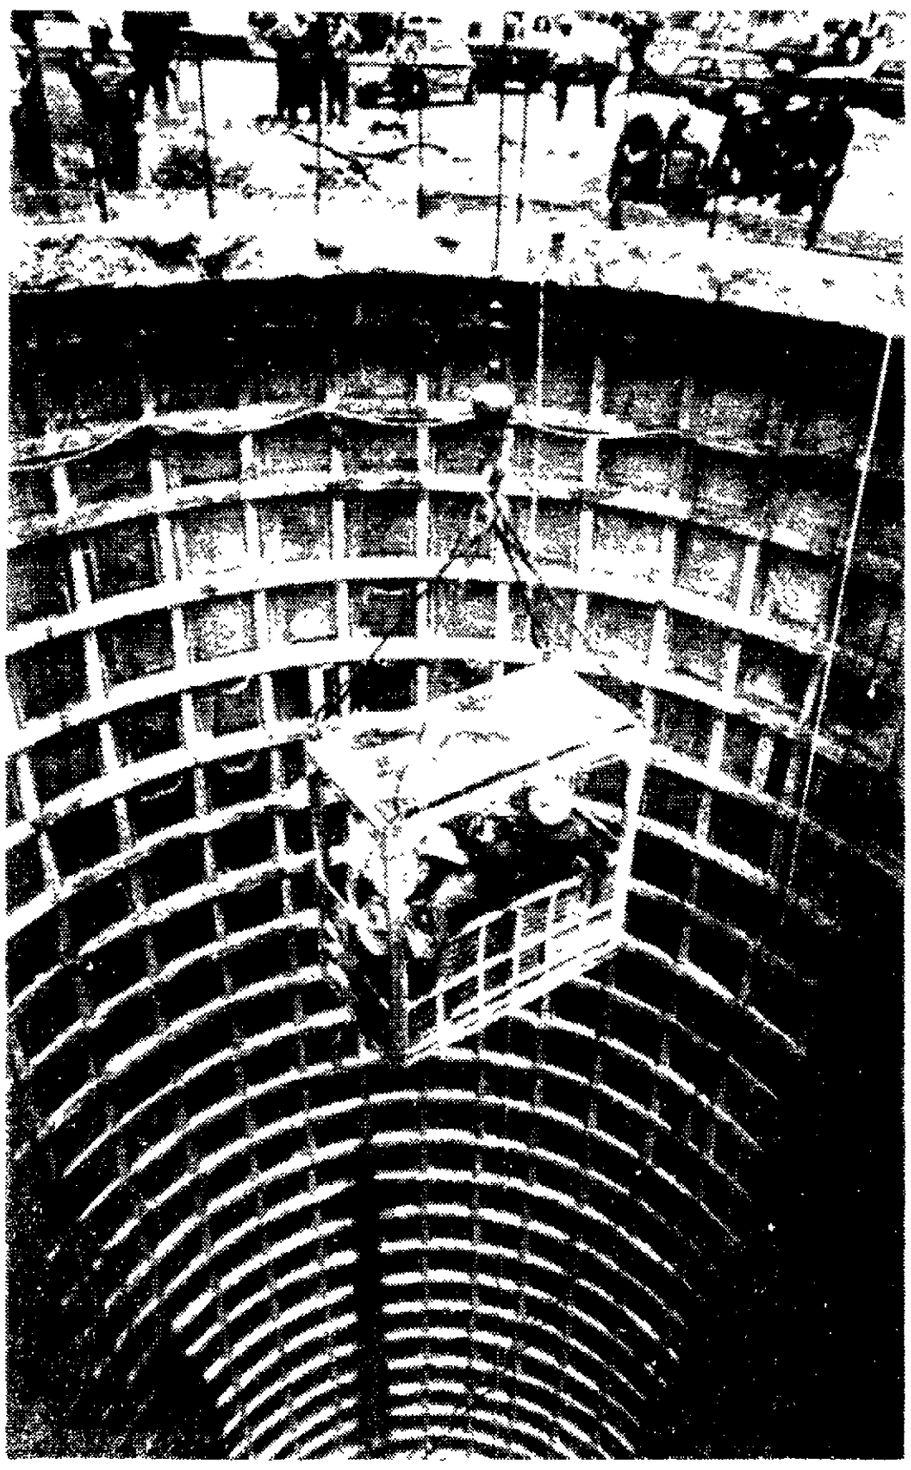

Among other major Senate-added provisions:

—Cut 100,000 men off the overall 2.5 million force level approved by the House.

—Retain the two-year period of alternative civilian service that must be served by conscientious objectors. The House voted for three years service.

—Require the military to

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Supreme Court considered today appeals by the government and The New York Times that it step into the conflict over a series of articles on the secret Pentagon history of the Vietnam war.

Immediately ahead loomed a 6 p.m. deadline. Unless the justices act before then The Washington Post will be able to publish what it wants. But The Times will be free to resume publication in Saturday editions only of material the Justice Department considers safe for public consumption.

Unlike The Post, The Times will be barred from using any of the items in the 47-volume war study the Justice Department feels should be kept secret in the interest of national security.

The Times told the court in a petition Thursday that the restraint, imposed by the U.S. circuit court in New York City, "imposes an insupportable burden on a free press."

Series of Reports

The Justice Department, meanwhile, labored to block The Post from resuming its series of reports on the study. Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold argued in an application for a stay that publication would damage nationl security and the conduct of foreign relations beyond repair.

The Post would be free to publish what it wishes by virtue of a ruling by the U.S. circuit court for the District of Columbia.

Griswold said The Post should be prevented at least temporarily from using the items listed in a "special appendix" filed by government attorneys last Monday in the New York court, as well as additional items the Justice Department might add today.

Contents Secrets

Contents of the list are being kept secret. Griswold said "a small amount of material" was involved.

Until the two newspaper cases reached their chambers, the justices were planning to recess on Monday until October. They were putting the finishing touches on a half-dozen pending decisions and considering scores of piled-up appeals.

Whether these plans will be interrupted is uncertain. But since the two circuit courts have reached conflicting conclusions and questions about national security and press freedom have been raised, the high court almost is compelled to act. A hearing next Monday or Tuesday is possible.

Lawyers for The Times asked for one "at the earliest practical date." They said 'the case on its face presents urgent issues of over-riding public importance which should be promptly decided by this court."

"For the first time in American history," The Times said, 'a newspaper has been enjoined from publishing news."

Lee Goult, a 17-month-old tot from Teesside, England, has a pipeful of tobacco to put him to sleep at night. Alan Goult, Lee's father, said, "He started sucking an empty pipe. Then he picked up my own pipe and started puffing away. I don't think it does him any harm. It's better than eating sweets, anyway." (AP Wirephoto)

Tunnel Explosion, Quake Link Sought

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A state mining official says there could be some connection between the devastating Feb. 9 earthquake and a fiery natural methane gas explosion that ripped through an underground tunnel apparently killing 17 workers.

Dr. Gordon B. Oakeshott, deputy chief of the California Division of Mines and Geology, said the quake possibly could have disturbed underground formations and caused seepage of the deadly gas that exploded Thursday.

"During an earthquake like that, underground formations are disturbed. Springs sometimes start and stop, ground water is sometimes disturbed, any fluid, oil and gas would be disturbed," he said.

Seven bodies have been recovered and rescue teams continued to search for 10 missing workers. City fire rescue crews said dense smoke and debris hampered efforts to find the missing men. Conditions inside the tunnel were described as "untenable to support life."

One Alive

Only one worker in the tunnel has been found alive. The other 17 are presumed dead.

The tunnel, being excavated as part of a state water project, traverses foothills near the quake epicenter outside suburban Sylmar, about 30 miles northwest of Los Angeles. It is close to Olive View Hospital, which wsa severely damaged by the temblor which killed 64 persons and caused damage estimated at $1 billion.

The area is studded with oil wells, and Oakeshott said there were numerous pockets of methane gas, a common companion to oil deposits, trapped in folds of rock formations.

He said earth movement caused by the Feb. 9 earthquake and the more than 300 aftershocks that have followed could have fractured the rock formations to provide "escape pathways" for the gas.

Fire officials said seepage from the oil fields doubtless helped fuel a 14-hour fire that followed the blast which blocked rescue attempts for more than 12 hours

The sole survivor of the blast —wan, red-eyed and weakened by injuries—told reporters from his hospital bed that he thought he felt two explosions in the tunnel, which is five miles long and about 200 feet beneath the earth.

"I thought I was going to pass out and I guess I did." said Ralph Brisette, 33. "I found myself laying in water, washing my face and drinking." He was found after stumbling more than four miles to the tunnel's portal.

Fire officials say the gas probably was touched off by a spark from drilling equipment.

The explosion in the tunnel was the second in two days. On Wednesday a smaller blast, also attributed to methane gas, injured four workmen. One had to be hospitalized.

Tested For Gas

After the earlier blast engineers tested the tunnel atmosphere and said they found no undue gas accumulations.

The tunnel a link in the $3 billion, 444-mile state water project to transport surplus Northern California water to heavily populated Southern California, is being built by Lockheed Shipbuilding and Construction Co. a division of the troubled aerospace giant. It is within 2,100 feet of completion.

Judge Refuses to Dismiss Charges Against Medina

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — A military judge refused today to dismiss murder and assault charges against Capt. Ernest Medina, whose infantry company staged the My Lai assault in 1968.

Col Kenneth Howard, the military judge, then said the case would go to trial, probably late this summer.

The judge set July 19 as the tentative date for the start of jury selection.

"I do not find this case to be pervaded by command influence." said the judge as he denied the defense dismissal motions.

"I do not find it was the overall policy of the Army to deny the accused a fair consideration of the charges against him," ruled Howard.

The judge added, "I do not find that he was to be tried regardless of the evidence."

Howard denied a series of 16 separate defense motions by defense attorney F. Lee Bailey, and granted only two minor ones.

He granted permission for the defense to obtain a copy of a classified report on a military inquiry into the My Lai massacre. He also ordered the prosecution to provide the defense with the names of its witnesses.

Johnson's Book Reaffirms Stories on Pentagon Study

GARDEN CITY, N. Y. (AP)— Lyndon B. Johnson's still unpublished White House memoirs acknowledge that his administration was privately preparing in early 1964 for large scale American military involvement in Vietnam, long before the depth of the U.S. commitment was known to the public, according to a story published today by Newsday, the Long Island newspaper.

The memoirs, to be published on November, support many of the findings of the classified Pentagon study of the war's origins which the government has been fighting to keep secret, Newsday said.

The former president' book, now largely in galley form at the New York publishing firm of Holt, Rinehart and Winston, is entitled, "The Vantage Point: perspective of the Presidency."

Publishing Source

Newsday said it obtained information about the contents of the book from a publishing industry source.

Aaron Asher, vice president of the publishing company, said that Newsday was not among news organizations given access to galley proofs of the book for possible serialization.

"This is unpublished material fully protected by copyright," Asher said of Johnson's book. He said the publishing house was considering legal action but had made no decision.

Newsday gave this account of the book's contents:

Johnson depicts himself in the book as having been hesitant for several months over approving military advisers' recommendations for bombing raids against North Vietnam. But in February of 1965, he writes, he told aides that he was approving the bombing.

"'We have kept our gun over the mantle and our shells in the cupboard for a long time now,' I said 'And what was the result? They are killing our men while they sleep in the night. I can't ask American soldiers out there to continue to fight with one hand tied behind their backs.'"

In the book, Johnson says that he first decided to pursue President Kennedy's policy of defending South Vietnam soverignty while flying back to Washington only a few hours after Kennedy's assassination in November 1963.

Vietnam Highlights

In the highlights of his chapters on Vietnam, portraying more than five years of growing U.S. involvement, Johnson says:

On March 17, 1964 he approved a recommendation by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara that U.S. forces should be prepared for a "program of graduated military pressure against the North."

During the 1964 presidential campaign, Robert F. Kennedy volunteered to go to South Vietnam as the U.S. ambassador.

During the same campaign, all that he meant by his often quoted statement that he would not send U.S. troops "to do the fighting that Asian boys should do for themselves" was that America should not "take charge" of the war or provoke a conflict with China. "I did not mean that we were not going to do any fighting, for we had already lost many good men in Vietnam."

In September 1964, Johnson approved a contingency plan for bombing recommended by the military to be implemented if Communist forces made a "spectacular" attack in the South. But he then waited until Feb. 7, 1965, to start bombing, twice rejecting military advice from advisers to begin earlier.

World War II

About three weeks after the first major battle involving American ground troops in a campaign in June 1965, Johnson authorized a 25,000-man troop increase to 75,000. He writes: "I was convinced that our retreat from this challenge would open the path to World War III."

London Art Auction Nets $8.7 Million

LONDON (AP) — Titian's "Death of Actaeon" and 26 other Old Masters were sold at Christie's auction house today for a record $8,735,580

Although the total was the highest in art history for a one-day auction, it fell considerably short of the $29 million which one expert had predicted.

The Titian went to a London dealer, Julius Weitzner, for $4,032,000. He refused to say who he bought it for, telling an interviewer, "I do not know where the picture is going."

Weitzner said he had been prepared to go higher.

Weitzner is an American dealer who is based in London.

The British art world expressed concern that another masterpiece in British hands was going to the wealthier U.S. market for lack of public or private money here.

The price was the second highest ever paid at auction for a painting. The record was set last November at Christie's when Alec Wildenstein of New York paid $5½ million for Velasquez's painting of his mulatto apprentice "Juan de Parreja." He later sold it to the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

Earlier Record

That auction produced the previous record for a day's sale of paintings: $6,609,153.

The sale of the Titian was preceded by the usual public outcry that something be done to keep the painting in Britain. But the National Gallery hasn't the money to buy it, and the government made clear that it wasn't going to help out.

There had: 9th graf

There had been predictions the painting might go as high as $4.8 million.

Vast Differences Between Commons, Senate

BY ARTHUR L. GAVSHON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — If British lawmakers voted against government policy, as American senators rebuffed President Nixon Tuesday over Vietnam, then Prime Minister Edward Heath would have resigned.

Arthur L. Gavshon has covered the British government for the Associated Press for 25 years. Now, on temporary assignment in Washington, he has had his first look at the Senate in action. Here are his impressions.

The fact that Nixon did not dramatized the difference between life on Capitol Hill and in the Palace of Westminster.

Aides shrugged aside Nixon's defeat as a single holdup in his fixed four-year power trail. In Britain's House of Commons, it would have denoted a loss of confidence in the Prime Minister, requiring either a new government or new national elections.

There were plenty of other contrasts on view inside and outside the semi-circular senatorial chamber, in the styles as well as in the working systems of American and British legislators.

Some of the senators, for instance, chewed gum even while they spoke. Others read their speeches with aides beside them holding stacks of reference material. Throughout the day the floor of the chamber resembled a hotel lobby with members of the two main parties criss-crossing, huddling in group consultations, addressing the president pro tempore regardless of the fact that one or another of their colleagues nominally was in full oratorical flight.

For the House of Commons' studied informality, little of this would be tolerated in Westminister. There Mr. Speaker insists upon strict observance of the rules of order.

Leaders of the government and opposition lean back in their leather seats, it is true, with their feet up on the table before them. And backbenchers lounge nonchalantly along their benches, conversing softly, writing notes. But they cannot read newspapers. They must not step over one of the two red bands on the carpet keeping the rival sides two swords-length from each other.

They dare not, unless they are ministers making formal pronouncements, read their speeches. And they are barred from addressing their colleagues either by name or as "you." It must be "the honorable member for Blank."

A British member of parliament visiting the Senate Tuesday would have gasped at the intensity of the activity on the floor. There were the senators themselves coming and going as they pleased: aides lolling on sofas lining the walls; page boys and girls on their endless missions.

In the House of Commons only elected members, and officers of the House, are allowed on the floor during working sessions. A lawmaker cannot pass between a speaker on his feet and the chair. No two members can address the chair at the same time.

These firm procedural rules

r G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr Thosteson I had an eration, my womb and one be removed The doctor didn't plain what changes would ke place, and I was embarssed to ask at my age, 38 I ould know

Will I notice any difference ien I go through the change of e? Will I have any discharge.

Dr. Thosteson

menstruate? Is there any ance whatsoever of my get- ig pregnant" — N S

I don t know why you 'should' iow just because you're 38 ie best way to find out things ou don't know is to ask — and n't be embarrassed Nobody iows everything

You had the womb, or uterus, moved (That's hysterec- my.) And a tube removed alpingectomy). But evidently d not have an ovary removed 'hat would be oophorectomy.) With the uterus gone, you nnot get pregnant, and will it menstruate There will be a scharge only if some infection the vagina develops, which is ually due to a parasite (tri- omonas) or yeast invasion. ich infections can, of course, velop whether you do or do it have a uterus

There will be no change in xual function unless you eate it psychologically, and lieve some of the unfounded ports that are still being rculated about such operations nding your sex life". They n't.

Dr. Thosteson

With your ovaries intact, you n expect to experience meno- ause, or "change of life," at e same time you would have me so without the operation, obably somewhere in your s, possibly as late as early s

Symptoms of menopause can highly variable, but this is it because of your operation ne operation will have nothing do with it (But had both aries been removed, then you ould have experienced "surgi- l menopause" immediately.)

Dear Dr Thosteson: Somemes I get cramps in my toes bad while asleep that it akes me up My doctor preribes pills, but when I complain all I get is more pills that do not help. — Mrs E.C

Sometimes it takes more than pills — so cooperation on your part, in the way of proper diet and some very simple exercises, may make the difference. I suggest that you send 25 cents in coin and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope for a copy of my booklet "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains". Send request to me in care of The Post-Crescent

Dear Dr Thosteson My son has ichthyosis Is there any treatment or cure for this condition" — Mrs P

This condition — a hardening and drying of the outer layer of the skin — also is called fish-skin disease and xeroderma

Whether to try to do anything about it depends on how annoying it happens to be If it is sufficiently mild, forget about it

But if it is genuinely bothersome, the only thing to do is to keep the skin as soft and pliable as possible, with lanolin or other oily preparations A dermatologist may be able to prescribe a lotion that will help soften the skin more effectively, but don't expect a "cure". It's just the way the skin behaves with some people

Some people recommend a diet high in fats, but since most of us eat more fats than we need anyway, I have reservations on that I doubt whether it helps the skin, and for the long-term effect on health, we're all better off not to get too much fat.

Dear Dr Thosteson. Will you write about mycosis, which is supposed to be a rare disease? — Mrs V H

Mycosis is the term applied to any disease caused by a fungus. Depending on the variety, it can be rare or common

For a comprehensive discussion of how to cope with the change of life, including scores of pertinent questions and their answers, write to Dr Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent for his booklet, "Make Menopause Easier," enclosing 35 cents in coin and a long stamped, self-addressed (use zip code) envelope to cover cost of printing and handling

Jingo Talks About U.S. Postal Service, First-Day Souvenir

Cacheted, Cancelled Envelopes Ready July 1 for Price of 8-Cent Stamp

BY JINGO

Jingo got a piece of mail yesterday—along with everybody else—which should remind stamp collectors, first day cover collectors and plain John Q Public, his spouse and children that a souvenir will be ready for all comers at the post next Thursday, July 1.

A souvenir, cacheted envelope has been prepared by the United States Postal Department—that's its name until July 1—for use as a first-day cover in connection with the release of the special 8-cent stamp on that day.

The reason is that July 1 marks the day the new United States Postal Service takes over with the old department gone. The first-day cover is a handsome one, as is the new stamp. Both are all done up in color and the envelope is certainly one to treasure. They are one to a customer for the cost of the stamp, 8 cents, and the covers or envelopes will have the July, 1971, cancellation on it to make it authentic. They are available until the supply runs out.

Get There Early

Jingo suggests collectors and souvenir hunters get to the post office early. Jingo also hears that Postmaster Francis Sumnicht is busy organizing things to make the day important.

The cachet has both the old "pony express" and the new "eagle" emblems displayed with the stamp showing in color the stylized eagle poised for flight.

On the material delivered to every home are these words describing the new service:

Message in Folder

"On July 1 the United States Post Office Department will fade into history after nearly 200 years of service to the American people. Its place will be officially taken by a new organization, the United States Postal Service, an independent establishment of the government formed to meet the changing needs of our growing society. Providing better, faster, more dependable mail service will be the challenge of the Postal Service in the months and years ahead. Already plans are being initiated for a major mechanization program to streamline mail processing and special delivery."

The four-page release under the signature of Postmaster General Winton M. Blount is worth reading and even saving for reading again later.

Jingo notes, for instance, there's even a Consumer Advocate in the Washington, D. C., office. It's a newly created office of consumer affairs and the man in the chair behind that desk has the job of giving complete attention to citizen complaints and suggestions pertaining to the U. S. mails and its delivery.

Nancy Sinatra clowns with Thog, one of the Muppet characters who moved from Sesame Street of television to Las Vegas for the summer. The Muppets appear with Nancy and her brother, Frank Sinatra Jr., at the International Hotel. Muppet creator Jim Henson says the show could be a preview for a full - length Muppet production on Broadway. (AP Wirephoto)

Repeats Give Fans Chance To Catch Up

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 Channels 2-7 — The Interns focuses on privileged information between doctor and patient and the fact that the doctor's right to the knowledge hasn't been tested in court. Stephen Brooks is the one in trouble, since a patient confessed to him that he was not driving the car that cracked up his brother—a senatorial candidate—was driving. (R)

6:30-7:30 Channel 5 — The High Chaparral is interesting in that noble John Cannon (Leif Erickson) apparently is on the wrong side tonight. His family and friends think so, and viewers will probably agree, as he decides to help some revolutionaries. (R)

7:30-8 Channels 11-9 — Gino Contorti, who played the "Fiddler on the Roof" when that show opened on Broadway, is very funny as a would-be-hip teenaged rock concert promoter on The Partridge Family. He's arranging a European tour for the group but doesn't want "middle-aged" Shirley Jones along. She decides to "retire" so the kids can have the trip, but they want to get her unretired as quickly as possible. (R)

7:30-9 Channel 5 — The Name of the Game tells the story of a big league evangelist (William Shatner) who has been helped by Dan Farrell (Robert Stack), and now seems to have a tentful of problems. There's something rotten in his books and something rotten in his marriage and, besides, his son is not a model of filial respect. (R)

8-8:30 Channels 11-9 — You can't believe what happens to That Girl (Marlo Thomas) when, during a modeling job at the race track, she bets the winning daily double on behalf of Don's (Ted Bessell) friends, then loses the ticket. It's even worse when, the next day, they ask her to bet the winnings on a nag called "Lucky Model," that can't possibly win. (R)

8:30-9 Channels 11-9 — The Odd Couple has Felix (Tony Randall) taking up the cudgels for Oscar (Jack Klugman), who has been belted around in a barroom brawl by a bully. Randall gets in the same situation and insists on a fight in a ring, with rules. (R)

9-10 Channel 5 — Pamela Franklin is on The Strange Report playing a member of a popular singing duo whose partner is killed while performing for The Bank of the Eternal Moment, a cult which has The Viking as its spiritual leader and a veritable U. N. for its apostles. The young man is killed because he has learned of some hanky-panky, which our heroes attempt to unearth. (R)

9-10 Channels 11-9 — Love, American Style has a funny episode with Herb Edelman and Broderick Crawford as computer-arranged daters, all because of their first names. Patsy Kelly, now in the Broadway smash, "No, No Nanette," is in a segment about a dognaping and the third one is about a man who pays so little attention to his wife, he thinks she is home when she isn't. (R)

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

by IRA G. CORN JR.
TEAM CAPTAIN

The declarer who gets a trick from the opening lead is often one jump ahead of the defense. However, sometimes the trick can create trouble, which would otherwise be easily avoided, and declarer must be careful not to slip.

Witness how this principle is demonstrated in the play of today's game contract used by Ace Bobby Wolff in his intermediate bridge classes.

Opening lead: Seven of spades.

When West's opening bid is passed around to South, South doubles instead of bidding one no-trump. In this position (last chance to compete), the no-trump reopening shows less than the normal one no-trump strength. After North bids his best suit, South bids two no-trump and North happily raises to game.

Against West's lead of his fourth best spade, declarer captures East's 10 with his queen — a trick declarer could not have developed himself. However, things are not as bright as they appear, since any other lead would have given South plenty of time to develop nine tricks.

The declarer who considers himself lucky with the lead can easily get careless and lose the hand. He goes after dummy's longest suit and plays his king of clubs. West wins with the ace and plays his king of spades.

Whether declarer ducks or not, West establishes the spades and defeats the contract when clubs break unfavorably and South attempts to establish diamonds. Declarer can take only eight tricks before relinquishing the lead.

Wolff demonstrates the correct line of play. After winning the spade queen, declarer should play clubs as before. However, he must use care in his play of the suit. Instead of playing the king, he must lead a low club to dummy.

If West wins the first trick with the ace, the clubs are established and declarer makes his contract with four clubs, three hearts and two spades.

West must, therefore, duck the club. Declarer wins in dummy and, instead of continuing the suit, switches the attack to diamonds. Three diamonds are easily established before the spade ace is dislodged, and declarer takes two spades, three hearts, three diamonds and one club for nine tricks and his contract.

Wolff advises, "As you've seen from the play of this hand, the time to be happy is after you've scored enough tricks for your contract, not necessarily after you get a 'free' trick with the opening lead."

Washability Primary Wardrobe Consideration

Whether one is planning a travel wardrobe, a school wardrobe, or a trousseau, the primary consideration in the selection of a garment is its washability. Since one of every 3.5 garments worn by women and children is hand made, the home sewer must be a well informed consumer when it concerns textiles. Therefore, sewing consumers should read all labels and hand tags for care instructions when purchasing fabrics.

The natural fibers of cotton, wool, silk and linen are mixing it up with synthetic fibers in washable fabrics. Synthetics by themselves can be found woven, knitted, and crocheted, and now the home sewer can purchase washable braids, flowers and trims for synthetic fibers.

Polyester Knits

The largest volume of washable fabrics sold in one group of fabric stores is polyester knits. Its fiber content and knit construction make the fabrics highly wrinkle resistant, lightweight but firm, strong, a great shape retainer, and can be purchased in many interesting textures. They can be sewn into both men's and women's garments; anything from very casual sportswear to the most sophisticated suits and coats.

All of the knitted fashion fabrics, linings, interfacings, and notions must be compatible in their fiber content and washability. Polyester lining fabrics and polyester crepe are excellent linings for coats or long tunic tops over pants. Although knits do not have to be lined, it is sometimes a good idea, to prevent a jacket or tunic top from clinging to a skirt or pants.

Stabilization

Because knit fabrics are stretchable, they need stabilization in necklines, collars, and areas that have buttons and buttonholes. "All-bias," non-woven interfacings of polyester are available in featherweight and lightweight. These interfacings stretch slightly with knit fabric and yet stabilize garments where needed.

For trimming polyester knits there are bias woven polyester braids and knitted polyester braids and trims: some say "LOVE" and "PEACE" or may be seen in chains of hearts and peace symbols. Manufacturers say that polyester will do for trimmings what it has done for fabric sales volume.

Threads with a polyester core and a cotton covering have the strength needed to withstand the extra stress stretchable knits can give to seams. Conventional and invisible zippers also have polyester teeth for lighter weight and greater flexibility when used in knit garments.

At present the retail prices of all of these polyester products may seem high in comparison to the prices of natural fibers. But, for the savings in time and cost of maintaining some natural fabrics, and for a fiber that is almost indestructible under normal use, it is well worth a slightly higher price.

Year Around Wear

The carefree aspects of polyester and other synthetic fibers make them popular for year-round wear. Cotton has some advantages over synthetic fabrics during warm weather; synthetic Fabrics do not "breathe" and therefore, hold body heat a little more than the "cool cottons." "Cool cottons" are just that, absorbant and comfortable.

Therefore, it is recommended that a new "washable wardrobe" include a number of 100 per cent polyester knits and crepes, plain or fancy, and other washable synthetic fabrics and fabric blends. Not only will their easy-care virtues be a blessing but you'll be right in style with today's most fashionable fabrics. The selection of colors, patterns and textures is fabulous!

Kaukauna Youth Participating in European Seminar

KAUKAUNA — Rick Regenfuss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Regenfuss, 934 Grignon St., student at Sacred Heart Seminary studying at St. Norbert College, is one of 40 students participating in a 5-week accredited seminar in Europe.

The group left Chicago May 31 and flew to Amsterdam, Holland. Other countries the group will tour include England, France, Switzerland, Italy, Austria and Germany

The tour is sponsored by the college and tutored by Dr. H. G. Baader, a faculty member, formerly from Austria. They will return July 5.

Hospital Auxiliary Superette Scheduled

KAUKAUNA — The annual Kaukauna Community Hospital Auxiliary superette will be held at 7 p.m. Monday at Oakwood Hills Country Club.

A 6:30 p.m. cocktail party will precede the dinner. Cards will be played and entertainment furnished by the Ott family. The superette is one of the social activities of the auxiliary during the year.

Reference is made to Section 66.29 Wisconsin Statutes, Laws of 1965.

Wage Rates: Pursuant to Section 66.293 Wisconsin Statutes, the City of Appleton will have on file at the City Clerk's office the rate of wage scale that shall be paid by the Contractor to employees on the project.

No bid for street grading shall be received unless accompanied by a certified check or bid bond equal to 5 per cent of the bid, payable to the City as a guarantee that if the bid is accepted the bidder will execute and file the proper contract and bond within 10 days from the date the lowest responsible bidder's bid is accepted. In case the bidder fails to file such contract and bond within the time set by the City, the check or bid bond shall be forfeited to the City as liquidated damages.

The City reserves the right to reject any and all bids or to accept any bid deemed for the best interests of the City and to waive any informalities in bidding.

Now Summer Storage of winter garments is as easy as ABC. Just use the convenient wardrobe storage service offered by Peerless Launderers and Cleaners.

Phone 733-4428 and Peerless will provide a giant hamper which you can fill with all of the garments you want to store. The filled hamper goes back to the dry cleaner where all garments are removed, dry-cleaned, hung on individual hangers and stored in a guarded storage vault.

The storage facilities are state licensed, inspected and approved.

There is nothing to pay until fall when your garments are returned clean and safe, freshly pressed and ready to use. Peerless cleaning makes colors sparkle, restores the original body and drape to any fabric.

The bright and fresh as new garments are safely stored away, protected against moths, fire and theft.

Shown here is the fleet of Peerless trucks, ready for service at the ring of the phone . . . or you may drop off your cleaning at any one of the six convenient locations provided by Peerless. They are at 307 E. College Ave.. 518 W. College Ave., 200 W. Wisconsin Ave., 1724 W. Wisconsin Ave., Valley Fair shopping center and South Side Plaza. (Adv.)

Watchman Walter Kronberg, of Merchants Police, local protection service and home and office alarm firm, inspects the main floor of the new Gimbels Fox Cities store in Appleton. Merchants Police, 1405 So. VanDyke road, Appleton, can provide trained armed guards or watchman service to local businesses, industries and factory-complexes on a regular shift or temporary basis. Phone number at Merchants Police is 739-9351. (Adv.)

Watchmen hired through the local service can check for fire hazards, electrical equipment shut-off, boiler systems and heating irregularities: they see anything unusual in the physical environment in the area they patrol. Where industrial complexes have too many doors to make installing burglar alarms practical, the mere presence of the guard discourages vandalism and theft.

In a large store or shopping center, according to George D. Louden, Merchants Police manager, they are a deterrent to persons hiding in the store before closing hours and coming out later after making a burglary. Watchmen tour the entire assigned premises and become immediately aware of "anything different." A watchman assigned to a shopping center can monitor or inspect many stores during his working hours.

Temporary Work, Too

Besides being assigned on a regular shift basis, temporary watchman service by trained personnel is generally available on a 2-hour notice, even if such a guard is only needed for one or two nights, says Louden, giving the example of a store whose window is broken by car crash or vandalism, allowing too — convenient access to the inside over a short period of time. Overnight or over a weekend — you can still get trained men on call for as short a time as 12 hours work.

All record keeping, workmen's compensation, social security and hospitalization and vacations — all personnel responsibilities — are assumed by Merchants Police. Accounts are billed only for the actual number of hours worked by the guard, Louden points out.

Electronic Systems

Merchants Police also specializes in small electronic alarm systems for homes and small offices, or for offices within a store or factory. The number to call for further information on either watchman service or electronic alarm installations is 739-9351, a 24-hour answering number. (Adv.)

Guest Day Events on Golf Club Calendars

Looking Over Some of the prizes which were awarded after the guest day event at Riverview Country Club are Mrs. Ron Hoffman, Mrs. Glen Clark, Neenah, and Mrs. Gordon Kettering, Neenah. At right, Mrs. Wayne Fetters and Mrs. James Wrase watch as Mrs. Al Poellinger prepares to tee off at Ridgeway. All of the women are from Neenah. (Post-Crescent Photos)

It was a guest event at Riverview Country Club Friday that saw women teeing off in competition for the best scores of the day. Luncheon was also on the agenda.

Lee Parker had the longest drive; Pat Clark came closest to the pin, and Priscilla Nealey and Grace Davis tied for low putts. Low net went to Delores Bylewski and the mystery event saw Betty Boettge and Mary Walker in a tie.

The evening group at Ridgeway Country Club had their guest day Tuesday with tee-off slated at 1 p.m.

Guest and member winners included Mrs. Bea Laeyendecker and Mrs. F. N. Simonis, shortest drive on No. 1; Mrs. Erwin Fenner and Mrs. J. N. Herzfeldt, longest putt on No. 4; Mrs. James DeWolf and Mrs. Donald Ripple, closest to pin on No. 8; Mrs. Dorothy Roeck and Mrs. Eugene Sage, longest drive on No. 10; Mrs. Edward Jandrey and Mrs. Ray Manthey, closest to pin on drive on No. 13, and Mrs. Louis Haase and Mrs. Floyd Wambold, longest putt on No. 15. Approaches were sunk by Mrs. Milton Benner, Mrs. Arthur Bobb and Mrs. Duane Boyd.

President is Mrs. Herbert Pagel; vice president, Mrs. Martin Hupka, and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Robert Lampman.

Mrs. Allan Mulder and Mrs. Carl Koletzke select clubs as they prepare to begin play on the Ridgeway course. Below, Mrs. E. R. Mikros and Mrs. Charles Holmes use a quick method of transportation as they move about the Riverview nine.

Social Security Woman's Friend

NEW YORK — Many women feel they're not getting a fair shake in this world, but at least the Social Security Administration is rooting for them. As one government official puts it, "Social Security is doing as much — or more — for women as for men."

According to Hyman H. Siegel, district manager of the downtown office here, women workers are entitled to the same Social Security benefits as men, but theirs are arrived at differently — and to their advantage. The formula for figuring out a man's retirement checks is based on age 65, while the one for a woman is based on age 62. "This adds up to proportionately higher benefits for the woman," Mr. Siegel says.

A Woman's Option

What's more, a working widower, father or ex-husband gets no special consideration under Social Security, but a widow, mother or ex-wife does, even if she's never been gainfully employed. If she's widowed, for example, she can receive 82 ½ per cent of her husband's beneifts, starting at age 62. (She can, if she chooses, receive these when she's 60, although at a reduced rate.)

A divorced woman, Mr. Siegel comments, is not out in the cold either — provided her marriage lasted 20 years and she was supported by her husband. If that ex-husband dies, she's eligible for the same widow's benefits as though the marriage had continued. Or if he retires, she becomes eligible for half his benefits when she reaches 65. (If she elects to take them at age 62, she gets them at a reduced rate.) And should the woman remarry, she'll be eligible for either her new or her ex-husband's retirement and death benefits. "In other words," Mr. Siegel observes, "she can select the arrangement that's best for her, and we'll do what we can to see that she gets it."

Although most people believe that Social Security is exclusively for the old, this is only part of the story. Young widows with children can be eligible and they can even work part-time if they like. If the widow's husband was covered by Social Security, she and her family will be entitled to benefits until the children are 18. If the youngsters stay in school fulltime after that, they can receive student benefits until they're 22 years old.

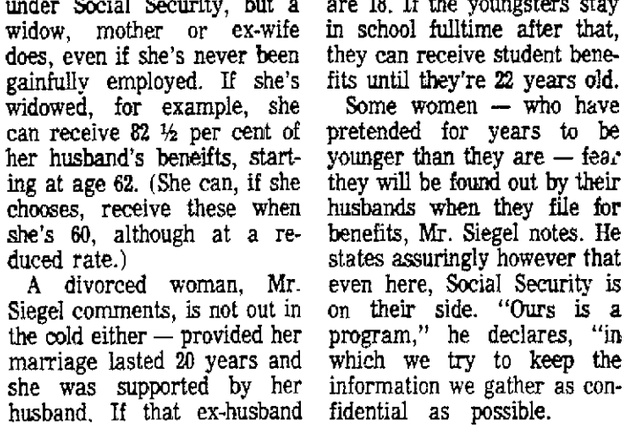

Some women — who have pretended for years to be younger than they are — fear they will be found out by their husbands when they file for benefits, Mr. Siegel notes. He states assuringly however that even here, Social Security is on their side. "Ours is a program," he declares, "in which we try to keep the information we gather as confidential as possible.

Family Council Adjourned

BY ERMA BOMBECK

When we made plans to move, it occurred to us to discuss it with our children. We knew our older son would follow the refrigerator into combat if he had to. Our daughter makes her residence behind the wheel of a compact, so it was just a matter of finding a home for her mouthwash. And we had raised our younger son with a two-word philosophy, "Trust us."

Then, a woman at the dry cleaners said, "I cannot believe you did not call a family council and discuss it with your children. Moving from one state to another is a traumatic experience. Moving a child against his will often makes a psychological imprint that is difficult to heal."

I don't know about you," I said as we gathered around the dining room table, "But I feel like Ozzie and Harriet voting on whether or not to have the fruit punch or the Shirley Temple fizzie at the fraternity house sock hop."

My husband cleared his throat, "I suppose you wonder why I have gathered you all together. We are moving in a few weeks and wanted to encourage some discussion on it."

My son ate an apple noisily (core and all) and said it was all right with him and left. My daughter asked us to leave the new address in the sun visor of the car and made her exit. Our youngest son said simply, "I'm not going."

"Whatya mean you're not going!" we shouted.

"I've thought it over," he said, "And I've got too much going for me here. My friends ... my school ... my paper route."

"But where would you live?" we asked.

"I could get an apartment.

"A 12-year-old in an apartment! You can't even ride your bike across the highway."

"I thought family councils were supposed to be democratic," he said.

"They are," barked his father, "and if you still have relatives living in town you want to see again, be quiet."

"You and your crummy democratic way," I said. "I told you it wouldn't work."

His father took a deep breath and steadied himself against the table. "As council president, I move to motion that discussion on the matter of moving be closed and any objections must be submitted in writing before the next council meeting which has been indefinitely suspended. The family council is adjourned."

We both sat there. "Wonder what a psychological imprint looks like?" I asked my husband.

"I don't know," he said, "The only thing I can remember is a hand imprint on my hindside that stayed red for a year and a half. It's probably the same thing."

Beauty on Stage at Oshkosh Pageant

OSHKOSH, Wis. (AP) — The annual Miss Wisconsin pageant concluded another round of preliminary judging Thursday night with a talent award going to Miss Stevens Point, Patricia Jacobs.

Singing and Dancing took the talent award Thursday evening for Miss Stevens Point, Patricia Jacobs, in evening gown at right, and Connie Hays, Portage, won the swimsuit judging. Your Problems

He Has Material Items, No Conversation

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I started a letter to you a couple of hours ago. I left it on my desk after writing only a few lines. My dad walked by and saw it. He said in a half-kidding way. "I see you are writing to Ann Landers. I can't imagine what you have to complain about." I didn't answer. At the dinner table he started again — "Don't forget when you criticize your parents to Ann Landers, be sure to tell her you have your telephone, that we remodeled your bedroom and put in a stereo. Be sure to mention that we promised you a trip to Europe next summer after graduation."

It's funny, I was going to mention all those things — in a different context. My whole life seems to be things, things, things — and more things. I'd gladly give up all the things if my parents would only treat me like an adult. I can't recall ever having had a real conversation with either of them. I guess this is my problem, Ann Landers What's the solution? — Too Much and Too Little

Dear Too: I gather you are about 17 — and this is pretty late to try to initiate your first real conversation with your parents. From your father's remarks, I assume you two are operating on different wavelengths.

Parents who believe a stereo and a trip to Europe are where it's at are a sad lot. Unfortunately, they become sadder as time goes on and they realize they have no relationship with their children.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Should I continue to remain friendly with a person who is in desperate need of professional help — even though the relationship is threatening my own emotional balance? This person keeps me on the phone for hours and the conversations usually end with her screaming and hanging up on me.

I feel sorry for her, but I fear for my own mental health. Sometimes, after a particularly stormy session, it takes days before I am able to regain my sense of balance. If, in your opinion, I should discontinue the relationship, please tell me how to show this person I wish her well. — A.T.H.

Dear A.T.H.: You can best help you friend by suggesting the names of two or three doctors who have helped others.

Only an extremely stable person can tolerate the abuse of a sick person without feeling hurt or resentful. You obviously cannot handle it, and you should not try.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please tell me what is wrong with people who do not answer letters. I have called friends long distance after extended periods of silence, just to see if they are all right. On the phone they say, "I'll put a letter in the mail today" — but they don't.

This has happened to me so many times I have just about lost my faith in people. I enjoy writing letters To me, it's the next best thing to conversation. I can't understand why, at this very moment, at least 15 people owe me letters. Why are so many people slobs? — A Mystery Wrapped in an Enigma

Dear Wrapped: Not all derelict correspondents are slobs. Some are rather nice folks who are unsure of their spelling, their penmanship, or grammar — or they re-read a letter after having written it, and it sounds dumb, or illiterate, so they decide no letter at all would be better than what they've written. Reserve judgment honey, because you never know why people don't write.

Give in or lose him. . .when a guy gives you this line, look out! For tips on how to handle the super sex salesman, check Ann Landers. Read her booklet, "Necking and Petting — What Are the Limits?" Send your request to Ann Landers in care of The Post-Crescent, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Vet Finds Her Vocation Good

BY CINDY POND
Journal-Gazette Writer

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — Soothing an ailing animal, setting a painful broken leg and supplying a sick pet with life-giving medicine are what it's all about for Dr. Nancy Noak, one of only two female veterinarians practicing in Fort Wayne.

"I think the main thing is the satisfaction in helping somebody that has a problem, and, too, fixing something that comes back to normal is a deep satisfaction," the petite strawberry blonde noted. "When you can give somebody back a healthy dog . . .

"There are times when I feel a great deal of empathy for them, like if a cute little puppy comes in, and he's really sick," Dr. Noak went on. "This kind of gets to you. It kind of pulls at your heart strings."

The young Purdue University graduate remarked about her chosen profession, "It's a lot of hours and sometimes the work is hard, but it's a good field for a girl to go into. It's really not as hard as it used to be. With specializing you can take just one field and work with that."

Why do so few women choose to go into veterinary medicine? "It's because of the hours you have to put in," the doctor explained. "They get kind of long, and six years is a long time to go to school. The studies, the long hours and hard work keep them out of the field."

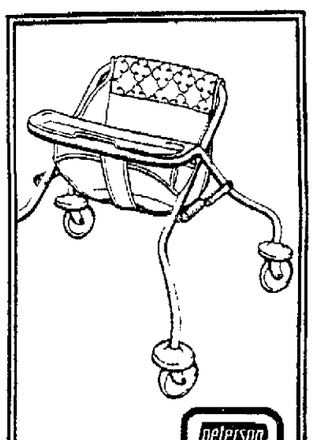

Discrimination from male doctors, she feels, depends on how well a woman is able to get along with her associates. "You have to show them you can do the work. You just have to pitch in."

A native of Chicago, Dr. Noak decided at an early age veterinary medicine would be her career. "That's the one thing I had always wanted to do," she remembered. "In grammar school I was one of the fortunate few who knew what they wanted to do.

Blind Woman Shows Humor, Courage

By FRANCES McCOY
Omaha World Writer

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Would you believe blindness can be a laughing matter?

Those who've met Mrs. Stanley Yank, who lost her sight when she was in college, know this can be so.

In her capacity as a teacher for the Nebraska Division of Rehabilitation Services for the Visually Impaired, she helps other blind people orient themselves to a world in which touch, balance and hearing must take over the functions of the eyes. When she talks to a group of sighted people, she invariably leaves them laughing.

Her humor does not mean she lacks sympathy. She remembers all too well her own frustrations when she had to face the fact that the light was going out for her.

"My last semester in college, I had to use the services of a reader, although I could still see enough to get around.

"I had a special aversion to learning Braille," she recalls. "Mainly because it meant a definite label of blindness. I got over this when I realized I could look up address indices if I could do them in Braille."

Teaches Braille

That was 17 years ago. Today Mrs. Yank teaches Braille, along with other skills the blind need to operate in a seeing society, like phone dialing, orientation, mobility, homemaking skills, table techniques, grooming, and how to distinguish and use money.

"Almost anybody whose other faculties are normal can be rehabilitated, as far as personal independence is concerned, in about a year," she said.

She explained that every blind person has a set of individual problems that depend on where and how he lives and on other members of the family who often, out of sympathy tend to coddle him.

"He has to learn not to let them," she said. "I think as a teacher I am part bully, part clown and part counselor.

"The old saw about the blind leading the blind has some merit. They know I'm not trying to get them to do things I can't do myself. The counseling part is pretty important, especially to a man who has to adjust to temporary dependency after having been the breadwinner and head of the house."

Mrs. Yank met her husband, who also is blind, when she was teaching a class on travel skills in Lincoln. "His blindness had come more gradually than mine," said Mrs. Yank. "He had a pigment problem that was thought to be inherited. I helped him with Braille and with the cane bit. And they still kid me in Lincoln about making off with their star pupil."

The Yanks have a sighted daughter, Shelly, and they have an attractive home. In her kitchen, Mrs. Yank demonstrated her ability to cope in much the same way as anybody else.

"We don't need much gadgetry really," she said. "We just have to learn some techniques." Her push-button electric stove offers no problems. "You learn to put a pan on a cold burner in order to get it placed right, then turn on the heat."

She has Braille cookbooks and Braille labels on her spices. One knife is attached to a sort of gauge that enables her to slice bread straight. Her ruler has notches cut at one-inch intervals.

She can operate an electric rotisserie by touch. She has dots of glue applied to the dial at intervals, with corresponding dots outside the dial. These dots, once dry are covered with clear nail polish, leaving little Braille-like protrusions for her sensitive fingers to find.

"We try not to lean on Shelly too much because she will be living in the sighted world and we don't want to weigh her down with our modifications," Mrs. Yank said. "But she does have one important household job—reading our mail to us."

Couples Step Into Matrimony

Landreman-Calmes

KAUKAUNA — St. Mary Catholic Church was the setting Saturday when Margaret Mary Landreman and Theodore J. Calmes repeated nuptial vows.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Landreman, 426 Brill St., and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Calmes, 314 N. Lawe St., Appleton.

Miss Sally Landreman and David Gelbke were honor attendants. Misses Anne and Kristine Landreman were bridesmaids and Dick Weisgerber and Robert Schoutz, groomsmen. Lynn Landreman was junior bridal attendant.

Terry and Tom Calmes seated guests, whom the couple greeted later at Oakwood Hills Supper Club, Combined Locks. After a wedding trip to Canada, they will reside in Appleton.

Kauss-Freckmann

TIGERTON — Sally Ann Kauss and Robert Walter Freckmann repeated wedding promises Saturday at St. John Lutheran Church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kauss, route 1, and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Freckmann, Germantown.

Miss Kathy Kauss was maid of honor with Miss Nancy Kauss, Mrs. Fred Anklam and Mrs. Darryl Rohlinger as bridesmaids.

Best man, Gerald Freckmann Jr., Sessex, was accompanied by Frank Haeni, Fred Anklam and Darryl Rohlinger. Guests were seated by Elmer Michaelis Jr. and Dennis Libian.

The couple greeted guests at the Tigerton Dells, before leaving on a wedding trip to the eastern states. They will reside in Whiting.

Mr. and Mrs. David Pope, Appleton, left, get acquainted with Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Plamann, Black Creek, at a dinner honoring foster parents.

Foster Parents Honored

District Attorney James Long was guest speaker Tuesday night when the foster parents of Outagamie County were honored at a dinner at the Knights of Columbus Club.

Mr. Long's comments provided an insight into the office he holds. He answered the two most common questions the average person has about the district attorney. What is the district attorney's office, and what does it do?

Long said his job is to represent the state of Wisconsin in all criminal actions it takes against county residents. He stressed that he is not the attorney you go to if you don't want to pay for the services. But if you have a problem and don't know where else to go, his office can direct you to the proper agency.

Mr. Long outlined the steps of a criminal court action to demonstrate to the foster parents why it takes so long after a person is arrested before he is brought to trial. A speedy trial may not always be in the best interest of the community. His job is to "put the right person in jail." He feels it is worse to leave the wrong person loose.

His description of the juvenile court system was of special interest to many of the parents who house teenagers. The corporation council handles the juvenile cases. The district attorney's office does not prosecute juveniles.

True Grit Gets Job as Caddy

BUFFALO (AP) — One day last January the telephone rang in Jim Eldridge's office and a voice said. "I'm 16, like golf and want to become a caddy."

The head pro at the exclusive Park Country Club in suburban Williamsville replied, "Okay, be there at 4:30 May 1 when we start our caddy school."

The day arrived and Eldridge saw Joanne Markiewicz, a 5-foot-8½-inch, 135-pounder walk into the office.

"I nearly fell over when she said she was the one who called about the caddy's job," he recalls. "I never dreamed the call was from a girl.

"I was so amazed, I said I'd have to think it over. A couple of days later I told her it still was okay for her to attend caddy school."

Eldridge says Joanne never missed the twice-a-week sessions throughout May.

"Joanne learned quickly and well all the things a good caddy must know and do," Eldridge says.

"This includes raking traps after sand shots, attending the flag, watching the ball in flight and where it lands, taking care not to step on the putting line of a golfer on the green, promptness in handing over the right club and washing the golf ball when needed."

Joanne passed her tests with flying colors. When she toted her first 30-pound bag of clubs she was paid $4 for an 18-hole round.

"There's nothing boring about caddying," Joanne says. "And there's nothing unusual about girl caddies—they have them in Japan and France."

Joanne, long interested in sports, took a liking to golf three years ago when she played a par-3 course.

"Last winter I took lessons for six weeks at the Downtown YMCA," she says. "I haven't played much golf, but I love it. My ambition is to become a good golfer."

Some of the Park Club members asked, "What's that girl doing over there?" when they first spotted Joanne on the caddy bench awaiting a call.

Later the question to caddymaster Butch Davies became, "May I have that girl to caddy? I hear she's very good."

"Joanne's the best caddy I've ever had," says lawyer Ralph Gregg.

No Frame Needed for Ne w Chair Design

A Lounge Chair, made without wood or metal, is one of the new designs in furniture being shown this week at the annual summer International Home Furnishings Market in Chicago. The chair is made of polyurethane foam and dacron and is named "Orsula" by designer Gasone Rinaldi of Padova, Italy. Nancy Brady of New York calls attention to the leather texture of the chair's expanded vinyl covering. (AP Wirephoto)

Latex paint may not make the actual house painting easier, but the clean-up is wonderfully simple. After squeezing excess paint from brushes or rollers in water, get them really clean and softly flexible by washing in a pail of warm suds. Rinse again and hang to dry, bristles down for brushes.

City Officials Study Plan To Recycle Waste Materials

Some Appleton officials believe it may be possible for the city to play a role in channeling some kinds of solid waste back into usefulness, rather than the customary dead-end at the city disposal site.

Ald. Judith Winzenz (12th) and the Public Works Department have been thinking along the same lines, it was revealed today.

Mrs. Winzenz has filed a resolution calling on the city to "begin a recycling program of glass, cans and newsprint, either on a voluntary or mandatory basis."

She noted in the proposal, filed with City Clerk Elden Broehm on Thursday, that "the city's continued practice of burying our natural resources is both wasteful and harmful."

Meanwhile, public works officials revealed this morning that their department already has begun a study of how the city might help get waste materials to brokers who in turn would deliver them to manufacturers for reclaiming.

Public Works Director Robert Miller confirmed the possibility has been under study, as a result of recent efforts by students and other citizen groups to collect cans, bottles or paper and return them for reprocessing.

One project was suspended by local students, but citizens continued to deposit cans and bottles at local Goodwill Industries collection stations in shopping center parking lots.

Since no one was taking the materials from the deposit stations to the brokers, the waste piled up and constituted a health hazard and an eyesore. The public works department agreed to collect the materials and haul them to the city's landfill site, but also began weighing the possibility of a city-sponsored collection program.

The City Council would have to approve any such program using public vehicles or city employes, and Miller said his department hasn't yet come up with a recommendation.

He said major questions at present center on the local and physical appearance of drop-off points were citizens would bring waste for recycling and where city crews would collect the materials for hauling to brokers.

But he said if such a plan is instituted it probably would continue to require citizens to clean and flatten cans and remove labels and then bring them to special collection sites.

Miller listed several factors that would make it impractical to combine the recycling program with regular house-to-house refuse collections.

Mrs. Winzenz also noted in her resolution that citizen groups have shown an interest in recycling and individuals have proven willing to prepare waste materials for separate handling.

She also noted that the proposal becomes possible because collection points have been set up nearby apparently a reference to stations such as those that have been established by can manufacturers in the Fox Valley.

Lawrence Economist Begins Study on Private Education

A Lawrence University economist has begun a study which will attempt to shed some light on the central question in private education today: Are private colleges and universities pricing themselves out of business?

Associate Professor James D. Dana will work under a $12,750 federal grant provided through the Office of Education of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Dana will analyze the specific problem of whether private colleges and universities are maintaining their relative competitive position for qualified students or losing their ground to public institutions.

"Analysis of the problem through typical economic methods presents insurmountable obstacdles," Dana said, "not only because of the nature of the product but because of the rapid rise in demand for higher education during the 60's.

"If there was a relative loss in the competitive character of private education during the 60's, it may have been obscured by the sheer number of people seeking college educations.

Financial Crisis

"Private colleges and universities are in the midst of a financial crisis," Dana pointed out. "Faced with a continuing upward spiral of costs, student fees at such institutions already have been increased substantially and even the most favorable estimates clearly indicate a need for a continued rise in tuition.

"At this point, however, we don't know if we are actually losing our competitive position or if in fact there really is a problem in obtaining qualified students. If my research indicates a shift in demand away from private education, then we can expect an acceleration of the crisis as the increase in the number of persons seeking higher educations beginning to taper off."

Dana's approach will be to focus attention on changes in the quality of students as measured in profiles of freshman classes provided through published data of the College Entrance Examination Board. He will compare the actual student profiles with the expected profiles of a large number of colleges and universities.

"If the actual profiles with the expected profiles of a large number of colleges and universities, then a case could be made that the competitive nature of private education has worsened," he said.

"Normally, when the number of people seeking higher educations increases more rapidly than the size of the institutions, the expected profiles of entering freshman classes would improve. "That is because there would be a larger number of higher caliber students applying for admission, allowing the university to select better students. If there isn't any improvement, it could be assumed that the total demand for private education is declining."

Cause to be Sought

Dana said if a decline has occured, a number of variables will also be taken into consideration in his study to find the causes for decline. Among the variables will be cost of tuition relative to public institutions, quality of teaching as measured by ratio of Ph. D.'s and faculty-student ratios, per capita income, financial aid, proximity to metropolitan areas, and the size of the school. Also to be considered will be such factors as coeducation, religious affiliation, and the nature of the institution.

"My research is not designed to contribute directly to a solution of the major problem in private education today," Dana said. "Instead, it attempts to determine whether a paricular problem exists. Such an analysis is critical before solutions can be posed.

"Better that we be forewarned."

Airport Manager Resigns

Charles L. Olson has submitted his resignation as manager of the Outagamie County Airport.

The resignation is effective July 31, according to Supv. Richard Jahnke of Appleton, chairman of the county board's airport committee.

According to Jahnke, who disclosed the resignation late this morning, Olson did not state his reason for leaving the part-time job he has held for four years. Olson could not be reached for comment.

His resignation was not unexpected, however. Earlier this week he declined comment on a resignation report that made its way to the county board floor while supervisors were holding their June meeting.

Olson's resignation was requested last month by County Executive Alvin E. Woehler after Woehler informed the airport committee that he was not considering Olson for appointment as port manager next month. Woehler is expected to submit his choice for manager to the county board at its July 13 meeting. He has not revealed the candidate's name.

There has been a growing conflict between Olson and Woehler for some time.

Woehler last month denied that his refusal to appoint Olson as port manager was connected with the April county executive election campaign that saw Woehler defeat Dist. Atty. James R. Long.

Woehler had indicated that Olson appeared to have been supporting Long, but Olson denied backing either candidate. He admitted he had been invited to an election party by Long.

Jahnke said Olson's notice of resignation, believed to have been submitted Wednesday, was "very short." Jahnke said he would place it on file with County Clerk Arthur Hoolihan for reading at the July 13 board meeting. It was not clear why the resignation announcement was delayed until today.

Jahnke said he intends to withhold comment on the resignation until it is discussed at the next airport committee meeting, the week of July 5.

It was no secret that some committeemen did not support Olson's intention to resign.

Olson, 52, is a native of St. Paul. He held a number of automotive and aircraft related jobs, most of them in Minnesota, before opening Appleton Beechcraft Corp. and becoming a fixed base operator in Appleton in 1967.

When he was hired by the county he worked as half-time airport manager. The job then became three-fourths time and, although the board decided to make it full time since Jan. 1, Olson has continued to be paid on a three-quarter time basis.

Woehler has opposed making the job full time.

Fire Victims At Seymour Need Goods

SEYMOUR — Donations of clothing, furniture and housewares are being collected for the Harvey Schroeder family, route 1, whose home was destroyed by an explosion and fire Wednesday noon.

Items may be deposited at the Seymour State Bank or at the Red Cross office in Appleton. Donations also are being accepted at the First National Bank of Seymour and St. John Catholic Church and Emanuel Lutheran Church here.

A fund has been started for the family at the Seymour State Bank.

Mrs. Schroeder and a son, Paul, are in fair condition at Theda Clark Memorial Hospital, Neenah. Mrs. Schroeder has first and second degree burns to the upper portions of her body and Paul has third degree burns to his arms and face.

Four other Schroeder children were treated for minor cuts and bruises at the Neenah hospital and released.

The explosion followed the leakage of liquefied propane gas from a basement storage tank.

Two Leaders Of 'DRUMS' Sent to Jail

SHAWANO, Wis. (AP) — Two leaders of an Indian protest group, accused of encouraging an attempted invasion of a real estate office to protest former reservation land sales, were sentenced to jail Thursday.

Judge James A. Martineau ordered Laurel Otradavec of Appleton and Lloyd Powless of Milwaukee to spend 12 days behind bars for violating his restraining order against disruptive protest demonstrations Memorial Day.

Otradavec is president of the Menominee chapter of Determination of Rights and Unity of Menominee Stockholders (DRUMS). The group is fighting a Menominee-owned housing project at Legend Lake, whose homesites are being sold to non-Indians.

Otradavec and Powless, Chairman of DRUMS' Milwaukee chapter, invoked the Fifth Amendment 19 times during Thursday's contempt hearing in Circuit Court.

Martineau ad ordered DRUMS not to let picketing get out of hand.

Otradavec and Powless were accused of violating the order by encouraging pickets to block traffic and to try to force their way into a Legend Lake real estate office.

Ferber School Referendum Meeting Set

A special meeting of the Appleton School District's fiscal control board has been called for early next month to consider a referendum on a proposed $1.6 million bond issue to finance construction of the proposed Edna Ferber Elementary School.

Mayor George Buckley asked City Clerk Elden Broehm to call the special meeting Thursday. Broehm issued a notice setting the session at 6:30 p.m. July 7 at City Hall.

The mayor wrote Broehm, "In the past few weeks I have received numerous telephone and personal requests plus one written request to put the bond issue for the new Edna Ferber School to a referendum."

He asked Broehm to call the special fiscal board meeting "in view of the fact that this is obviously not my decision to make" and "in order that the members of the board may make the decision."

The board consists of Appleton's 20 aldermen and the chairmen of the four towns that lie in the school district.

At least one local citizen, Mrs. Janet Van Asten, an unsuccessful candidate last spring for election to the school board, has subbested dropping plans for the new school in favor of instituting a television education system using local cable television that is to be installed in the next two years.

The Ferber school is proposed for a site near Einstein Junior High School. The school board plans to open construction bids soon.

Ceremony Saturday

LU to be Historical Site

"Lawrence University, chartered Jan. 15, 1847, has admitted women to its student body from the day classes started Nov. 12, 1849, in the original Academy or Institute. The first collegiate class of seven students — four men and three women — was graduated in July, 1857, thereby making Lawrence University the first coeducational institution of higher learning in the State of Wisconsin.

These words are on the official Wisconsin Landmark Site marker that will be dedicated in public ceremony at 11 a.m. Saturday at the ninth annual meeting of the historical societies in the Winnebagoland Region of the Wisconsin Council for Local History.

Outagamie County Historical Society, in its centennial year, is host to the regional group which meets at Conway Motor Inn all day Saturday. The Outagamie society, as its major centennial activity, is responsible for marking the Lawrence site. The University, known in the 1850s as the "College in the wilderness, was the beginning of what is today the City of Appleton.

Outagamie Society President Francis Sumnicht and Dr. S. F. Darling, chairman of the historical centennial sites committee, will make the presentation of the marker at its permanent location, on the College Avenue side of Lawrence University Library, between Union and Lawe Streets.

The regional meeting opens at 9 a.m. with registration and brunch at the Conway. A historical bus trip has been scheduled at 9:45 a.m. for the local history society members going to the Dard Hunter Paper Museum at The Institute of Paper Chemistry. The Institute and its museum received a certificate of merit last week at the La Crosse meeting of the State Historical Society of Wisconsin.

The group will return to the hotel for the noon luncheon and program. Mrs. Lillian Mackesy, a director of the Outagamie County Historical Society, will speak briefly on the beginnings of the county society.

William J. Schereck, office of local history of the State Historical Society, will be the guest speaker at the luncheon. He will discuss the meaning, organization and goals of a modern local historical society.

Progress reports will be present by representatives of the 14 historical societies in the Winnebagoland Region.

St. Elizabeth Picks Layman as Head

Wilfred F. Loebig

Wilfred F. Loebig Jr. has been named by the St. Elizabeth Hospital Board as the new administrator to replace Sister M. Kathleen Daniel, OSF, who will leave July 1.

Sister Kathleen will remain in hospital work but assume new duties at the order's motherhouse in Wheaton, Ill.

Loebig is a native of Wesley, Iowa. He attended Loras College, Dubuque, and received a bachelor of science degree in commerce with a major in accounting in 1958 from the University of Iowa, Iowa City.

Two years later he received a masters degree in hospital administration from the same school.

Air Force Service

In 1961 he entered the Air Force and was a Medical Service Corps officer. Most of his three years were spent at Canon Air Force Base in Clovis, N.M.

In December, 1963, Loebig returned to civilian life and accepted the post of associate administrator of a hospital in Fort Dodge, Iowa, until he accepted the administratorship at St. Elizabeth.

Loebig is the first layman to hold the top position at St. Elizabeth since its founding in 1898.

He is married and he and Mrs. Loebig are the parents of four children. He is a member of the American College of Hospital Administrators, and the American Hospital Association. He has been active in community affairs and was a member of the United Fund, Red Cross, and YMCA boards and was on the State (Iowa) Volunteer Health Planning Council, a six-county local planning group.

New Facilities

Sister Kathleen has been at St. Elizabeth for more than 10 years. Under her leadership, new facilities and services were added as part of a $9.5 million modernization and expansion program.

Bed capacity was increased to 320 beds with 700 employes. Under her direction, a change in overall hospital administration was made from a purely religious-supervised facility to its present operation under the control of a lay and sister board of directors.

Before Sister Kathleen's arrival in Appleton, she worked as an accountant in the business department of St. Joseph Hospital in Milwaukee.

Dairy Honors Go to Rural Appleton Girl

HILBERT — A route 4, Appleton girl was crowned Thursday night here as the new Calumet County Dairy Queen.

Frances Renn, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Renn, received her crown at the annual cheese derby night from last year's queen, Ruth Krause, route 1, Menasha.

Miss Renn will participate in county activities promoting dairy products for the next year. She received a $25 savings bond.

First runnerup was Linda Ertl, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ertl, route 1. Betty Thiel, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Thiel, route 1, was second runnerup.

Six county girls entered the contest. Orrin Meyer, Calumet County agent, was emcee for the annual event at which some 260 pounds of Wisconsin natural cheese, donated by Calumet County cheesemakers, was given away.

Judges for the queen contest were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McMahon, Oshkosh, and Dennis Jacobson, agriculture teacher at New Holstein.

City Directory Now Available

KAUKAUNA — Pocket city directories for 1971-72 have been printed and are available upon request from Karl E. Marzahl, city clerk.

The directories list public officials, elected and appointed, names of police and firemen, various commissions and committees, state and federal officials, county officials, various boards and council committees.

It also outlines rules of the council, general charter law, council calendar, departmental and committee functions, departmental phone numbers, bonded indebtedness, estimated population and valuation.

The Weed Is Not Marijuana

WAUPACA — The rumor that there was a big crop of marijuana growing on the site of last year's People's Fair, five miles northwest of Iola, was squelched Thursday by Sheriff Loran Frazier and Sheriff Nick Check, Portage County.

On Tuesday a Green Bay television station raised the question, "Is there a big crop of marijuana growing at the rock fest site north of Iola?" Pictures were shown of a three-foot tall plant with serrated leaves and bearing white blossoms.

There were no botanists available to identify the weed until Thursday, but some avid amateurs said they knew it was marijuana, while others speculated that it was wild parsnip.

Frazier, who with Check has kept the site under close surveillance for the past 12 months, agreed to have it checked out.

He called in forester Hugh Hayes since Joe Walker, county agent, was away on vacation. Hayes, who readily admitted he knew very little about herbaceous plants, was willing to try, so he and Kenneth Halverson, soil conservationist, joined Frazier in the "grass" hunt.

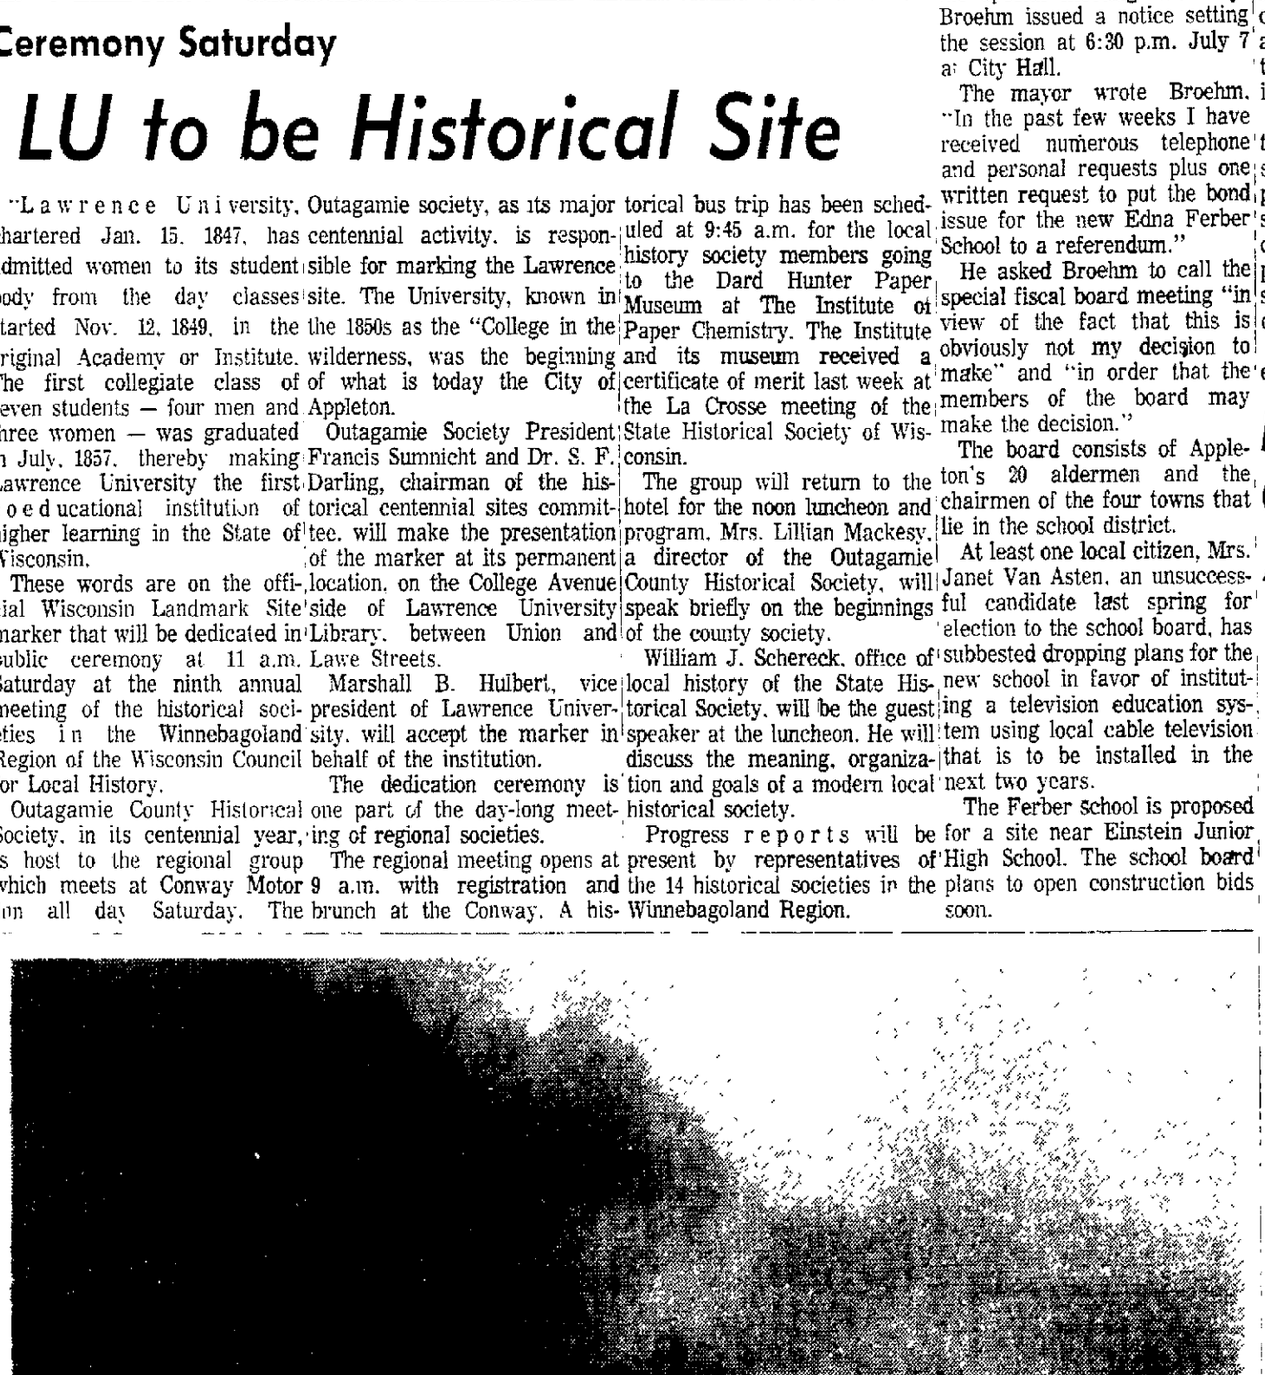

Good for Nothing

The questionable crop was identified as upright cinquefoil, known to the botanist as potentilla-recta. Hayes said that it is related to the rose family and that the leaves have the same number of divisions as marijuana, but it is good for nothing.

Frazier, who said he was sure residents would be relieved to know that "grass" was not going to be harvested at the rock fest site, pointed out that marijuana does grow wild in several places in the county, but would not guess what grade of "pot" it would provide.

This marijuana rumor has been the latest in a long list of public concerns about the site since the People's Fair was held there last June. Steps were taken by officials to stop another such fest advertised for this coming weekend at Iola.

Frazier said, "I still get the feeling that there's something going on — but we can't pinpoint it." Meanwhile, the Portage and Waupaca counties sheriffs' department are on constant alert.
